Voices of Hope by Ty Namsfield Voice(s) of Hope is an insightful book; I highly recommend it to anyone dealing with unwanted SSA (same sex attraction) anyone dealing with trials of any kind, and all members of The Church Of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Was the first African-American to win an Academy Award. She became the first African-American to attend the Academy Awards as a guest, not a servant. Her wish to be buried in Hollywood at her death in was denied amid the racism of the era. She willed her Oscar to Howard University, but the Oscar was lost during the race riots at Howard during the s. It has never been found. Her father was a slave, who was eventually freed. When the date of the Atlanta premiere of Gone with the Wind approached, McDaniel told director Victor Fleming she would not be able to make it, when in actuality she did not want to cause trouble due to the virulent racism that was rampant in Atlanta at the time. Despite the fact Clark Gable played a joke on her during the filming of Gone with the Wind he put real brandy in the decanter instead of iced tea during the Bonnie Blue birth celebration scene , McDaniel and Gable were actually good friends. Gable later threatened to boycott the premiere in Atlanta because McDaniel was not invited, but later relented when she convinced him to go. Her Academy Award was presented by Fay Bainter. McDaniel and Louise Beavers , both of whom played the title character Beulah in the s TV series, died ten years apart on October 26th. It has made me feel very, very humble; and I shall always hold it as a beacon for anything that I may be able to do in the future. I sincerely hope I shall always be a credit to my race and to the motion picture industry. My heart is too full to tell you just how I feel, and may I say thank you and God bless you.

Chapter 3 : Obituary for Fredrick William Matis (Services)

For Time and All Eternity Katharine Matis Adams Resolution: The Unexpected Miracle.

It is set up as a series of essays written by various people, with each followed by personal stories. I am not intending to judge anyone who rejects the ideas found here, but for those who believe and want to live consistent with the teachings of the LDS church, this could be a helpful resource. I especially loved the section I read this to gain a better understanding of LDS views on same-sex attraction. I especially loved the section written by Wendy Ulrich. It is broad in its application, explaining some of what it means to be a disciple of Christ. My heart is full of compassion and a desire to understand the challenges and spiritual journeys that my fellow Church members experience as they try to understand same sex attraction. Past same sex attraction though, this book is full of stories and essays that go so deeply into helping me feel, appreciate, relive and yearn to fee the healing balm and love of Christ in my life and as I work to see all of his children from a Words cannot describe how this book has deeply affected me spiritually. Past same sex attraction though, this book is full of stories and essays that go so deeply into helping me feel, appreciate, relive and yearn to fee the healing balm and love of Christ in my life and as I work to see all of his children from a perspective of his endless love. I was moved to personal remembrance of how the Holy Ghost has worked in my life past any other explanation , and principles discussed resonated truth deep within me. This is literally the best book I have read in years. This book is perfect for skipping around and I found that when I did that each of the sections I read were ones that I needed to hear at that time. Such an amazing book, and blessing to read. Undoubtedly, this book will help those in leadership positions understand this particular issue better. It is a helpful tool, which will educate members of the church, on the challenges and hardships as well as the attitudes of some of the LD Voices of Hope by Ty Namsfield Voice s of Hope is an insightful book; I highly recommend it to anyone dealing with unwanted SSA same sex attraction anyone dealing with trials of any kind, and all members of The Church Of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. It is a helpful tool, which will educate members of the church, on the challenges and hardships as well as the attitudes of some of the LDS people dealing with unwanted SSA issues. The book equips us to understand other and ourselves. The contributors in the book bring hope to those wanting to live a life in harmony with the restored gospel. They show it is possible to live the gospel while being gay. It shows it is possible for everyone to live the gospel and fulfill their purpose on the earth no matter the innate or learned nature. The experiences of those in the book touched my heart and brought me a better understanding of the trials and issues members of the church are facing. Whether, straight, gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgender this book helps and shows us there is a way to hang on to the gospel in the midst of turmoil. It shows the successes of some who are striving to live a life in harmony with and according to the gospel of Jesus Christ- while dealing with unwanted SSA; it shows us the hope of remaining faithful to that gospel no matter the level of difficulty. Within its pages, the reader is brought to remember that it is possible for ALL the children of God, to enjoy ALL the promised blessings reserved for those that overcome the tests, temptations, and trials of earth-life. No matter which trials we have we can come out victors through our faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, by taking hold of the atonement and living the gospel. As I prayerfully read the book, I began to realize there are a great many members who deal with unwanted SSA and none is alone in their trial. I hope by reading the book many will recognize themselves, find truth, and gain the courage to be among those who overcome the world and themselves and are counted among those who are full of truth, light, and charity. One of my favorite parts of the book are the passages that reminds me that there are always some in the world that will try to convince others to live a life contrary to that which they know is true. They may even say it is hopeless to live a life in harmony with the restored gospel while being gay. However, this book and its messages remind us that we can deny ourselves of all that is contrary to the gospel and teaching of the prophets and that by living the teaching of the gospel we will find true happiness that is linked to eternal life. That each person that does such like all true seekers of truth, will eventually have a change of the heart. It reminds us that regardless of our nature, challenges, test, trials, or temptations each must be willing to deny self, bridal passions, live the gospel, take hold of the atonement, endure to the end in faith, and in so doing we will be exalted on high. Remember, we are not so much denying what or who we feel or think we are, as much as we are willing to become who and what Christ wants us to be and knows we are. When we refuse to settle for what the world, or even we ourselves think we are, but instead become the celestial being that every fiber of our hearts long to be, then we will find joy and love eternal. While I recommend these books for reading, moreover I recommend them for living. Living the principles of the restored gospel with every energy of our hearts and thus we will begin to truly be joyful, full of love, understanding and find peace!

For Time and All Eternity Katharine Matis Adams Resolution: "Voices of Hope" is highly recommended for all those experiencing SSA, who are in a leadership.

Soon after, she realizes she does not fit in and has been mistaken for someone else. Eleanor quickly tells her assigned soulmate, a university ethics professor named Chidi Anagonye, that she has been mistaken for someone else. He agrees to teach Eleanor to become a better person to earn her spot. Her neighbor is introduced to her as a silent Buddhist monk named Jianyu Li, whose soulmate is socialite Tahani Al-Jamil. Jianyu reveals that he knows Eleanor is there by mistake, and that he himself is actually a dimwitted DJ from Florida named Jason Mendoza, who also believes he has been sent to The Good Place by mistake. When those efforts prove fruitless, an eternal judge named Shawn rules that Eleanor and Jason must be sent to the Bad Place. He then announces his intent to wipe their memories and separate the four, but just before he does so, Eleanor smuggles a note to herself inside the mouth of the artificial intelligence caretaker named Janet. After reboots, the other demons stage a coup against Michael and threaten to inform his boss about the repeated failures. Michael eventually teams up with the four humans and promises to get them all into the real Good Place. She gives tests to each human which play to their weaknesses. They all fail except Eleanor. Gen is also not convinced that the improvements the four of them have shown are due to them being good people. Instead, she believes that their changes are due to their desire for "moral desert". Michael appeals, believing that all they need is a push and they are all placed back in their bodies moments before death without memory of their afterlife, with their deaths now replaced with near-death experiences to give them a chance to overcome their flaws for the right reasons. After a false start, Michael intervenes and points Eleanor in the direction of Chidi, which reignites her passion for ethics and causes her to seek out Chidi. The Good Place season 3 Eleanor, Chidi, Tahani, and Jason are sent back to Earth by Michael, who intervenes in their near-death accidents in hopes that a second chance at life allows them to become better versions of themselves. He realizes that it is not going to plan, so meets all four humans and subtly hints to them to meet Chidi to do a research study about near-death experiences and ethical decision making in Sydney. They all form a research group, which is shortly infiltrated by Trevor, a demon pretending to be an overeager friend. After Trevor attempts to break up the group from the inside, he, Michael, and Janet are all called in by the Judge for their meddling. After Gen banishes Trevor, Janet and Michael escape to Earth with the key, making them the only ones able to travel between worlds. They spend the next year repeatedly interfering in the lives of the four humans to keep the group together before ultimately being discovered. After confronting her guaranteed eternal damnation and her own conscience, Eleanor persuades Chidi, Tahani, and Jason to spend their time left on Earth helping other people become ethical enough to get into the Good Place. Cast and characters[edit] Kristen Bell portrays series protagonist Eleanor Shellstrop. He is the first person to learn her secret and begins teaching both her and Jason ethics. He died on earth when an air conditioner fell on his head outside his apartment building. In the end of the second season he is shown to also speak fluent English. Jameela Jamil as Tahani Al-Jamil, a deceased, wealthy philanthropist born in Pakistan , raised in the United Kingdom , and who went to school in France. Tahani, whose full name means "Congratulations Beautiful", is a seemingly good-natured soul with a cheerful and helpful attitude who in life was constantly overshadowed by her younger sister, Kamilah. She died when a statue of her sister at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in Cleveland, Ohio , which she was trying to tear down, crushes her. Initially, Eleanor dislikes Tahani, finding her positive attitude, condescending manner, and her tendency to name drop obnoxious, but the two eventually become friends. She has infinite knowledge of the universe, can provide residents anything they desire, and details everything of what is happening in the Good Place but does have some flaws. In season 1, after she was rebooted the first time, Jason and Janet fell in love with each other and got married. It is revealed in season 2 that her feelings for Jason have remained despite memory wipes, causing glitches when Jason and Tahani fall in love. After Janet is rebooted in Season 1, Jason develops feelings for her because she is the only one who is nice to him; the two marry, but because his memory is wiped in the season 1 finale, he is unaware of his marriage to Janet until he is told about it in season 2. Michael exhibits a deep fascination for humans and human life, delighting in things ranging from paper clips to suspenders to car keys. In the first-season finale, it is discovered that he is a Bad Place demon who constructed a fake "Good Place" designed to trick Eleanor, Chidi, Tahani, and Jason into torturing each other. At the end of Season 2, Michael convinces the Judge to allow Eleanor and the others to attempt to correct their personal flaws by allowing them to return to the real world without memories of the afterlife. Recurring[edit] Tiya Sircar as the "real Eleanor Shellstrop", a human rights lawyer mistakenly sent to the Bad Place, who was killed trying to save Eleanor from a traffic accident, causing confusion because the two Eleanors were close to one another and died almost simultaneously. This makes Michael desperate enough to team up with the humans, whose memories he only pretends to wipe. Michael later successfully convinces Shawn that she betrayed them during the experiments, leading to her imprisonment in the Bad Place. Adam Scott as Trevor. In season 1, he is portrayed as a sinister figure representing the Bad Place. He leads an entourage of demons that parties endlessly and bullies Michael. Marc Evan Jackson as Shawn, an all-powerful Eternal Judge who decides on matters between the two realms. Maribeth Monroe as Mindy St. Claire, a former corporate lawyer and cocaine addict who one day came up with the idea of a foundation to help people but was killed while on the way to implement the idea. Because of this, her fate in the afterlife became unclear, leading to the creation of the Medium Place as a compromise between the two Places. While she is not tortured, her situation appears to be one of perpetual boredom. Jason Mantzoukas as Derek Hoffstettler, an artificial "rebound guy" that Janet creates to get over Jason. He is later sent to Mindy St. Claire as a diversion. Maya Rudolph as Judge Hydrogen or "Gen" for short , an impartial inter-dimensional judge who rules on matters involving the Good Place and the Bad Place. She was responsible for Mindy St. Michael successfully convinces her to put the four humans back on Earth to test his theory that they can reform even after what happened. Kirby Howell-Baptiste as Simone, a neuroscientist who befriends Chidi.
