

Chapter 1 : Learn 48 Languages Online for Free | Open Culture

Margaret Brinton's Little Language Lessons is a perfect resource book for grade students. I am a private tutor and use this book for my young students. They learn the words by encountering them in context and by doing the exercises.

What is Live Lingua A traditional language school We have not discovered the undiscovered secret to language learning like some other services claim. We are more traditional than that. Our method of language learning is old, even ancient. It is the same way the ancient Chinese and Romans learned other languages. It is the same way diplomats from hundreds of years ago learned. They took lessons from professional teachers who were native speakers of the language they wanted to learn. That is what we do here at Live Lingua. Live Lingua is a traditional language school, which just happens to be online. Just like the top language institutes in your town we have live teachers. Just like your local school we have real people to help you with any administrative problems. And just like your neighborhood school we provide real, lasting results A family owned and operated business. Live Lingua was started by a husband and wife team of Laura and Ray Blakney. And we keep our team as small as possible without sacrificing the quality of service we give to our students. This allows us to know all our students, and keep our prices down. These days being a small business run by a family is sometimes portrayed as a bad thing in the press. Everybody is talking about the new multi-million dollar company and their great products. But here at Live Lingua we believe that for some things there is still no replacement for the personal touch. Some people may remember the days when you used to be able to go to the store in the corner, run by a family, where they knew your name when you walked in. A place where they knew what you needed and more than willing to go the extra mile for your personal needs. Live Lingua was founded with that ideal and philosophy in mind. What is our secret? We are a small business, and proud of it! They think we are a large and soulless multinational that started with millions of dollars in investment and backing. That could not be farther from the truth. They ask us, "how did a small business become one of the most well known names in online education? Most of our competitors have one goal. Get as many students as possible. Whether or not the student actually learns a language or not is secondary. And to be honest, we started Live Lingua with the same misguided goal. They liked the personalized attention. The fact that almost every staff member at Live Lingua knew their names and their need even if they had never met before. So, we took that to heart and made the decision to go in another direction from everybody else. We work to have only the number of teachers we need, and make sure that each and every one of them is the best. We keep track of all our students progress and make ourselves available for your needs. This applies to everybody from the teachers to the CEO. And we make it our mission to make sure you learn the language you set out to learn. Ask those places with tens of thousands of students to do that and see what they say! A Software Package We are not a software package that teaches you another language. In fact, we are going to come out and say it. Nobody can really learn a language by interacting with a computer, no matter how much said software spends on marketing. Think about it, if software alone was really an effective way to learn something, we would not need schools and teachers anymore. Live Lingua is not an audio course where you spend hours repeating what a tape, audio file or podcast tells you to. Read and repeat after me. It is the same with language learning. The way to learn anything in life is by working hard and having support from experts and teachers. A Tutor Directory If you are looking for a virtual language tutor, then you have definitely ran across tons of these. These are websites that pride themselves on having thousands, or tens of thousands of tutors for you to choose from. But with so many tutors what are the chances that the one you choose is any good? What happens if you ever want to change tutors? If there is a problem, do you have a personal class coordinator - a live person - who is there to support you? When you try to find a language teacher via an online directory you are flipping a coin. It may work out or it may not. There is no way in guaranteeing that your teacher will be good or stopping them from taking your money and disappearing.

Charlotte Mason Foreign Language Lessons for the Early Years August 7, by Leah Martin 4 Comments
Charlotte Mason recommended that mothers be very intentional about foreign language lessons during the early years. She believed, and modern research confirms, that young children can more easily learn languages than older children and adults. Research also shows that babies who learn more than one language have cognitive benefits. During the early years, Charlotte Mason recommended daily language lessons. There are many modern day resources to help. I notice this with my children. Miss H, five, has a more difficult time mastering the pronunciation of French words than my son, two. As we will see in a bit, she recommended to start with nouns, so if you are not bilingual, this makes it a little easier for you, as well! Review Spend time reviewing past words as well. Teaching words without really mastering them is wasted time. My little nature-lover, learning the French words for tree, trunk, and the sun. The What, When, and Where of Language Lessons – in the meantime, it is so important to keep tongue and ear familiar with French vocabularies, that not a lesson should be omitted. Outside These lessons are beneficial in, but not limited to, the outdoors. Since so much of the early years are spent outside, you can add in language lessons without taking another chunk of time out of your day. Ideas Make a list of words in your language of choice, and head outside, identifying different things that your child is getting familiar with. You can read more about it below! What Language Should You Teach? Many Charlotte Mason families choose to teach their children Spanish. I personally chose to teach my children French at this point because I know a little bit of French. I know zero Spanish. It was easier for me to review French with my children than having to learn an entirely new language! This is my dilemma. Get a language learning app like Duo Lingo and study up. Look over words that you want to teach ahead of time, and get familiar with how they are pronounced. There are 99 words here, so that should give you enough words for almost 30 days of language lessons with your little one! This list is in the free My Little Robins subscriber library. I am going to either laminate the sheets or put them in a page protector so that I can take it outside everyday. You could also just take a screen shot and keep the list handy on your phone! These Charlotte Mason foreign language lessons will be a wonderful part of our informal kindergarten this year!
