In lieu of an abstract, here is a brief excerpt of the content: Boon Kheng was from a Peranakan background. After finishing his PhD at the Australian National University, he opted to move to Penang partly to immerse himself in a Hokkien-speaking environment. Suntharalingam, Tan Liok Ee and Michael Vickery, and he began an illustrious career that culminated in his appointment as Professor of Malaysian History. A list of his major publications follows below but, in addition to those works, he wrote a number of influential articles and was a moving force in the production of several volumes of research articles drafted by members of the History Section. He held a visiting appointment at the National University of Singapore for a year, and gave occasional guest lectures that served as quiet embellishments to a distinguished academic career. When Boon Kheng was diagnosed with cancer in , he rejected aggressive but debilitating treatments, saying that in the time he had left he wanted to be able to enjoy good food, talk with old friends, and enjoy the company of his wife, Ai Lin, their son Lu Hsun, and his granddaughter. He told friends that he had had a good life and was ready to face what lay ahead. Over the next few months, a steady stream of visitors made their way out to the western suburbs of Kuala Lumpur to visit him, and the final months of his life passed with dignity and grace, as he intended.
