Civil War Bullets Vol. The Whitworth Rifle was deadly accurate at extreme ranges and the Federals had nothing comparable. Some of the projectiles saw service in the American Civil War and some did not. Whitworth Hexagonal Bullet patched in paper with case. This bullet comes meticulously wrapped in a paper patch with a leather plug behind it, tucked neatly in a hard paper cylinder with green band on bottom and pull tab. It was in this immediate vicinity that Brian dug almost 30 of these rare bullets in one hole. Good dropped condition with a few wartime nicks. This short patter has identical truncated cone cavity as the taller patterns listed above and is only found associated with the Fort Fisher campaign along with isolated finds along the Carolina Coast including Charleston. Rare hexagonal pattern with solid base. There are very few of these known to have been excavated. Produced in England for the Whitworth Rifle. Dug Vandenburg Volley Gun Bullet. One of these weapons was purchased prior to the war by Zebulon Vance, Governor of North Carolina for the State Arsenal and it was evidently used in the defense of Fort Fisher and Wilmington. Richmond Laboratory, Augusta Arsenal. Very scarce bullet with well executed and delicate carving. Dug near Port Republic, VA. A very good dropped example. Dug near Corinth, MS. Dug Confederate Gardner Bullet Variant. Tall and sharply pointed type that is distinctly different from the Richmond Lab standard and was produced in very limited numbers, possibly at a different arsenal. They are more common in Western Theater sites. This dropped example is very nice. Dug near Shiloh, TN. Superb bullet in flawless dropped condition. Dug near near Murfreesboro, TN. Tall variant with shallow grooves. Provenance of Malvern Hill, VA. Dug near Tullahoma, TN. SOLD Federal machine turned and pressed patterns. Good dropped example of this machine turned bullet. Most of these come from early war sites and like the ringed varieties, were used by Ohio Troops and may have been produced in Ohio for their own militia. This example was found near Shiloh, TN. Machine Turned ringless variant. Excellent example of a scarce variant. This variant is the type most often encountered. Most likely issued to Ohio Troops that carried. Dug near Michie, TN. A variant of Dug Shiloh "â€”" Corinth area. I believe a large number of these were captured from the Federals.

IBEW Local 98 takes pride in our city and the surrounding communities. You will find our members in every ethnic neighborhood in Philadelphia. What can a Union do for you? Employees bargain with strength for wages, benefits and rights when they join together. Under the employment at will doctrine, the cornerstone of American employment law, in general terms, unless you belong to a protected group, your employer has the right to discipline or terminate, with impunity, you for any reason – even a bad one – or for no reason at all. However, with a collective bargaining agreement, you have rights. Management must have just cause for any disciplinary action taken against a union employee. You bargain over wages, health benefits, working conditions and a retirement plan for your future. But, you bargain collectively with the strength that comes from a collective voice. The union can prevent unjust and unfair treatment by giving you representation on the job and the right to file grievances if you are treated unfairly. Company management cannot fire you without good reason and they must respect your length of service if there are layoffs. Who Runs the Union? You elect your own local union officers. You run your own local union affairs. You have your own negotiating committee. You make the decisions on your own union contract. You have your own shop stewards. You decide important policies and actions of your own union by majority vote. Our Mission Our mission is to lead the electrical industry by providing the best possible training to secure employment today and for the future. History With over years of experience, an IBEW 98 apprenticeship is the clear choice in Philadelphia to be trained for the future. Training From apprentices to journeymen, we are the best trained electricians and technicians. We never stop learning.
