In addition, at least five million civilians died from disease, starvation, or exposure. Austria-Hungary blamed the Serbian government for the attack and hoped to use the incident as justification for settling the problem of Slavic nationalism once and for all. However, as Russia supported Serbia, an Austro-Hungarian declaration of war was delayed until its leaders received assurances from German leader Kaiser Wilhelm II that Germany would support their cause in the event of a Russian intervention. France, allied with Russia, began to mobilize on August 1. France and Germany declared war against each other on August 3. For the most part, the people of Europe greeted the outbreak of war with jubilation. Most patriotically assumed that their country would be victorious within months. Russia, slow to mobilize, was to be kept occupied by Austro-Hungarian forces while Germany attacked France. The Schlieffen Plan was nearly successful, but in early September the French rallied and halted the German advance at the bloody Battle of the Marne near Paris. By the end of , well over a million soldiers of various nationalities had been killed on the battlefields of Europe, and neither for the Allies nor the Central Powers was a final victory in sight. On the western frontâ€”the battle line that stretched across northern France and Belgiumâ€”the combatants settled down in the trenches for a terrible war of attrition. In , the Allies attempted to break the stalemate with an amphibious invasion of Turkey, which had joined the Central Powers in October , but after heavy bloodshed the Allies were forced to retreat in early . The year saw great offensives by Germany and Britain along the western front, but neither side accomplished a decisive victory. In the east, Germany was more successful, and the disorganized Russian army suffered terrible losses, spurring the outbreak of the Russian Revolution in . By the end of , the Bolsheviks had seized power in Russia and immediately set about negotiating peace with Germany. Germany signed an armistice agreement with the Allies on November 11, . Unfortunately, the peace treaty that officially ended the conflictâ€”the Treaty of Versailles of â€”forced punitive terms on Germany that destabilized Europe and laid the groundwork for World War II.
