

Chapter 1 : SheKnows | Entertainment, Recipes, Parenting & Love Advice

*I'd Like to Be (Parents Mag Gold Banner Books) [Steven Kroll] on blog.quintoapp.com *FREE* shipping on qualifying offers. A child imagines solving various problems by being a clock, a doctor, a duck, and other identities, before deciding that being me is the best of all.*

He mentioned Makaveli Records a few times before his death. This was supposed to be a music label for up-and-coming artists that Shakur had an interest in developing or potentially signing, and his own future projects would have been published through it as well. He made his first film appearance in Nothing but Trouble, as part of a cameo by the Digital Underground. His first starring role was in the film Juice. After his death, three more completed films featuring Shakur were released: In Juice, Hughes said Shakur would have outshined the other actors had he been in the film, "because he was bigger than the movie. The role ultimately went to Samuel L. Director John Singleton mentioned that he wrote the script for his film Baby Boy with Shakur in mind for the lead role. A student of the Baltimore School for the Arts where he studied theater, Shakur understood the Shakespearean psychology of inter-gang wars and inter-cultural conflict. During a interview, Shakur said: He wrote some of the rawest stories, man. I mean look at Romeo and Juliet. You got this guy Romeo from the Bloods who falls for Juliet, a female from the Crips, and everybody in both gangs is against them. So they have to sneak out and they end up dead for nothing. And look how Shakespeare busts it up with Macbeth. After he commits the murder, the dude starts having delusions just like in a Scarface song. I liked their attitude. It was protest music in a way nobody had ever thought about before. Tupac had so many sides. He was unafraid to write about his vulnerabilities. On this initial release, Shakur helped extend the success of such rap groups as Boogie Down Productions, Public Enemy, X-Clan, and Grandmaster Flash and the Furious Five, as he became one of the first major socially conscious rappers from the West Coast. He also showed his compassionate side with the anthem "Keep Ya Head Up", while simultaneously putting his legendary aggressiveness on display with the title track from the album Strictly 4 My N. He added a salute to his former group Digital Underground by including them on the playful track "I Get Around". Throughout his career, Shakur expressed an increasingly aggressive attitude on his subsequent albums. Shakur described All Eyez on Me as a celebration of life, and the album was critically and commercially successful. Many analysts currently describe him as a deist. Shakur publicly spoke out against interracial marriage in an interview with Source magazine in 1994, but later retracted these comments. He particularly reacted when people questioned his commitment to the black community and the West Coast. He wore a green tank-top on the night of his death. Jones was waiting for Shakur in their Las Vegas hotel room when she was notified that he was shot. She rushed to the hospital and remained with him until he died from his injuries six days later. A confrontation occurred and Shakur drew a legally registered Colt Mustang, and allegedly dropped it. As it was picked up by a member of his entourage, a bullet was discharged. Although the police matched the bullet to a. Marin County prosecutors have said they were stymied by a lack of witnesses. He was accused of attempting to hit rapper Chauncey Wynn from the group M. The incident reportedly began when Shakur became angry and threw a microphone. Shakur pleaded guilty on September 14, 1994, to a misdemeanor in exchange for the dismissal of the felonious-assault charge. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail, 20 of which were suspended, and ordered to perform 35 hours of community service. The officers were drunk and in possession of stolen guns. As they crossed the street, a car with Shakur inside passed them or "almost struck them". The Whitwells argued with the driver, Shakur, and the other passengers, who were joined by a second passing car. Shakur shot one officer in the buttocks and the other in the leg, back, or abdomen, according to varying news reports. Shakur was charged with the shooting. Prosecutors dropped all charges against the parties. Shakur denied the charges. According to Shakur, he had prior relations days earlier with the woman that were consensual the woman admitted she performed oral sex on Shakur. At trial, Shakur was convicted of first-degree sexual abuse, and acquitted of the weapons and sodomy charges. After serving nine months of his sentence, [] Shakur was released from the Clinton Correctional Facility on October 12, 1994. In the day that followed, he entered the courthouse in a wheelchair in the verdict hearing for his sexual abuse trial. He was found guilty of three counts of molestation and found not guilty of six other charges, including sodomy, stemming from his arrest. Vibe changed the names of the accused assailants upon publication. Shakur became the first artist to have an album at number one on the Billboard while serving a prison sentence. Me Against the World made its debut on the Billboard and stayed at the top of the charts for four weeks. The album sold , copies in its first week, setting a record for highest first-week sales for a solo male rap artist at the time. Shakur stated that he married her "for the wrong reasons". The 7 Day Theory. The album presents a stark contrast to previous works. Throughout the album, Shakur continues to focus on the themes of pain and aggression, making this album one of the emotionally darker works of his career. While in prison, Shakur wrote to Death Row Uncut director Nina Bhadresher about his plans to begin a "new chapter" of his life. PDT , they were halted on Las Vegas Boulevard by Metro bicycle police for playing the car stereo too loudly and not having license plates. Someone inside rapidly fired gunshots at Shakur. He was hit four times, twice in the chest, once in the arm, and once in the thigh. According to an interview with music video director Gobi, while at the hospital, Shakur received news from a Death Row marketing employee that the shooters had called the record company and threatened Shakur. At the hospital, Shakur was heavily sedated, placed on life-support machines, and ultimately was put under a barbiturate - induced coma to keep him in the bed. Some of his ashes were purportedly later mixed with marijuana and smoked by members of the Outlawz. Mean claimed in a interview that the ashes did not belong to Shakur. The 7 Day Theory , was released two months later, and numerous other posthumous albums followed. Information gathered by the paper indicated that: Orlando Anderson, the Crip whom Shakur had attacked, fired the fatal shots. Las Vegas police discounted Anderson as a suspect and interviewed him only once, briefly. He was later killed in an unrelated gang shooting. Before they died, The Notorious B. But nothing indicates when the documents were created. And Louis Alfred, the recording engineer listed on the sheets, said in an interview that he remembered recording the song with Wallace in a late-night session, not during the day. He could not recall the date of the session but said it was likely not the night Shakur was shot.

Chapter 2 : 28 Parenting Blogs and Magazines That Pay Freelance Writers

Find helpful customer reviews and review ratings for I'd Like to Be (Parents Mag Gold Banner Books) at blog.quintoapp.com Read honest and unbiased product reviews from our users.

The interwebs is full of writing opportunities, especially within the ever-popular parenting niche. There are plenty of high quality parenting websites that pay their writers in real cash. Here are 28 parenting blogs, websites and magazines that provide compensation for contributed articles. A Fine Parent This positive parenting website focuses on well-researched and actionable articles related to intentional and gentle parenting approaches. A Fine Parent contains longer articles typically 1,000 words, and focuses on quality content over quantity. Submissions open intermittently when the site creator announces the next few monthly themes and accepts outlines for potential articles. Submissions are now closed until early May, a signup link is available for those wishing to receive notice when submissions open. A leading digital magazine for adoptive families, this title is often looking for writers to provide helpful articles and resources for topics relating to adoption. Unpublished, payment varies by assignment 3. Carolina Parent This award-winning print and digital magazine is owned by Morris Media Network and has been around since 1980. The publication is written for parents, grandparents and educators living in the Triangle, and serves as a resource to many. Kill fees are also offered. The Home Forum CSW is a faith-based news outlet that also publishes essays on life, family, and parenting. The magazines are geared towards a variety of different age groups, and include works by writers and illustrators. Current calls for submissions are listed on the website, with a note that Cricket Media is always looking for work by minority groups for their magazines. Varies, not published 6. Cicada Magazine A young adult literary magazine owned by Cricket Media, this publication allows submissions from young adults ages 14 and up. The magazine publishes poetry, fiction, essays, and comics by adults and teens. An award-winning literary magazine for mothers. Brain, Child Magazine actively seeks submissions for its print and online publications. This literary magazine focuses on long form essays in the range of 1,000 to 3,000 words. Chicago Parent Magazine A parenting news magazine that publishes editorials with a local flair. Writers must be local to the Chicago area. This long-running magazine is geared towards families with children ages three to six. Her View From Home This site for mothers focuses on celebrating your view on life, family and home. At this time there are more than 100 contributors, and the site is continuing to grow and accept new submissions. For more details on pay-per-pageview arrangements, see our overview from summer 2015. Sometimes it offers material geared towards a national audience, but they are looking for writers from the area. Unpublished, website states it pays based on word count Kveller A website for Jewish parents, Kveller is always looking for new writers. The editors like personal, narrative-driven essays about parenting and motherhood, written from a Jewish perspective. Not all pieces need to be written about Judaism; the site does include articles by non-Jewish writers. Lies About Parenting A community of parents working together to debunk popular and often annoying pieces of parenting advice. The end goal is to raise healthier and happier kids, so if your post is controversial, you must dig deep and give good reason for your thoughts and opinions. Mamalode This thought-provoking site on motherhood, truth and transparency. This publication is always looking for authentic stories on parenthood. Payment is determined by the length of the piece Minnesota Parent A print publication for parents in Minnesota, this magazine is always looking for strong and experienced writers that live in Minnesota. Articles should be lively and on-trend, with relevant information for passionate and involved parents. Minnesota Parent offers a fixed rate per story. MOPS is a movement of women raising their communities collectively. This prestigious blog is well known in the freelance world and takes major writing chops to get accepted. Well Family covers a multitude of topics on parenthood, from infertility to gender stereotypes. Email submissions to wellfamily@nytimes.com. It seeks print and online stories of of interest to a wide variety of parents. Parents Magazine is looking for experienced writers to submit their work. Raising Arizona Kids A magazine written by writers living in Arizona for parents raising children there. It focuses on articles that provide local resources for parents, as well as supportive pieces related to parenting. This magazine is geared towards parents raising curious, caring and open-minded parents between the ages of 25 to 40. This magazine only accepts articles from writers living in Arizona A free monthly parents magazine for families in Billings, Montana and surrounding areas. Articles address a variety of parenting topics for families with children from birth to college years. When possible, the editors prefer a Billings tie-in. Articles cover a variety of highly relatable topics for parents with children from birth through the college years. A free Christian magazine and website that provides advice for families with children of all ages, often with a faith-based slant. Its website typically includes specific calls for submissions with pay rate included. It looks to cover families with diverse backgrounds and experiences. Western New York Family Magazine This print and digital magazine claims to be percent freelance-written. It focuses on families in the Western New York area. Articles should be highly relevant and relatable, with a Western New York tie-in when possible. Local writers are given preference, but the magazine allows all writers to submit. YMC publishes inclusive and unfiltered storytelling. This post originally ran in September We updated it in February

Chapter 3 : The Best Baby Shower Ideas | Martha Stewart

Parents magazine helps moms and dads navigate every aspect of parenthood from pregnancy through the school years. We get to the heart of the latest news and recommendations on kids' health, safety.

Discus thrower” Jenner became an American hero by returning the decathlon title to the United States. He and wife, Chrystie, are so high up on the pedestal of American heroism, it would take a crane to get them down. This would require forgoing any future Olympic competition. Wallach reported that Jenner was being considered for the role of Superman, which ultimately went to Christopher Reeve. Jenner was presented with a jersey customized with the number, the Olympic-gold-medal-winning score, but would never appear as an active player with the Kings. After taking over from Olympic champion Bob Richards, Jenner was second in a succession of athletes featured as spokespersons for the brand. Mary Lou Retton succeeded Jenner in. Two days later, Freitas withdrew the suit, saying that it was "a case of overzealousness" on the part of his staff. The movie was a flop. Jenner had some success with a television career, starring in the made-for-TV movies The Golden Moment: In the early s, Jenner was the host of an infomercial for a stair-climbing exercise machine called the Stair Climber Plus. Get Me Out of Here! The pair won their class and finished 4th overall in the hour endurance race. She had no ownership in the licensed name centers, [31] which were solely owned by Cirotto. Looking directly at the camera, Jenner is finally herself for the first time publicly. About Bruce was filmed with the family in which she answered questions, and prepared her children for the personal and public aspects of the transition. Jenner made it a priority to ensure that all her children were independent first before focusing on her transition. Welcome to the world Caitlyn. Jenner soon posted a video showing that she had taken Trump up on his offer. The cover and associated story marked the 40th anniversary of her winning the Summer Olympics decathlon. We are more than the stereotypes foisted upon us by people like you. Well fucking learn that we have had a VERY different experience than your life of male privilege. I believe this comment and others he has made trivializes the transgender experience as I have witnessed it. It is more than hair, makeup, clothes, all that kind of stuff. And I feel the same way. We easily recognise physical courage such as saving orphans from burning buildings, or ordinary people putting their lives in the line of fire. It is far harder to recognise mental courage. But so is Jenner. ESPN executive producer Maura Mandt said Jenner was given the award because "she has shown the courage to embrace a truth that had been hidden for years, and to embark on a journey that may not only give comfort to those facing similar circumstances, but can also help to educate people on the challenges that the transgender community faces.

Chapter 4 : News, sport and opinion from the Guardian's US edition | The Guardian

A magazine written by writers living in Arizona for parents raising children there. It focuses on articles that provide local resources for parents, as well as supportive pieces related to parenting. This magazine is geared towards parents raising curious, caring and open-minded parents between the ages of 25 to

The Furlong Baldwin Library holds a wealth of documents and records, including ship registers, immigrations records, birth and death records, church registers, civil and military records, and other information useful for family research. The Furlong Baldwin Library collections include important city and county maps, land and business records, historical prints and photographs that can help you with researching an individual property, business or neighborhood. The Maryland Historical Trust maintains a registry of historic properties throughout the state that also might be helpful in this research. I need information about getting my home registered as a historic propertyâ€ finding guidelines for restoring or renovating a historic propertyâ€ report a historic property that is being threatened by development. I want to report damage to, or find information about one of the roadside historical markers. A full listing of all markers and their locations is available at their website: For researching an object, contact the Enoch Pratt Free Library. They have an excellent collection of non-circulating reference books on fine and decorative arts in their Fine Arts area, and many references on Maryland in the Maryland Room. Other resources maybe available at your local public library or county historical society. Local antique dealers and auctioneers such as Alex Cooper, Richard Opfer, or local branches of Sotheby or Christies Sloan may be willing to assist you. You can also submit a request online at the International Society of Appraisers: Again you can inquire at local antique dealers and auctioneers for a referral, or contact the International Society of Conservators: Who can help me with that? MdHS has a very specific process for reviewing and considering any objects or materials to be donated or purchased for the collection. All items to be considered must have a significant Maryland connection: For objects for the museum china, paintings, jewelry, silver, furniture clothing weapons, sculpture, linens, quilts, etc. Contact Liz Nilson at x or email: The request will be researched and recommendations presented to the Collections Committee which will make the final decision to accept or acquire the object. For library materials manuscripts, books, prints, photographs, paper ephemera, etc. Can you give me a number for County Historical Society? Poe House Museum is at N. Where is a house where Wallis Simpson, later Duchess of Windsor lived?

Chapter 5 : About Your Privacy on this Site

It's a distinction no family wants. "I am a Gold Star mother," Ghazala Khan wrote in an op-ed article in The Washington Post on Sunday in a rebuke to Donald J. Trump, who had criticized her.

Please check your local library or an out of print book dealer to locate a copy. Illustrated by Anita Lobel. This horticultural mini-guide is a latter-day cumulative rhyme patterned, with humor and grace, after This is the House that Jack Built. Like Mistress Mary, Anita Lobel grows a decorative flower garden, a new blossom on every new page. The build-up is slow and quiet, thus allowing an attentive listener to savor the name of each exotic bloom. The climax, however, is fast, funny and not what you might expect. A special book from a special pair of collaborators. Reviewed by Selma G. Illustrated by Arnold Lobel. Pottle the Third loved hats. Browsing in a hat store one day he meets Isabel, who recognizes a kindred hat lover. They dance down the road in the rain together. Time passes and R. Pottle the Fourth is born. It turns out she loves shoes. Lobel has a gift for silliness that is never carried too far. Lobel was a fortunate day. To make such handsome order out of so many bits and pieces, sayings and verses, is a Herculean task, but Arnold Lobel makes it look easy, as he organizes, decorates, and innovates. There are marvelous double-page spreads devoted to just one verse, cunning groupings in which one illustration serves a fellowship of rhymes, and spreads that use framed miniatures to accompany unrelated lyrics. Lobel makes himself the master of each approach. She is a "baker woman" whose disposition and bread peel would qualify as dangerous weapons. She is quite capable of giving the Devil his due and does exactly that when he comes calling. In fact, by the time Mother Crump kicks off, Lucifer is so wary that he turns her away from his domain with one red-hot coal and the advice "to go start a Hell of your own. Working in watercolor and shading with a black lithographic pencil, he sets her in darkly decorative pages bursting with draped draperies, furred furbelows, funny faces and his own brand of medieval atmosphere.

Chapter 6 : What Is a Gold Star American Family?

Expert advice about pregnancy, your life, and family time from the editors of Parents magazine.

The Best Baby Shower Ideas Choose a slide 1 of 25 Set the Date Get the best baby shower ideas, baby shower games, baby shower menus, baby shower decor and more! Anyone, from a family member to a coworker -- but generally not the expectant parents themselves -- can host the event, which is usually held during the last two months of pregnancy. Some couples, however, hesitate to stock a nursery before the child has arrived, and some like to hold out until the baby can be the guest of honor. Ask the couple if they would prefer a pre- or postbirth shower. Typically, showers are held for first children only, but this is not a rule. Invitations should be sent at least three weeks in advance to an intimate number of friends and family members. The parents-to-be can help make the guest list so that no one important is forgotten. Also, decide if men and children will be welcome. Traditionalists prefer a women-only event, while modernists believe that the father should be invited. Inventiveness and thoughtful touches can make the party great. If you opt not to have a theme, avoid pastels. Keep the decor bright. Flowers are particularly appropriate for a celebration of birth. Remember to keep decorations to a few: All attention will be focused, anyway, on the belly of the mother-to-be. Rich, full-bodied foods set the right tone for an event celebrating the start of a rich, full life. Keep last-minute work to a minimum. Choose foods that are easy to prepare and can be eaten out of hand at room temperature -- cheese and vegetable tarts, grilled-chicken salads, homemade pizzas, fruit or green salads. It can tie into the theme bingo for a polka-dot-themed party , serve as a way to educate the mom-to-be, or simply provide entertainment. Swipe here for next slide 6 of 25 French Countryside Baby Shower This shower theme was inspired by the French countryside in summer, where the fields are carpeted in lavender and the sky is nursery blue. Most of the food, which includes potato leek soup, pissaladiere, madeleines, and chocolat blanc for favors, is easy to prepare and can be eaten out of hand at room temperature. And the decorations are few:

Chapter 7 : Caitlyn Jenner - Wikipedia

Patrick Reed is a lone wolf on Tour with a complicated past. As he was on his way to winning the Masters Sunday night, his parents, sister and their family and friends were watching on TV just.

Chapter 8 : eBay Buying Guides

Enjoy the videos and music you love, upload original content, and share it all with friends, family, and the world on YouTube.

Chapter 9 : FAQ | Maryland Historical Society

Xbox Live Gold required. Fortnite is Epic Games' new Action Building game. This Founder's Pack includes "Save The World," the paid Early Access PvE campaign with microtransactions.