Don't send in a man to do a woman's job. I say level the playing field and send in a woman. That way it nullifies the novelty of voting for a woman and makes it about the issues instead of man against woman.

Share via Email Perfect symmetry: Ronald Grant Archive Do you want to know why women have sex with men with tiny little feet? I am stroking a book called Why Women Have Sex. It is by Cindy Meston, a clinical psychologist, and David Buss, an evolutionary psychologist. It is a very thick, bulging book. But after years of not asking the question, the answer is splayed before me. Meston and Buss have interviewed 1, women from all over the world about their sexual motivation, and in doing so they have identified different reasons why women have sex. And what are they? From the reams of confessions, it emerges that women have sex for physical, emotional and material reasons; to boost their self-esteem, to keep their lovers, or because they are raped or coerced. We are among the bad apes now. Why, I ask Meston, have people never really talked about this? Alfred Kinsey, the "father" of sexology, asked 7, people about their sexual histories in the s and 50s; Masters and Johnson observed people having orgasms for most of the 60s. But they never asked why. Nobody has really talked about how women can use sex for all sorts of resources. To make themselves feel good. To make their partners feel bad. Using sex to get rid of him or to make him jealous. I turn to the book. I am slightly afraid of it. Who wants to have their romantic fantasies reduced to evolutionary processes? The first question asked is: Or, as the book puts it: Genetic benefits are the genes that produce healthy children. Resource benefits are the things that help us protect our healthy children, which is why women sometimes like men with big houses. Jane Eyre, I think, can be read as a love letter to a big house. Tall, symmetrical face, cartoonish V-shaped body? I have good genes for your brats. Affluent, GSOH "if too fond of acronyms" and kind? I have resource benefits for your brats. I knew this already; that is how Bill Clinton got sex, despite his astonishing resemblance to a moving potato. It also explains why Vladimir Putin has become a sex god and poses topless with his fishing rod. So, women might use sex to bag a less dazzling but more faithful mate. He will have fewer genetic benefits but more resource benefits that he will make available, because he will not run away. This explains why women marry accountants. Accountants stick around "and sometimes they have tiny little feet! And so to the main reason women have sex. The idol of "women do it for love, and men for joy" lies broken on the rug like a mutilated sex toy: Meston and Buss garnish this revelation with so much amazing detail that I am distracted. That there are 26 definitions of orgasm? And so, to the second most important reason why women have sex "love. Love is apparently a form of "long-term commitment insurance" that ensures your mate is less likely to leave you, should your legs fall off or your ovaries fall out. Take that, Danielle Steele "you may think you live in but your genes are still in the stone age, with only chest hair between you and a bloody death. We also get data which confirms that, due to the chemicals your brain produces "dopamine, norepinephrine and phenylethylamine" you are, when you are in love, technically what I have always suspected you to be "mad as Stalin. And is the world mad? What percentage of women in north London are in love, they know not. But not as many men are in love. And then there is sex as man-theft. So how do we liberate desirable men from other women? And how do we do that? We "compete to embody what men want" "high heels to show off our pelvises, lip-gloss to make men think about vaginas, and we see off our rivals with slander. She may get short-term genetic benefits but she can sing all night for the resource benefits, like a cat sitting out in the rain. We also use sex to "mate guard". I love this phrase. It is so evocative an image "I can see a man in a cage, and a woman with a spear and a bottle of baby oil. Women regularly have sex with their mates to stop them seeking it elsewhere. Mate guarding is closely related to "a sense of duty", a popular reason for sex, best expressed by the Meston and Buss interviewee who says: We are happily married. One week we were maidens, the following week, we were not. We were, apparently, having sex to see if we liked it, so we could tell other schoolgirls that we had done it and to practise sexual techniques: Another interviewee wanted to practise for her wedding night. The authors lubricate this with a description of the male genitalia, again food themed. I include it because I am immature. Pause for more amazing detail: Women also mate to get the things they think they want "drugs, handbags, jobs, drugs. Sex economics plays out even in regular relationships. Women have sex so that the guy would mow the lawn or take out the garbage. You exchange sex for dinner. Medicinal sex Then there is sex to feel better. Women use sex to cure their migraines. This is explained by the release of endormorphins during sex â€” they are a pain reliever. Sex can even help relieve period pains. Why are periods called periods? Please, someone tell me. Women also have sex because they are raped, coerced or lied to, although we have defences against deception â€” men will often copulate on the first date, women on the third, so they will know it is love madness. Some use it to feel desirable; some to get a new car. There are very few things we will not use sex for. As Meston says, "Women can use sex at every stage of the relationship. Before I read this book I watched women eating men in ignorance. Now, when I look at them, I can hear David Attenborough talking in my head: I am not sure if I feel empowered or dismayed. I thought that my lover adored me. No â€” it is because I have a symmetrical face. I am really just a monkey trying to survive. I close the book. I think I knew that.

Being Too Much of a "Nice Guy" Have you ever noticed that the really attractive women never seem to be attracted to "nice" guys? Of course you have. They try to "convince" the woman to feel differently. Well, I have news for you But we all do it. One that will never work. But if you think that treating a woman well means "always getting her approval and permission for things", think again. You will never succeed by looking for approval. Just ask any attractive woman if Wussy guys who chase her around and want her approval annoy her When you do these things, you send a clear message: Your good intentions usually come across to women as over-compensation for insecurity, and weak attempts at manipulation. Sharing "How You Feel" Too Early in the Relationship with Her Another huge and unfortunate mistake that most men make with women is sharing how they "feel" too early on. Attractive women are rare. And they get a LOT of attention from men. Attractive women have usually dated a LOT of men. They know what to expect. And one thing that turns an attractive women off and sends her running away faster than just about anything is a guy who starts saying "You know, I really, REALLY like you" after one or two dates. You need to accept this fact, and deal with it. But does the same apply for women? Do women feel sexual attraction to men based mostly on looks? Or is something else going on? Well, after studying this topic for over five full years now, I can tell you that women usually have their "attraction mechanisms" triggered by things OTHER than looks. Have you ever noticed that you see a lot more average and unattractive men with beautiful women than the other way around? Women are more attracted to certain qualities in men If you know how to use your body language and communication correctly, you can make women feel the same kind of powerful sexual attraction to you that YOU feel when you see a hot, sexy young woman. And ANY guy can learn how And sure, there are some women who are only interested in these things. There are personality traits that attract women like a magnet And if you learn what they are and how to use them, YOU can be one of these guys. Let me say this again: Said differently, guys try to get women to like them by doing whatever the woman wants. I know, it might be hard to believe. And this goes for ALL aspects of women and dating Approaching a woman, getting her number, asking her out, kissing her, getting physical And you KNOW it. This is the mistake that keeps most men from EVER having the kind of success with women that they truly want. Let me tell you a little about me and how I figured out how to be successful with women It frustrated the hell out of me. I can still remember that night Well, after a lot of hard work and trying all kinds of crazy things, I finally figured it all out. I can now approach just about any woman and get her number almost instantly. It has been a very rewarding experience. I no longer feel that sick, insecure feeling I know that anytime, anywhere, I can go out and meet attractive women. Of course, it even gets better than that To sign up for my free three-times-a-week newsletter AND download your copy of this online eBook, just go here: In this day and age of "instant gratification", I realize that this might just sound like another late-night info-mercial promising to make you rich by next week. I now believe that ANY man can be more successful with women and dating, and I get emails every day with success stories from guys who are using this program to meet and date wonderful women. I know, I know It might be the biggest gift you ever give them.

Cancel 0 Why is it men are permitted to be obsessed about their work, but women are only permitted to be obsessed about men? Barbara Streisand The thing women have yet to learn is that nobody gives you power. You just take it. Joan Jett Bitches get stuff done. Whitney Houston Intimacies between women often go backwards, beginning in revelations and ending in small talk. Elizabeth Bowen Because I am a woman, I must make unusual efforts to succeed. Actually a job is better for me. Princess Diana Women in love are less ashamed than men. They have less to be ashamed of. Ambrose Bierce Whatever women do they must do twice as well as men to be thought half as good. Luckily, this is not difficult. Charlotte Whitton God gave women intuition and femininity. Rosalind Russell Smart women love smart men more than smart men love smart women. Natalie Portman You start out happy that you have no hips or boobs. All of a sudden you get them, and it feels sloppy. Then just when you start liking them, they start drooping. Cindy Crawford Men are allowed to have passion and commitment for their work a woman is allowed that feeling for a man, but not her work. Barbara Streisand I married beneath me all women do. They keep getting up on soapboxes and proclaiming women are brighter than men. Anita Loos Some of us are becoming the men we wanted to marry. Katharine Hepburn I write for those women who do not speak, for those who do not have a voice because they were so terrified, because we are taught to respect fear more than ourselves. Audre Lorde Women need real moments of solitude and self-reflection to balance out how much of ourselves we give away. Barbara de Angelis I think today women are very scared to celebrate themselves, because then they just get labeled. Charlize Theron When men reach their sixties and retire, they go to pieces. Women go right on cooking. Louisa May Alcott Women like to sit down with trouble as if it were knitting. I know exactly what I want. Women treat it like glass and it goes to pieces. Chapter 4 : Don't Send a Man to Do a Woman's Job | HuffPost

If you try to defend or make excuses for the actions of Obama's Secret Service agents in Colombia (consorting with prostitutes), you're probably going to come off as a male chauvinist or worse.

We all recognize some of these differences, but others often hide in plain sight. Shaunti Feldhahn, a nationally syndicated newspaper columnist, author and speaker wrote a fantastic book, For Women Only: In it, she recounts the surprising truths she learned about men after interviewing more than 1,000 of them. In our discussion, we spoke about 10 things guys wish women knew about men. Men would rather feel unloved than inadequate and disrespected. Husbands need to know that their wives respect them both privately and publicly. Men thrive when they know that their wives trust them, admire them and believe in them. They may never vocalize this, but inwardly, they are secretly vulnerable. To men, affirmation from their wives is everything! When they receive regular and genuine affirmation from their wives not flattery, by the way, they become much more secure and confident in all areas of their lives. Men feel the burden of being the provider for their family. Men simply bear the emotional burden of providing for their family. Men are simply wired with this burden. As such, it is never far from their minds and can result in the feeling of being trapped. While wives cannot release their husbands from this burden, they can relieve it through a healthy dose of appreciation, encouragement and support. Men want more sex. We primarily assume that men want more sex with their wives due to their physical wiring their "needs". Men simply need to be wanted. Sex means more than sex. When men feel their wives desire them sexually, it has a profound effect on the rest of their lives. It gives them an increasing sense of confidence and well-being that carries over into every other area of his life. The flipside of this coin also carries a profoundly negative affect. When a husband feels rejected sexually, he not only feels his wife is rejecting him physically, but that she is somehow rejecting his life as a husband, provider and man. This is why making sex a priority in marriage is so incredibly important! Men struggle with visual temptation. This means the vast majority of men respond to visual images when it comes to women. Even the most godly husband cannot avoid noticing a woman who dresses in a way that draws attention to her body. Even if it is just a glance, these visual images are stored away in the male brain as a sort of "visual rolodex"; that will reappear without any warning. Men enjoy romance, but doubt their skills to be romantic. Men want to be romantic, but they just doubt their ability to pull it off. They are plagued by internal hesitations, perceiving the risk of humiliation and failure as too high. What men really want is to know that their wives are making an effort to take care of themselves and not letting themselves go because it matters to them the husbands! Husbands appreciate the efforts their wives make to maintain their attractiveness. Men want their wives to know how much they love them. This was the number one response of men. Men want to show how much they love their wives and long for them to understand this fact.
