In this tutorial, I make a shorter version of the headband resulting in a bracelet. You could also make a belt, keychain Paint the leather laces using the Angelus leather paint. I used a light coat so that some of the original leather color showed through to give it a distressed look. Paint both pieces and allow to dry for about 15 minutes. Cut two long pieces of waxed cord and sandwich them together between the 2 leather pieces and apply your ribbon clamp: Draw out a few flowers onto the soft leather trim piece Punch a small hole into the center of each leather flower you can also punch a hole through using a small nail and a hammer: Take one piece of the waxed cord and place it through one of the flowers. Follow the flower with a bead Work the cord through the bead and flower until it is flush with the top of the clamp. The bead will keep the flower in place: With the flower in place, follow the flower with 2 more beads. Take the 2nd piece of waxed cord and wrap it around the back left of the 2 leather pieces. The 2nd cord piece will go under the 1st cord piece with a single bead settling on either side as shown. The 2nd cord piece then wraps around to the back again and to the other side where it began, going under the 1st cord piece: You will repeat Step 6 over and over again and the top will look like this: The back will begin to look like this: Whenever you want to add a leather flower just add it onto the 1st cord piece instead of the 2 beads, follow the flower with one bead Continue the beading and braiding as in Step 6. Once your braid is as long as you want it, tie off the cord Tie a piece of suede lace to each ribbon clamp: A finished braided leather bracelet

Spring means great opportunity for new purchases!!! What do I mean? Shoes of course and my beloved sneakers! After all I cannot consider myself as the typical woman who enjoys wearing heels, but more like a minimal casual one, who adores comfortable shoes and especially sneakers. They are actually perfect for wearing then at the office with jeans and skirts and dresses and suits of course, but mostly I enjoy them for my long walks. Especially when I am travelling abroad that I want to discover the city I stay, is the perfect opportunity to wear them all the time. My favorite sneakers are always in my wardrobe and I am always trying to get more pairs in a different style. Blue, beige, grey, pink, with dots or stripes. I have to admit that I like them to have color and more color! So, allow me to share with you my new shoesâ€¦ pink with stars and glitter!!! Yea, like being a kid again, but it was Love from first sight! Well actually this is an issue every time I visit Kokoriko Shoes site to check their new shoes! It first started with my Blue Polka Dots Sneakers and then with many more. Suddenly I saw the pink with the stars! I tried hard to resist but it was impossible! And I love them! So comfortable and so glitter and in my favorite pink and with stars!!!! But again, I wanted to play with them and to experiment with a new diy. What I wanted to try? To decorate the shoelaces and add more boho details on them. So Shoes with Embroidery Shoelaces! For be more specific, we are going to create only small patterns with the threads, that are so easy to make in order to have these boho details. I could use the pink shoelaces, but I have decided to replace them with typical white. The pattern is easy, but I wanted to use the same type of colors for my shoes, meaning white and pink. There is no need to embroider the whole shoe cord, since I wanted to have a minimal white bow. Of course this is matter of taste. Ten minutes of our time and they are ready. Just keep in mind that in the back side of the shoelace, there are also the opposite side of the embroidery patterns. So, whenever you try to put the shoelace on your shoes, just be carefull not to fold the shoelace. Ready and full with Summer style! Actually I have the option to use the simple pink pair of shoelace or the white one with the pink details. I love them both and my shoes are still trending! So, what are your favorite shoes style for this season?
