I styled over half a dozen wigs for various cosplays, but the wig that got the biggest response was the wig I wore with my Rococo Belle look. Someone even suggested I should sell Belle wigs on Etsy! I can, however, explain how I styled my wig so that you can try it yourself! It was from roughly the right time period, and had a little of the height that people expect from the s, without reaching fictitious Marie-Antoinette extremes. I did a little research to make sure it was actually a historical style, and found enough portraits that had hair similar enough that I was satisfied. History and Step-by-Step Techniques for inspiration. For my wig, I ordered this one from Wigisfashion. The first thing I always do is section off any bangs, and some hair for tendrils. After sectioning on the bangs and the tendrils, I sectioned off hair at the front of the crown, going from ear to ear. I pulled that hair out of the way for a bit. Then, I pulled up sections of hair and made little hair rolls on the top of the wig. I forget how many rolls I had â€” I think three or four. Sadly, Fairytale Wigs has removed their styling videos from their instagram, but the next technique is something I learned watching the video where they styled their Cinderella wig. Even with lace front wigs, the lace only usually extends to about the ear. The trick I used here is to not try to pull the hair directly up. Instead, you cheat it. First you take a section of hair at the side of the head and tease the roots slightly. Then, using the teased hair to help hold this in place, you loop the hair down and up. Using the long stick part of my styling comb, I then gently tugged the hair at the bottom of this swoop to create a little extra volume at the hairline and disguise it. However, if you look at these progress shots of their Cinderella wig, it breaks this down into steps that are easier to see. With the hair looped up on both sides, It was time to tackle getting all that loose hair up. I did this by using the natural curl in the hair to roll up one inch sections. These rolls got pinned into place behind the poof in the front of the wig. I left out a back section of the wig while doing this, which I then teased at the roots and gently pulled up and pinned in place. The hair at the very base of the neck I left down to create the long loose curl. With the bulk of the wig done, it was time to tackle the bangs. I teased the hair a bit and then used it to create a gentle twist. The ends got tucked into the back and pinned. I cut the tendrils, leaving them a bit long so I could curl them.

History[edit] In , one of the few animated films made in Mexico was released, with quite remarkable success. Katy the Caterpillar film today has become a cult among his followers. The co-production was made between Mexico and Spain with producer Carlos Sotomayor and Mexican voice actors. The film was successfully transferred to the comics, marketable products, prints, and backpacks as well as short musical clips that were shown on Televisa and a video based on the song shown on the popular children and teens TV musical program XETU, a serious marketing. The story is about a young caterpillar named Katy who lives in a cherry-leaf tree with her three sisters. One day Katy decides that she wants to leave her tree and find out what she really wants to do. She soon meets the spirit of the forest Mother Nature, who tells the young caterpillar that she has to discover what she wants to become. After that Katy starts traveling the forest meeting other animals and insects she had never seen before, learning many new things, making some friends along the way and discovering what she really is: A young caterpillar full of questions and wondering, Katy is new and curious about the world. One day after deciding to leave home and seek her fortune she meets Mother Nature, the spirit of the forest, who tells Katy to discover what she wants to become. Motivated, she decides to roam the forest and begins meeting different animals and insects, learning about their lifestyles and their natural abilities. After her big adventure in the forest and the city, Katy meets with Mother Nature once again and finally decides to become a "flying flower". The spirit gives her a book about becoming a flying flower and she returns home and begins to knit her cocoon, places herself inside and by the next Spring emerges as a beautiful butterfly. She and Gilbert first met when the two were trying to escape their predators and hid. After that the two became fast friends and decided to travel together. Gilbert has wanted to move from his home to a better place and tells Katy that he always wanted to go to the city, so he travels there with her. After their adventures, Gilbert and Katy say goodbye, she gives him a kiss on the cheek and returns home. They consist of a female caterpillar with a sweet personality, a female caterpillar with a jealous personality, and an obese male caterpillar with a hungry personality. She teaches her how to knit her webbing into a spider web, however, Katy accidentally frees some victims that the spider has trapped them in her spider web in the process. The spider is never seen again throughout the rest of the film. Chameleons Camaleones voiced by Eduardo Tejedo - A group of chameleons that not only can change colors, but also can throw parties, festivities, and celebrations. Katy attempts to change color just like what all of the chameleons can do at first, but then they start making fun of her, and her expense. Lizards Lagartos - Two lizards that are seen in one scene, in which they are going fishing. Suddenly, one of the chameleons destroyed their fishing boat while he was surfing, making them very angry and blame him for the damage he did. After they were saved by Katy and Gilbert at the tomato cannery, they became eternally grateful and promised to be in their debt by flying them back home from the Big City and never harming them again. Almost winding up getting canned at the tomato cannery in the Big City, Goliath gets soaked by Gilbert with a fire hose and ran away, never to be seen again. He wears a straw hat. The story is about Katy, now grown up as a lovely butterfly, and her children, young twin caterpillars named Kiki and Koko, facing off against aliens who came to their forest searching for food - which happens to be inhabitants of the forest. With the help of their friends, Katy, Kiki and Koko are able to defeat Alien X and his crew and save their forest and its inhabitants. Katy, now grown up as a lovely butterfly, lives in the same cherry-leaf tree with her two caterpillar children Kiki and Koko. She is now a protective and loving mother who is also somewhat of a worry-wart as both of her children start getting into trouble when aliens start to visit. She still has many friends in the forest and tells true stories of her life as a caterpillar to her children. They are twins who always wish to become butterflies and fly in the sky just like their mother. The two try to find ways to learn how to fly before they are ready and they end up discovering Alien X and his crew, thus informing their mother and friends about the alien invasion. Skunk Zorillo - A grumpy red-nosed skunk that tries to sleep. He usually carries a pillow around with him whenever and wherever he goes. He is similar to the badger from The Fox and the Hound. He wears a Viking style helmet and carries a staff with a clenched fist on top, which he uses as a defense weapon when the colony is invaded by intruders. He relies on instinct to help find missing people and seems to have a bag full different kinds of hats, which he wears for specific occasions. He remains close to his friend Katy. He is very loyal and obedient to his father and often acts as his assistant. Arnold is almost always seen with a book, mainly one about footprints. He is the first to believe Kiki and Koko about the alien invasion. He often gives helpful advice to Katy. These four mollusk-like aliens are hungry and the only way to survive is to capture and eat creatures from other planets. X voiced by Esteban Siller is the one that leaves to capture the animals of the forest, while W, Y and Z stay behind and watch from afar. He always harasses its inhabitants but gets beaten up by them every time.

Edit Not very much is known about Katie right now, but she seems to adore fashion and getting in with a chance to show off any of her new, super cute cat themed clothing designs that she comes up with. She likes to spend a lot of her time knitting and reveals making her own hats. Katie and her trusty pet kitten are always up for a cat-ventures outside, but taking the occasional time out for catnaps at night! Appearance Edit While her age is unknown, Katie stands out for having tanned skin in comparison to mostly everyone else. She has very long flowing, pale pink hair that is very curly and just barely tameable, sticking up and down in multiple directions. This hat has a cat face on it, along with darker gray and pink coloring at its ears and the ends of its paws. The arms and paws themselves are almost as long as Katie herself, and they sway loosely at her sides. She also has on stockings that match her trademark cat themed hat, and wears yellow boots with pink laces and cat heads on each toe. Katie Cat Recolor 1 - While her skin, skirts, and eyes remain the same color, Katie Cat gains to have lilac colored hair instead of pink and instead of yellow clothing she has sky blue. Instead of white and grey cat parts, she has light pink oriented kitty parts. Recolor 2 - This recolor is somewhat like the other Katie Cat recolor. However the skin is much darker on this variant and her yellow clothing is depicted to be blue. Her cat hat is bright magenta pink with purple stripes and she comes with the same yarn ball skirt, and a pale pink cat ear headband. It comes with a small headband to match the one that Katie gets in her merchandise. In one recolor, it is light pink with lilac markings. It loves two things which are wool and fish. So much that it can barely contain itself upon seeing them! Comes with cat ear headband, a kitten, a yarn ball shape skirt, and her hat. I also like to think about designing, choosing and sharing some of my pawsome fashions that I come up with. The character in question is named Molly. Ironically she is known for knitting, but her mini dolls hat has no knitted implications on it.
