It gave me some fun time. Fantastic visual effects, creative story, good strategy and moderate challenge. It was fun, it was challenging ish and highly enjoyable. It is not as visually detailed or realistic as I would prefer, but it does present a timed challenge that is fun. It would be great to see this game concept developed into a visually stunning and more mature style. You get a good amount of free reign when decorating living spaces, which was really cool, and you get a decent amount of things to choose from, which was nice as well. You are a designer and you are to decorate there space, and you also have a limited amount of spending money, so you learn to shop frugal too. You can get the hint to tell you what belongs in the house, but that ruins the whole point of a challenge. Onto the next stage you have workers that will finish the construction of your living space, and you only get a certain amount of "days" to complete it. This stage of the game will become challenging with the little things the game creator added here and there. I have to admit, I was mad sometimes. What I liked about the game was everything. I love being able to choose items to decorate with, and the challenge was nice as well. I recommend "Home Sweet Home: I love this game. I love any interior decorating and this fits the bill. I like that you have to solve a riddle to figure out what your clients want. When you decorate all the colors are gray tone. I wish they changed this. Most importantly, I wish they came out with another version. The Christmas one is good. The kitchen and baths If you like to do interior decorating then this is the game for you! I fell in love with this game. They also have sequels.

I used the Hometown collection by Sweetwater. Well, this is one of them because this quilt almost requires no measuring! Simply click on the Fabric Giveaway link on the homepage. Step 2 â€” Using a rotary cutter and ruler, cut 2 diagonal lines from corner to corner as shown below. Step 3 â€” Repeat steps 1 and 2 to make a total of 3 nine patch blocks. Cut diagonal lines from corner to corner for all 3 blocks. This will give you a total of 12 triangle pieces. Rearrange all 12 pieces to your liking. Step 5 â€” Sew the rearranged pieces back together as shown below. This will give you a block that measures roughly 12" x 12". Repeat until you have a total of 9 finished blocks. Step 6 â€” Take three jelly roll strips or three 2" strips. This will give you a total of six 2" strips. With right sides facing together, sew a strip to the side of a finished block, press flat with an iron and then trim the excess ends since your finished block measures 12" x 12". Sew the remaining strips to create sashing between the blocks that looks like this: Step 7 â€” Use two more jelly roll strips or two 2" strips. Repeat until all three rows of blocks are connected by the two sashing strips. Trim the excess ends. Step 8 â€” Use two more jelly roll strips or two 2" strips. After sewing them on, trim the excess ends. Lastly, sew the left and right side borders on. I simply sewed three jelly roll strips together or three 2" strips. After sewing them onto the sides of the quilt top, trim the excess fabric. He was ready for a walk in this photo. Simply click the Fabric Giveaway link on the homepage.
