And with modern conveniences in kitchens, people had more time for dessert. Mouthwatering red wine and red meat 2. Beef Bourguignon A seriously delicious dish Source: The savory onions, tender beef, and red wine make this stew worth the wait. You slow-cook the ingredients in a crockpot for 6 to 8 hours. Heal your ailments with this comfort food. Homemade Chicken and Noodles Chicken noodle soup iStock. This simple version from The Pioneer Woman is our favorite. Everything cooks in one pot, which means flavors build and cleanup is a breeze. A dish for more than shepherds 6. This Swiss creation is full of cheesy goodness. It originated in the Swiss Alps in the s as a way to use stale bread and cheese in the winter. And the Swiss Cheese Union capitalized on the gooey goodness by popularizing it around the world. We love this classic Swiss fondue recipe from Saveur. A birthday dessert that stuck around for decades 8. The red box with the hand mascot was a staple for years, but its popularity died as cooks rejected prepared meals. Classic Meatloaf Traditional meatloaf iStock. Make this dish with ingredients you already have in the kitchen. But as tastes evolved, the original Americanized Chinese food fell out of favor. This creative recipe from Epicurious is made with pork, water chestnuts, and bamboo shoots. Its mellow flavor and hollow shape make them the perfect vessel to fill. Keep things classic by filling them with rice, meat, and cheese. This recipe is easy to scale up or down, so you can adjust for how many mouths you need to feed. A classic steak preparation that fell by the wayside Salisbury Steak Give this beef recipe another try. A breakfast staple becomes the perfect bar food. Chicken a la King Chopping chicken breast iStock. One theory says an NYC restaurant invented it in the s; another credits a London hotel; yet another says it was the brainchild of the Brighton Beach Hotel in the s. No matter who first served chicken in a creamy sauce over biscuits, it earned a spot on dinner tables during the first half of the 20th century. But you should revive this classic. This old-school meal needs to make a comeback. Stuffed Cabbage Rolls Cabbage rolls iStock. Older generations knew this when they created cabbage rolls. Recipes vary, but we like these pork and beef ones smothered with tomato sauce from A Muse in My Kitchen. The assembly process takes time, but the delicious meal will feed a crowd. Leftovers also freeze beautifully! This dish is unusual but delicious nonetheless. Mock Turtle Soup A man tasting soup iStock. In the 18th and 19th centuries, the English upper crust developed a taste for turtle soup, made with fresh turtles shipped from overseas, Culinary Lore explained. Only the very rich could afford real turtles; everyone else had to make do with substitutes. The fake version eventually became more common than the authentic one. This Cajun-inspired slow cooker version from Epicurious calls for sirloin. Update this classic dish with healthier ingredients. Tuna Noodle Casserole Tuna noodle casserole iStock. Green peas add freshness and the crispy topping makes it special enough for entertaining. This sweet treat needs to make a comeback. Pudding Pops Pudding pops iStock. Jell-O pudding pops have been discontinued. All you need are two ingredients and Popsicle molds, per this recipe from Kraft. Christine Skopec and Ali Harrison also contributed to this article.

Simply use the sound-mixer [F10] and the volume-display in the Synthesizer-window This is shown in the score above as "Example1 Ver. Yes, Reverb and Chorus can already be mixed in here - but they might need a little more "boosting", see below! Control total volume output with the display on the right. If the colored bar hits the top of that display, that would mean "distortion and clipping", and you indeed should reduce the volume with the righthand slider in this window to avoid this. You might even kill your innocent soundchip, if you try Set reverb and chorus inside the mixer to zero As the file on musescore. There will be a little enhanced sound now But we can do more! A further instrument-track with the same notes as in the source, but another sound. Try "harp" and "nylon string guitar" as there is no second harp in our default soundfont, we have to use a similar sound instead, in this case. MuseScore will use the sound you designate in the mixer for output, although it stays labeled in the score as "harp". There will be a fair amount of enhanced sound now But we can even do more! Then, it will calculate two fractions from the last note or rest in this measure, will insert the first fraction into the current measure - and the second fraction into the next measure, and so on This might not work, if there is any measure in the source, that has a part of an n-tole triole, quintole etc as last note in a measure. There should be a good amount of enhanced sound now You might use a strings-quartet together with one or two enhanced remixed sounds To show you that the same technique as shown as above will do with some other instrument: Additional reverb guitar track, in this case we mix with "nylon strings" loud and "steel strings" less volume. This is shown in the score above as "Example2 Ver.
