How do you mean that? Earn bread or deserve bread? A man may deserve his bread, all the same not be able to earn it. A man who deserves his bread but cannot earn it cannot be condemned. The story tellers; the truth tellers are the least welcome guests at the feast of liars; they have not choice but to go their own way, writing the story. Biographers who stick to the truth are in fact rebels against the cult of falsehood being spread by those keen on showing themselves in the best possible light. Genuine writers always catch at the more depressing aspects of life. Story tellers are not always retailers of truth. Those who get their biographies written by others do not like the ones who make such attempts themselves. Public figures resort to falsehood because they have an image to project. In a great country like India there is a variety of opinion over almost every subject. We are not all regimented into thinking one way. Nor should we be. I object to regimentation and authoritarianism. I want people to develop their own minds and thoughts and to give free expression to them. In the opinion of the author, we must learn to bow to the viewpoint of the majority. The author seems to be an individualist. There is a certain number of swans swimming in a lake.
