Historic - my views just after defecting Church of Scientology January Welcome to my site about my time in Church of Scientology! My name is Robert Dam. I was born in in Denmark. I am married and have two daughters. I write this in English even though most people I know are Danish. What I am about to tell could have the interest of people from other countries and most of my Danish friends anyway speak English pretty well. This is my story for good and bad with the Church of Scientology which I joined in I would like to start with a comment of reading about Scientology on the net. For non-Scientologists entertaining scandals and sci-fi stories are the first thing to capture the eye. This is all kind of informations which mainly originates as a result of all the conflicts following the Scientology organization. The Church of Scientology as it exist today does not anymore practice the original pure Scientology technology as developed by L Ron Hubbard. It practices an altered version. This can be verified simply by going into the bookstore in any Scientology Church and take a look at the books they sell. They are not anymore by L. When comparing the new editions to the originals, one will find several changes from the original writings of L Ron Hubbard, fatal and less fatal. This is also the case for the councelling procedures, training courses etc. These alterations has caused many branches of the subject of Scientology. So while the internet can be entertaining, be aware that a lot of the materials you will find has little to do with the original writings of L Ron Hubbard. For the Scientologist it is a different story. The internet contains advanced levels which you should not read until you are ready for it. I am not saying that you are doomed if you do or anything like that, but if you are following The Bridge as layed out by L. But the internet is also a way of speaking up for the people who has been abandoned. The Church has a practise of declaring SP Suppressive Person anybody who do not conform to Management and who has too many unpleasent questions and insist on answers. People who has been SP declared are not allowed to communicate to other Scientologists. Freedom of speach does not apply within the Church of Scientology to the SP declared person. Somebody who has been a Scientologists for a while will usually have many friends inside the Scientology society and all of a sudden he cannot communicate to them anymore. Deprived his basic Human Rights he seek other ways of communicating and find the internet as the answer. Naturally this is not in the interest of the Church Management, and they have therefore introduced the idea that it is unethical for Scientologists to read about Scientology on the net. They also created a Net Nanny program which install secret blocks of a huge number of critical web sites. Anybody who installed the Net Nanny program was then unable to visit all those sites. Needles to say that Church Management is not at all keen about the internet. Before I go on to my story about my own first hand experiences, I will give you a quotation from L Ron Hubbard about freedom of information: Instead of setting up a new free regime, all they do is use the extant communication lines of despotism in order to rule and govern. Anyone who would recommend the overthrow of a nation by force is a fool. Because no nation is ever overthrown, they are just substituted for. We could, at this time, put together an organization or a group in Scientology sufficiently strong, sufficiently powerful to run over everything it came to. This would be a fascinating thing to do. Be a game in itself. And then someday-me gone, other guys gone-all of a sudden there sits this thing, this organization. And somebody has to rise up and say, "Auditors of the world, unite; overthrow this monster! Now we are free. You must allow me some percentage. And as I look into the future, I see that we are handling here, material of a potential control and command over mankind which must not be permitted at any time to become the monopoly or the tool of the few to the danger and disaster of the many And I believe that the freedom of the material which we know and understand is guaranteed only by a lightness of organization, a maximum of people, good training and good, reliable, sound relay of information. And if we can do these things, we will win. This I am sure, because it has always happened this way. I am not of an inevitable frame of mind Scientology, well understood, is a very powerful thing. Poorly relayed, poorly communicated, monopolized or used exclusively for gain, it could be a very destructive thing. From the "Anatomy of the Spirit of Man" congress lectures. Tape 6, June So, if you are a Scientologists and frightened about getting in trouble with the Church because you read this story, you must realize that you have been intimidated. You might feel your spiritual freedom is at stake. Well, let me tell you one thing about that which is probably very real to you: And not allowing you to freely find information and examine it for your self is plain suppression, make no mistake about that. All right, the brave ones are still reading - you will be rewarded with vital information - the less brave have left us by now. Hubbard once said that it is a rough universe and only the tigers will make it. And even they have a hard time. This is very true. More true than I first thought when I red it. The chapter "My first hand experiences with Top Management" will tell you why In the following chapters I sometimes include links to other web sites. These are sites created by others. They contain pertinent information, but I cannot vouch for the credibility of all of them. You have to judge for your self - as always in life:

Because the best of man comes into being when he is willing to aid and assist any of his fellows and is permitted to do so. But not in this society! Do you see that clearly? Now, it does not immediately presuppose that because a person has a right to heal that he is able to heal. But today we are at a level of understanding in Scientology sufficiently good that almost any human being alive could be put into possession of enough of that data to make anyone around him better and happier, including himself. And that is the goal toward which we are trying to win. And we are winning, using some of the artificial supports of the society which already exist. And one of those supports is organization. But I would be a very sad man to realize, after years of work, that we had created not a greater freedom in the society but a stronger and more powerful organization in place of existing organizations. But he says this in regard to revolution. We have this enormous mass of people swelling up out of the ditches and byroads and gutters and alleys and overwhelming a despotic government on the motto that "Everybody is going to be free. Instead of setting up a new free regime, all they do is use the extant communication lines of despotism in order to rule and govern. Anyone who would recommend the overthrow of a nation by force is a fool. Because no nation is ever overthrown, they are just substituted for. We could, at this time, put together an organization or a group in Scientology sufficiently strong, sufficiently powerful to run over everything it came to. This would be a fascinating thing to do. Be a game in itself. And then someday --me gone, other guys gone - all of a sudden there sits this thing, this organization. And somebody has to rise up and say, "Auditors of the world, unite; overthrow this monster! Now we are free. You must allow me some percentage. And as I look into the future, I see that we are handling here, material of a potential control and command over mankind which must not be permitted at any time to become the monopoly or the tool of the few to the danger and disaster of the many. And maybe in this I am simply being overly proud, conceited or optimistic. But I would never for a moment step back from the role of being conceited just to be approved of, or just to be wrong in a prediction. And I believe that prediction is right. And I believe that the freedom of the material which we know and understand is guaranteed only by a lightness of organization, a maximum of people, good training and good, reliable, sound relay of information. And if we can do these things, we will win. This I am sure, because it has always happened this way. I am not of an inevitable frame of mind. I have no illusions about either the unimportance of Scientology or its importance. Scientology, well understood, is a very powerful thing. Well used, it can do a great deal for the social order and for the individual. Poorly relayed, poorly communicated, monopolized or used exclusively for gain, it could be a very destructive thing.

While that period initiated all that followed in terms of exteriorization, Theta Clearing and OT, this was his first return in almost three years. Then it was onto Six Levels of Processing to restore the pivotal point of case gain—the power of choice. Considering he had delivered no ACC for almost a year, Mr. Hubbard presented a prodigious array of new material including breakthroughs fundamental to all auditing: He has to say, first postulate: Remembering is an Alter-ness of a Not-ness of a lie that he knows a somethingness. He knows everything there is! Although England contained a burgeoning field of Scientology auditors, all previous London ACCs had been supervised by others with replay of select lectures by L. And so while this was to be numbered the 4th London Advanced Clinical Course, it was most definitely the first ever delivered in person by Mr. In fact, London was already a location having unique significance in the history of Scientology research and development, most specifically including Mr. And while that period of research had, in turn, set in motion all that was to follow in terms of exteriorization, Theta Clearing and OT—from Philadelphia to Camden to Phoenix and Washington, DC—this was his first return to England in almost three years. So it was that L. However, a review of previous developments formed only part of Mr. Yet, even with the intensive demands of an Advanced Clinical Course, this was also a period of establishment and expansion on both the public and organization fronts. Taking advantage of a first return to England—and in no small part due to public demand as word spread of his presence—the nearby New Lindsey Theatre became the site of two open-invitation public lectures by Mr. Hubbard each Saturday afternoon. His popularity and the massive reach for Scientology from new public was evident by the second weekend when every seat was filled and attendees were otherwise standing in the aisles. Providing basic technology to a populace still suffering from post-World War II difficulties, those Saturday afternoons gave Mr. Hubbard the public interaction needed to continue research and develop technology to launch new broad-ranging programs to resolve ground-level societal problems—programs and technology that would roll out one after the other through the following year. Then again, his actions generated so much enthusiasm, interest and expansion that the Hubbard Association of Scientologists International, London, rapidly outgrew its quarters on Holland Park Avenue. To accommodate expansion, the organization moved to Brunswick House, a building on the corner of Palace Gardens Terrace and Bayswater Road—one of the most traffic-jammed streets in the city.

Rehabilitating Power of Choice Lecture Series: And the title was more than apt. For what he presented were the results of advancing technology—results that could only be accurately described with a single word: Physical in nature—deaf children suddenly hearing, crippled children shedding crutches, and sight restored with eyeglasses discarded—and yet all of it accomplished by exclusively addressing the thetan. Inherent to success was a breakthrough explaining the factors of self-determinism, and the very means to restore it in an individual. And the implications of that discovery were fully epic in nature. Hubbard not only traces the history of all past religions, but he also reveals how every one of their hoped for dreams can now be achieved. Here, then, is the Congress to be looked back upon as a watershed in history: It could be said with Scientology that we have entered the Second Age of Miracles. Such was the reason L. The newly established Founding Church of Scientology stood but a few blocks away, while attendees hailed from as far afield as Australia and South Africa. All of which is to say, the stage was truly set on June 3, when Mr. Hubbard stepped up to deliver the now legendary opening lecture: For, as he recounted, the subject had already graduated from Dianetics, and its very exact and analytical approach to problems of the mind, to the all-embracing subject of Scientology, and the direct address of the spirit: It had, this entity, an infinite survival. The Basic Principle of Existence is Survival. And that is only true for the body. A spirit cannot help but survive, whether in Heaven or in Hell or on Earth. For with the advent of Scientology, the subject had also firmly entered the realm of religion. In that regard, what advances in technology were accomplishing as of summer were no less than the dream of every religion through the ages. And that was no overstatement. Because, in evidence were the latest results Mr. Hubbard was achieving—results that could only be accurately described with a single word: In testament were several hundred case histories in the files of the Hubbard Association of Scientologists in Phoenix: Moreover, through these fifteen lectures and Group Processing sessions, he unveiled the discovery that had not only made this accomplishment possible, but how it could be applied by every Scientologist. Here, then, are L. While as for the importance of what they signified in the greater and epic drama of human existence, it was no less than these immortal words of L.
