Numbered 1- left, 2 â€™ Middle, or 3 â€™ right Which Card were you drawn to? See your guidance below Card 1 â€™ Simplicity This card says that things have gotten too complex for you lately. For example, what do you really want? These are basics that will help you answer bigger questions later. When you clean the space around you, your mind feels more clear and focused. Your energy also increases. This card also means that you may be trying too hard with a project. You need to put your energy into the basic parts of it. Focus on the simple areas, and the complex will take care of itself. Card 2 â€™ Pets Animals love you. They know that you understand their special voice and that you respect them and their needs. Your pets especially love you, and they really appreciate it when you give them extra time and attention. This card is a message from all animals and your own pets to let you know how much they appreciate you. Animals also help you play and have fun. And be sure to give your pet fresh water and food every day. This card also suggests that you work with animals, either at school or as a career. This card can also be a message from pets who have passed on. It comes from thinking happy thoughts. They want to help you turn your life around by changing your thinking. Can you remember a time in your life when you felt really happy and safe? Think about that memory now, and feel it in your body. Even if some sad things are going on in your life right now, you have the power to be happy by thinking these positive thoughts. The happier you are, the more quickly things will get better in your life. This card also asks you to have happy thoughts about other people. You can always choose to see good or bad things in people and that includes what you choose to see in your own self. To have better relationships, focus on the good within yourself and others. This will motivate everyone to act in better ways. You can bring more happiness to the world by being joyful yourself. Your happiness helps everyone feel better, and helps all of us to enjoy a better world. What are some happy thoughts that you can think of right now? How did you go? Did you get the helpful guidance? Would love to hear if it resonated with you!

Any purchases made help support Mystic Familiar as a Free Psychic and Spiritual community for everyone! First can I say how great everyone did last week? I am in awe of you well done; it really shows that we can get a message on most cards. The reason for this is that you may have seen these cards and others at mystic familiar shop. This will give you a chance to get a feeling for the deck and others. Many of the decks we cover are available in the shop. You can also view some more of these cards in class archives. We enjoy the site and have many friends here. A lot is due to Sols hard work, if you are tempted into buying any of the decks, please buy from the Mystic Market Shop as this helps the upkeep of the site and the huge amount of time Sol puts into it for us. This is our fourth Doreen Virtue deck to ponder in our circle. Each deck does seem quite different to me; enough of my thoughts, I am sure the deck holder will give much better view on them. Please feel free after the holder of the deck has finished talking about the deck, to ask questions about them. Each card has a message, you should always use your intuition to guide you in your reading of them. I found them very easy to get an accurate reading. For those of you new to card reading, I would suggest this pack is a good place to start. When did you start reading them? Yes several of us do. How do you find them? They are brilliant and accurate to read. The cards drawn tonight are for someone who may give us feedback on our reading of the cards. Tonight no specific question has been asked by the sitter, more a general reading. The sitter who drew this card worries too much, they really must chill out, and also they need to heed their dreams much more. Spirit tries to connect when they are asleep. I feel this sitter has had lots of personal torment at the moment and maybe a friendship being exploited, as this card suggests a lot of thinking has to be done. And a good nights sleep will help you gain answers, as things tend to look better in the morning. This sitter has been searching a lot and has been unable to find the answer. He or she is tired and needs to rest plus he or she will find the answer in a dream or after sleeping. All the things they have found will find a logical match to make the answer. There is something that has been troubling you. Unsure which direction you should be going. Ask for guidance and pay attention to your dreams. Sleep on this card then think about the thoughts and ideas that come to you the following day. Trust your instincts, they will help provide the answers. A deep and spiritual meeting. You may have been pondering much and seeking it, looking at too many horizons. If you rested and allowed it to flow in its own time, it may come quicker, everything in its own time. Someone close to this sitter is very confused and worried about what to do in his or her situation at present. This sitter needs to put roots down but is afraid of been hurt. One problem is causing one or two smaller problems around the sitter like a domino affect, if they get the one issue sorted, other issues will fall into place the problem is not as big as it appears or looks. Mountains out of molehills just jumped into my head. The problem will be sorted by the autumn; the tenseness will have subsided and be forgotten. Think someone is trying to offer them some advice, it appears they are not listening at the moment. Listen from the heart, is something that came then. There is an obstacle, they need to talk to get over it. This sitter thinks they have a problem or two. This is nothing that they cannot sort out, the ability and knowledge is available. You have love in abundance around you and are an emotional person; you take things to heart think about them, and then act, trust this, it serves you well. Well the answer is simpler than you think. As love is, it is related to wisdom and this answer will help you to advance in your spiritual path. As they know they should, but there is no time like the present to start. Feelings here are that you have been shying away from commitment, perhaps still hurting from the past. Which is making you feel vulnerable at the moment, and unable to fully allow yourself to give your feelings to another person or be loved yourself. That will enable you to find true happiness. Got a sense of sadness for the three cards, first card the person has dreams and finds happiness in those dreams only. Second card says that the person is seeking something they feel is out of reach and feels tied to their present situation. Many of them are gifts from above. For me, it is linked to the second card. Almost the capping stone on other three cards, you know your gifts trust them; I feel doubt or impatience slow things up. I feel here that this is someone who puts their self down at times, lacks confidence, someone who does not always believe in their self. They need to understand that everyone is gifted and talented in various ways. So do not go comparing yourself to others, or think that anyone else is better than you. We need to rest after stepping to different levels. It time for us to reflect, ponder and gather knowledge for our next level. Use this time positively too as it is a step in its self. Try not to feel restless while in this space between levels, see and use the true love that surround you. It comes free and for you. Your feelings and emotion guide you well, but can slow things if you think too much; you have much solid foundation to build on and will shine in your chosen path. I get that there is a lot of mystery surrounding this person, a lot of surprises are still in store, that fate is not written for this person. I feel this person is torn between loyalty for a friend and what is right. But sleep on it and seek help and you will find the answers inside self. They are loved more than they know but need to show their feelings more. They are very talented, and sometimes never finish things, and learn what they know from experiences. When you learn to listen to your inner self rather than other people, you will move forward. You appear to be frightened to let love into your life, this is an obstacle you must overcome. Also learn to trust more, trust others and trust yourself. The feeling I get here, is that there is an issue involving love, that has been troubling you. You tend to rely on others for the answers, but need to find more confidence and trust that the answers are within yourself. Do not put yourself down and learn to trust yourself more. I got that you need to be true to yourself, and love yourself. Find your inner peace explore your inner creativity. That you are going to start a new project that you always wanted to, but go at it a little at a time it will happen. I feel everything is related to the first card and it is the core. You must seek through love and await simpler answers for your search. So you will find peace, and after sleeping, you will find the answer, connecting everything you find. I think they have been interpreted very well lots of intuition also flowing. I will break down a few points for you. The relying on others has me confused a bit; I rely on my wife a lot. But other than that, I do stand-alone. Yes again, spot on! My wife is also watching this; she says the love part you got, is you are picking up on the love around me. Yes, I am wary of letting people in. Dreams, again spot on, I mainly dream in two ways, black and white dreams, which are normal dreams. Colour ones are messages, so I do get a lot out of my dreams. I very rarely read books and prefer experiences of life as a learning curve. Gift wise, I am told that I under-estimate my gifts. Like I always said though, it is easy to see and feel others gifts, but not your own. Chapter 3 : Magical Unicorns Oracle Cards by Doreen Virtue Magical Unicorn Oracle Cards Unicorn is the symbol of the most magical of all animals. The symbolism of these beautiful, fantastical creatures encompasses practically everything that a child desires, including magic, beauty, artistic ability, imagination, and the belief that she is capable of anything.

Check in to see if your intentions are pure and your decisions are for the highest good of all concerned. The unicorn is a magical creature who emanates innocence, trust, and integrity; the combined energy of both the elemental and the spiritual worlds. This card reminds you to trust the flow of your journey right now. Keep a balance between bucking convention and yielding to it freely. Additional meanings for this card: Honour and respect others, yourself, and the earth. You can neutralize the poison of gossip through honesty. You have the ability to help others heal themselves. Try to see the innocence in the people around you. It is not for us to judge whether one is worthy of our love or not, it is up to us to love regardless. When you make a conscious decision to love unconditionally, you become a vessel for Universal love; healing yourself, others and the Earth. When you become a vessel for Divine love, it flows to you and through you, expanding your capacity for light and love, raising your vibration and purifying your spirit. When this connection is fully comprehended, you can release past karma and raise to a higher level of consciousness. To release yourself from karma, and stop the cycle repeating itself, you must detach from the drama of every day life. Let go of criticizing, judging and blaming, let go of feeling like a victim and of feelings of lack, fear and doubt. All of these dense, low vibrational emotions keep you on the hamster wheel of low vibrational energies. There is nothing holding you to the past if the lessons are learned, and the memories have been blessed and released; the silver lining acknowledged. There is no reason to withhold in a state of abundance; there is always more than enough for everyone and you can cheer each other on to victory and success! I realize that many people thrive in the competitive world, under pressure and having to produce€ but that is learned and perceived behaviour. It means that they could shift their perception of what is important, and live from the heart. No more judgement, fear or doubt? Trade it all in for harmony, grace and unconditional love? It is possible if you believe it is.

Chapter 4 : Magical Unicorns Oracle Cards by Doreen Virtue, Divination with Cards, Psychic Development

With the Magical Unicorn Oracle Cards deck, you can receive messages and guidance related to your present life, your future, and your spiritual blog.quintoapp.comle for adults and children of all ages, each card features a beautiful unicorn painting and a life-affirming message.

The symbolism of these beautiful, fantastical creatures encompasses practically everything that a child desires, including magic, beauty, artistic ability, imagination, and the belief that she is capable of anything. Guidance cards often called oracle cards are wondrous ways to help boost confidences and sooth worries for children and adults. The guests loved the enchanting illustrations of the shimmering unicorn pictured on the back of each card. We simply used a three card spread, and it was all each child needed to laugh and feel so good about the loving messages that the Unicorns had to share with them. Thank you for the support: I do get a minuscule percentage if you purchase the items after clicking on the links. Take the cards and booklet out of the box and fan out the cards in a semi-circle so that a portion of each card can be seen. Have the child sit for a moment and take a few big breaths to calm her thoughts. Once the child is ready, show her how to slowly move her hand over the cards and feel for any heat radiating from a particular card. If this happens tell the child to just pick the one that is the most obvious. Once the child has chosen the card, she can slide it out from underneath the other cards. The child can then set the first card down to the left underneath the arch of cards. She can turn the card over and see what it is now, or wait until all three cards are laid out. Now she will do the same with the second card by guiding her hand over the arch until she is confident about her choice. And finally, the third card gets picked. All three cards are now laid out side by side underneath the arch. This is a moment of exhilaration for the child to see which cards the Unicorns have picked for her. Pets is the first card! This child was so excited about this since she truly does love animals. We talked a little about her cat and how much she means to her. The second card is the Healer. This card reminds her that she has the power to help and heal others. This was a good reinforcement card for this child, because she is most often the first one to help someone who is sad, lonely, or hurt. In my mind, I already knew this child is a little humanitarian and I loved seeing the Unicorns recognize this trait in her. The final card â€œ Listen to Your True Feelingsâ€œ oh what a great message to get! It tells her to not let others talk her into doing something that she knows is wrong. Unicorn spirit guides also give us the ability to invoke our imaginations and creative abilities more deeply if we just ask. The meanings give great perspective and empowering food for thought in a child-friendly way. And most often, other children will be drawn to the positive assurance of the cards and will want to fill his or her own buckets, too! You May Also Like:

These little Unicorns are absolutely delightful! They bring you messages and guidance related to your present life, your future, and your spiritual path. Every single card is so enchanting that you want to enter the card, reach out, and pet the Unicorn! Grace, beauty, innocence, peace - these can all be found in these 44 cards. And no wonder, when you read that the energy of the Unicorn is the purest energy of the elemental kingdom which is made up of magical beings such as fairies, mermaids, and leprechauns. Many of these cards have words and paintings that were suggested by young Crystal and Indigo Children. That explains why one of my first thoughts when looking at this deck was that it was suitable for males and females of all ages and backgrounds. The energy expressed in these cards is universal elemental energy, and goes straight to the heart to heal. To The Beauty, purity, strength and magic that is within every unicorn, every child, and those who believe. Virtue begins by stating that the intent of this deck is to bring through messages for you and for other people, and that the cards have positive messages that you can trust, because the unicorns want you to feel happy, safe, and loved. Unicorns are angelic helpers who want us to live happy, healthier lives. To receive help from a unicorn - all we need to do is ask. This deck is specifically for use with both adults and children. For working with these cards, she explains how to prepare the deck for a reading, shuffle the cards, ask a question intent and focus is everything! She makes a point of noting that the cards are sensitive, that they will absorb energy, and that because of this they need to be stored in a very special place. In the companion book, Magical Unicorns Oracle Cards Guidebook, the cards are presented with black and white scans, a short message, and a discussion of the card. The backs show the head of a golden unicorn, with hanging vines and a forest in the background. The illustrations on the face of the cards go completely to the edge of the card. At the top, there is a white banner with the keyword of the card on it. Under the title Believe In Yourself! Flying in the sky are two white unicorns - one parent, one child. Through the clouds underneath them we see a beautiful rainbow. The message from this card is: See yourself doing well, and you will. This card asks you to hold positive thoughts and feelings about yourself. Only think positive thoughts about yourself, such as "I can do it. If you expect success, then you will have good results. You can enjoy life more if you believe in yourself. Instead, act in a way that makes them change their mind and see what you can really do. Belief means making a decision, such as "I can do this! What matters is that you believe you can do it. In the background is a misty forest. Here, in the middle of a forest, we have a gentle white unicorn bending its head down so that a house cat can gently nudge its horn and see "what is there", as all cats are prone to do! The message is "Start a project related to something you are curious about. Coming from its side are beautiful multicolor wings. The message is "You have a special bond with a grandparent that can never be broken. It is made all the more so in that it can be used easily by children. These Magical Unicorns absolutely scream love, safety and healing. They can be used by individuals, or in a group setting. I highly recommend this deck! My goal is to offer you insight into your decision making process, as well as tools that you can use to both better understand your path and make conscious, choice centered decisions.
