

Chapter 1 : New Beginning Quotes and Sayings - Quotes about New Beginnings

Every day of your life is a new beginning, not just the first day of the year. You can make Daily Resolutions, not just New Year Resolutions. Any day is suitable for making them. Regard every day as the beginning of your new, better, and happier life. Start every day of the year with feelings of.

When one door closes, another opens. But often we look so long, so regretfully, upon the closed door, that we fail to see the one that is opened for us. Sign-up for your free subscription to my Daily Inspiration - Daily Quote email. To confirm your subscription, you must click on a link in the email being sent to you. Each email contains an unsubscribe link. Re-examine all that you have been told Johnson Let every day be the first day of the rest of your life, but especially let today be a new beginning. If today, in conscious awareness, you choose the same plan as yesterday, you are wise. If you choose a different plan, you are equally wise. Whatever you choose, choose with intention. Use it as an impetus, the force or energy toward change. Become stronger, a better leader, more focused in your thoughts. Exert more influence over your dreams by bringing them closer to your thoughts, every day. Whether you have experienced a break up with someone you cared for deeply, whether death has taken a loved one, whether you have had a feud with a friend or family member, whether you have lost a job. Move on and let go. Life can be joyful and rewarding again. Release your regrets about whatever you may have done or failed to do that turned out poorly. Forgive others for whatever they may have done or failed to do that cause you harm. Declare today to be a new beginning. Let go of the past and move on with creating a joyful new future for yourself. But, you can either run from it or, learn from it. TODAY, what is your goal? What is your dream? What action are you taking to further your goals and dreams? Life is an endless cycle of endings and beginnings. Enjoy the unknown way - one step at a time. Whatever the circumstances of your relationship, and whatever the nature of its ending, there is always grief and regret - perhaps regret over the ending, or perhaps regret over not ending the relationship sooner - or perhaps both. Nonetheless, move past the grief and regret. No matter how painful, divorce, like all endings, opens the door to new beginnings. What good would there be in that? Offer discretion and discernment for our past with a broad spectrum of forgiveness. As for our present moment, delight. And dedication to remain fully present to all the possibility. James It seems to me that in our lifetime we have passed from the wreck of liberal humanism to the beginning of a new recognition of dogma: Hoffa Some of the French surrealists at the beginning of the war had come over to New York and they brought out this magazine. It was a big, glossy magazine full of surrealist things. Others are brand new to us. To discover what people are living here. What do they need, what do they expect, what would they like to be the image and the performance of the New York Philharmonic? But then we start to play and I never talk about places where they played so beautiful and so clear in the beginning that there is nothing to say. I cannot too strongly urge the necessity of a rigid economy and an inflexible determination not to enlarge the income beyond the real necessities of the government. This new story is, I think, is pretty good stuff. Even when a new century begins it is only we mortals who ring bells and fire off pistols. Through this remarkable chapter in the history of the United States and Iraq, we have met our responsibility. If the door opens, go through it. I believe that the profits will come from the quality of your creative products. At the beginning of the new century, it is the common aspiration of the peoples of the two countries to deepen mutual understanding, enhance trust, develop friendship and strengthen cooperation. It took a while for people to understand what they were trying to do and get started, but it did provide for a lot of new ideas. Let us together open a new era in our history. The old skin has to be shed before the new one can come. Lewis Try a new perspective on diversity. Across the country and around the world, we are all one. With the new day comes new strength and new thoughts.

Chapter 2 : New Beginnings – "Every Day is a Chance for New Beginnings"

Tomorrow is a new beginning, a new day to start over. Every day when you wake up, you have a new chance to prove yourself, follow your goals and invest into yourself to enjoy the compounding effects of yield in the future.

Expectations[edit] There was initially some speculation about the speech. He also declared he opposed Israeli settlements and wanted to revive peace talks. In an interview to Al Arabiya , few days after his inauguration, Obama declared: In his inaugural address President Obama reached out to the Muslim World by saying that he seeks "a new way forward, based on mutual interest and mutual respect". He also said he would be willing to "extend a hand" to those "who cling to power through corruption and deceit" if they "are willing to unclench" their fists. This attempt at outreach was rebuffed by the Iranian leadership. Obama told his aides that there are tensions between the Muslim world and the West which were rooted in colonialism. He also said that he knows from his personal experience that the West and the Islam are not separate worlds because they share things such as love of God and family. Obama told his aides that these are the things that bind West and Islam together. In the meeting Obama also expressed his desire to have a piece of about Islam contributions in the speech and made sure that the equality of men and women would also be incorporated into the speech. While Obama said a two state solution was a priority, Benyamin Netanyahu did not explicitly endorse the creation of Palestinian state. Netanyahu said Israel has the right to continue settlements, whereas Obama called for settlement growth to be frozen. Obama also stated a "range of steps" are still available against Iran, including sanctions, if it continues its nuclear program. Before Egypt was announced as the speech venue, there was speculation by the media about the location of the address. Jakarta , Rabat , Amman , Cairo , and Istanbul were all considered likely choices. Renovations took place at the college and some final exams were postponed. While there, the two leaders discussed peace and economics and Obama continued to prepare his speech to be given at Cairo University the next day. President said about the talks: We discussed how we can move forward in a constructive way that brings about peace and prosperity for all people in the region. After the speech, Obama continued his tour with a visit to Buchenwald concentration camp to pay homage to the victims of the Holocaust. The president opened his speech seeking a common ground between Muslims and the United States. He quoted from the Quran , "Be conscious of God and always speak the truth. He described his own personal experiences with Islam, including having Muslim family members, growing up in Indonesia , a majority-Muslim country and hearing "the call of the azaan ", and working "in Chicago communities where many found dignity and peace in their Muslim faith". On the subject of the Iraq War , Obama stated, "Although I believe that the Iraqi people are ultimately better off without the tyranny of Saddam Hussein , I also believe that events in Iraq have reminded America of the need to use diplomacy and build international consensus to resolve our problems whenever possible. During the "nuclear weapons" portion of the speech, Obama stated, "In the middle of the Cold War, the United States played a role in the overthrow of a democratically elected Iranian government. Reaction[edit] The speech was highly anticipated and generally acclaimed by the Muslim world. He said that Barack Obama "has followed the steps of his predecessor in antagonising Muslims He also added that "Obama and his administration have sowed new seeds of hatred against America. Ayatollah Khamenei commented on the pending U. Even if they give sweet and beautiful [speeches] to the Muslim nation that will not create change. Palestinian Authority President Mahmoud Abbas described the speech as "clear and frank Hamas spokesman Fawzi Barhum also welcomed the speech, saying "It had many contradictions, all the while reflecting tangible change. Amr Moussa , head of the Arab League , hailed the speech, saying it "was balanced and offered a new vision of rapprochement regarding relations with Islamic states". Israeli President Shimon Peres said the speech was "full of vision, a brave speech demanding a commitment to hard work on all sides involved in the promotion of the peace process in the Middle East The idea of peace was born in the Middle East as the basis of the three monotheistic religions – Christianity, Judaism and Islam – and the sons of Abraham must join hands in order to take on this challenge together, a sustainable peace in the Middle East. The Israeli government is not some overlapping excess of the US administration. It has been a long standing demand of Pakistan that the two-nation theory is the only way forward out of the Middle East crisis". He further went on to say, "We see this visit as a very positive step on the part of US because over the years there has been proverbial chasm between the Western and Islamic world. So this visit will be useful in bridging gaps between the Muslim and the Western world. I say firmly, that this will not be achieved by talking, speech and slogans". Iraqi Shiite cleric Moqtada al-Sadr also criticized it. Salahuddin Wahid, an influential cleric, expressed hope that it would not be just words, but rather followed by "concrete steps". Rami Khouri , the editor of The Daily Star and director of the Issam Fares Institute at the American University of Beirut , argued that Obama gave "a lot of good, positive vibes" but, ultimately, it "was only rhetoric". He referred to what he saw as the hypocrisy of Obama praising human rights after meeting with Egyptian and Saudi leaders who have suppressed those same rights. I have concerns about that because Hamas is a terrorist organisation". As well, he said, "[w]here he continues to say he will sit down with the Iranians without any preconditions, I just think that that puts us in a position where America looks weak in the eyes of their rulers. He added that the organizations should also open up to talks with the United States. For example, Lydia Khalil of the Council on Foreign Relations commented that "[i]t is too soon to tell what the ultimate Obama effect will be. But I say that if the State of Israel would have been established earlier, the Holocaust would not have occurred. He also stated that existing Jewish settlements in the West Bank will expand while their permanent status is up to further negotiation. The overture was quickly rejected by Palestinian leaders such as Hamas spokesman Sami Abu Zuhri , who called the speech "racist". The paper also stated that the Obama administration would probably be loath to talk about this publicly in fear of sparking an Iranian backlash. Or we can choose to do the hard work of forging common ground, and commit ourselves to the steady pursuit of progress. We want to work to help achieve statehood and dignity for the Palestinians, but I was hoping that my speech could trigger a discussion, could create space for Muslims to address the real problems they are confrontingâ€”problems of governance, and the fact that some currents of Islam have not gone through a reformation that would help people adapt their religious doctrines to modernity. My thought was, I would communicate that the U.

Chapter 3 : Wake Up to Live!: Every Day Is a New Beginning

Every day is a new beginning stay away from what might have been and look at what can be. Every day that God gives us new breath and new life is a new day to begin going the places that we know in our hearts we should be going.

Do you ever feel like a hamster in a running wheel? You wonder how you will ever get off. You wonder if you will ever shake a sense of defeat. I have my own entrenched habits that I often vow to overcome. I will never eat sugar again! No complaint shall ever pass these lips! I love to make big plans! do you? I sit with my pencil and paper and scratch out lists and schedules and create a world of perfection. A world where I never do wrong and everything goes according to plan. Then I put the paper down and life seems to go along as it always has. Yet as I look back over the past few decades, I barely recognize the woman I was twenty years ago. How is this possible? Real change has always come for me in the small. It has come in the moments of one choice – do I speak my frustration or keep my mouth closed right now? Do I hit snooze or drag myself out of bed and read my bible? The steadfast love of the LORD never ceases; his mercies never come to an end; they are new every morning; great is your faithfulness. His love for you is so great – He lavishes it on you with His continual mercy and forgiveness. It is not always easy to make those small decisions that lead to godly change, but you have an advocate! Jesus Christ, who knew all the temptations of man! But if anyone does sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous. But progress, yes indeed, that is possible. You can head in the right direction. Every little choice you make that honors God makes a difference. Today is a new beginning! Be refreshed in His love and mercy! Related About Patti Brown God has transformed Patti from a frightened young woman into a truly joyful mama. She is passionate about encouraging women to seek hard after Jesus and receive freedom to enjoy the life they have been given. Patti writes at Joyful Mama and with her daughter at Blossoms and Posies..

Chapter 4 : 10 Quotes for Turning an Ending into a New Beginning

Every time you speak lovingly to your kids when you feel like yelling, every time you stay silent instead of complaining, every time you choose God's way instead of your own - it is a new beginning.

Any day is suitable for making them. Regard every day as the beginning of your new, better, and happier life. Start every day of the year with feelings of happiness and with the anticipation that great and wonderful things are going to happen. Regardless of your circumstances, begin every day of the year with a smile, hope and expectations. You are not cheating yourself, because this attitude, if you persevere with it, would make you a more positive and happy person. Every day, restate your goals and your decisions for your new, happy and successful life. At the same time, be open to new ideas and opportunities, and for ways to achieve your goals. If you look at each day as new beginning, you will feel happier, more energetic and more motivated. Often, people make New Year Resolutions , but either do nothing to carry them out, or start and then quit. This creates feelings of frustration, unhappiness and failure. You can make a new resolution every day, and you can start again every day, if you failed in your first, second or even third attempt. There are no limitations on making new decisions and forming new goals, and there are no limitations on when to begin doing new things. Every day is suitable for making a resolution and a new beginning. Every day is a new beginning and the start of your new life. The question is whether you carry through what you decided and promised. This is most important. Do you make New Year Resolutions? If you do, do you try to carry them out? If you begin to carry them out, do you persevere until you accomplish them? It is simple and easy to make New Year Resolutions, or any other decision at any other time of the year. Often, they are made in response to some emotion. However, people quite soon, lose the motivation and enthusiasm, and continue living the same kind of life, without doing anything to improve them. This is why you need to make resolutions and repeat them every day. It is not enough to state them just once, when the New Year begins. It would be a good idea to write them down on a clean sheet of paper, on the screen of your computer, or on your smartphone, so you can see them, read them, and think about them every day. You need to repeat your resolutions every day, with belief and faith, and be willing to do whatever it needs to accomplish them, not just repeat the words with your lips. You need to keep expecting success, happiness and health, no matter in what circumstances you live. This attitude would trigger your subconscious mind to help you and to motivate you. You might wish there was some kind of magic to carry out your decisions, promises and goals. There is, and it is made of motivation , persistence, willpower and self-discipline. These are the powers that would change your life and make them interesting, happy and fulfilling. Treat it that way. Stay away from what might have been, and look at what can be. Simple visualization techniques anyone can learn, to help you improve your life, find love, attract money, and create a successful and satisfying life. All the instructions and guidance you need. He writes books and articles to help people improve their life, achieve success, gain inner strength and inner peace, and become more positive and happy.

Chapter 5 : Every Day is a New Beginning! - A Glimpse of HeavenA Glimpse of Heaven

Every day is a new beginning. Treat it that way. Stay away from what might have been, and look at what can be. Marsha Petrie Sue. Though no one can go back and make.

Right after a chapter of your life comes to an end. And every chapter in life has to come to an end sometime. Closing the door, turning the page, moving on, etc. Sometimes you just have to accept the fact that things will never go back to how they used to be, and that this ending is really a new beginning. It is what it is. Accept it, learn from it and move on. Read Loving What Is. The secret to getting ahead is to focus your energy not on fixing and fighting yesterday, but on building and growing something new right now. Channel your energy into thoughts and actions that actually benefit your life today. Your world can be an entirely different place than the world you lived in just a few moments ago, once your attitude toward it changes. The situation does not determine your response. YOU determine your response. Take a moment now to pause and remember who you truly are. Take time to reflect on the things that have real and lasting meaning in your life. But you do owe yourself the courtesy of making the best of it. Instead, make use of the real and present starting point you have, and get going. The world is bigger than your view of the world. Afterthoughts The secret to a good life, I have found, is to pay more attention to the beginnings than the endings. So many people say they want a new life, but then they take the new one they get every minute for granted. The good life is here – it begins right now, when you stop wanting a different one. And remember, there are three little words that can release you from your past struggles and guide you forward. Do you have any other quotes, tips or stories to share about turning an ending into a new beginning? We would love to hear from YOU.

Chapter 6 : Every Day is a New Beginning - Do Not Depart

A Very Special Bank Account. Imagine you had a bank account that deposited $86, each morning. The account carries over no balance from day to day, allows you to keep no cash balance, and every evening cancels whatever part of the amount you had failed to use during the day.

Are you living your life through the eyes of someone else, or is it your own? Are you living the experiences they want you to or that you want? Values are ideals that guide you through life. They help distinguish and inform you as to what is important and provide a way in making stronger choices that are in line with your heart. When you live by your values, life is fulfilling and joyful. There is a sense of calm, completeness and contentment. Many of us go through life unaware of where we are headed. Being sidetracked could be a form of relieving tensions or anxieties. Getting side-tracked could also be a way of reminding us to reflect. To find out if where we are headed is the direction we really want to go. For me, what I plan on doing, is being more aware when I do get side-tracked. And because of my awareness to what may occur, I will get back on the bus and begin the forward movement I initially intended earlier. Each one of us will make many different stops, turns and directions that are unique only to us. Being side-tracked is part of life, but how long do you intend to be side-tracked? You can begin anew with awareness to what is. Values also change in priority depending on what is happening in your life. When a newborn arrives, your value of freedom and adventure may be restricted temporarily, but your value for commitment, care, reliability, provider and radiance is magnified. Reflect and then adjust your intentions according to your desires. Living with values that are a priority in your life will create a life filled with fulfillment and joy, and a sense of calm and contentment. Create a new beginning and strive to become the real you.

Chapter 7 : Every day is a new beginning lyrics

Every Day Is a New Beginning Create a new beginning and strive to become the real you. Wake Up to Live with Desiree Leigh. Posted by Desiree Thompson at.

That one special day each year when we throw a party and reflect on the day our amazing journey began. We learn to walk. Then we learn to talk. Then we go to school and learn our ABCs. Everything is brand new. When we graduate high school they tell us we have our whole lives in front of us. You can just picture that open highway stretched out to infinity before you, beckoning to a future somewhere out on that horizon that calls you to adventure. All that you will become lies out there. In my twenties, I was a freewheeling single young man touring the world with rock stars. How bad can that be, right? Turning 30 was awesome too! I was living in sunny Southern California, playing music, and making records in recording studios. Even 40 was great. I had moved back to New York to play in my own band and got married. Our life together had just begun. Achieved all your major goals. At this point in the journey, life has shown you many of its cards. If there are still any surprises, they have mostly to do with learning to change the way you see things. But something else happened that was very difficult to escape. Much as I hated to admit it, I found that I was looking around and comparing myself to my peers. And when the game is comparing yourself to others, you will never have enough. Unknowingly, you build this imaginary scale to see how you measure up against your peers. Yet, no matter where you believe you fall on that curve, the moment you mark your place is to engage in a losing battle. You believe that if you can just obtain that figure of money in the bank, job title, certain car that you will have arrived at your destination and will find happiness there. Not in any material things you can obtain. Whatever it is will begin to lose its luster the moment you acquire it. And the cycle never ends. So how do you break out of this destructive cycle? Well first, I needed to learn how to let go of a lot of my preconceived notions about where I thought I would be by the time I reached. Ultimately, I found the answer in meditation. Through meditation you learn how to become present. Meditation taught me that to compare ourselves to others is the root of human suffering, or samsara. Because it creates a separation between ourselves and someone else. A them and an us. Armed with this new perspective, the next thing I did was to review my life and my experiences to figure out what was working and what was not. This brought me face to face with a rather harsh reality. Sure I spent a lot of time making music, which is something very personal that you put out into the universe in the hopes that you will connect with an audience and make them feel something. But it turns out the giving was conditional. Please vote for me in this contest and buy that CD and help me or my band out. It was a yearning to connect with an audience in a meaningful way that focuses on helping them. On seeing the world through their eyes. And so at age 50, I am only now seeing the light. Only after allowing the hidden writer within to finally emerge did I realize that I have been telling stories my whole life. The epiphany was that as a music producer and a songwriter, I had been doing this already for many years helping artists to realize their vision. Suddenly everything felt different. Like I had steered the boat back on course. Like a new chapter. Suddenly that really successful person I follow who I want to emulate, the one who seems so far ahead in their journey, finally, it all gets put into perspective. We think they just arrived where they are today. We never got to see all the years they spent toiling away in obscurity. Experimenting, missing the mark, failing. Until they honed their craft to excellence and were finally rewarded by the world for their efforts. We never stop and give ourselves a break for simply being on the path. It may be a path of discovery. It may be a path toward a specific destination. Or it may be a path away from our old ways. The law says that if you take steps in the direction of your destination every day and keep walking, no matter how slow or how far you must travel, you must one day arrive there. In Tibet they have a tradition. After a long and arduous journey, no matter how difficult, they seek a high vantage point and look back to see just how far they have come. Wherever you are in your journey is a starting point. Realize there is no race. And if every point is a starting point then every day can be your birthday! How will you celebrate today? About Mark Hermann Mark Hermann is a music producer, songwriter, and blogger with the occasional whimsy to create mosaic art.

Chapter 8 : Every Day Is A New Beginning - Picture Quotes

Every Day is a New Beginning No matter how bad was yesterday, it has passed and today is a new beginning and we have the opportunity to make good of what we have failed to achieve yesterday, so that we could achieve a better result in the future.

Chapter 9 : Every Day Can Be A Starting Point: Make a New Beginning

"It's a wise man who understands that every day is a new beginning, because boy, how many mistakes do you make in a day? I don't know about you, but I make plenty. You can't turn the clock.