Get Full Essay Get access to this section to get all help you need with your essay and educational issues. Start with the basic facts, including your name, where you grew up, how many siblings you have, your faith and ethnicity, and how old you were when you made a significant move or experienced memorable events. Achieve this by brainstorming either alone or with others who know you well. Identify specific life challenges. Think of life events and issues that caused you pain or frustration. Dealing with a learning disability as a child, escaping a political revolution and dealing with racism are a few examples. These are successes that you experienced through hard work, good fortune or sheer luck. Being awarded an academic award in high school, leading your basketball team to the championships or winning a large amount of money are examples. For example, maybe you dealt with a learning disability in childhood, but diligently overcame it and graduated high school with honors. Organize your personal history. Depending on who will be reading it and the required format, decide if you will present your history in a chronological or theme-based format. If your personal history involved a series of significant events that must be told in order, use a chronological format. Start with your childhood experiences. For example, if you are applying to a university program in conflict resolution, focus on the aspects of your personal history that illustrate your interest in resolving conflicts. Share life stories or events that have shaped who you are and motivated you to study this subject. Write your personal history. Write a paragraph that summarizes the main themes and lessons of your life, and ties them to your ultimate reason for writing your personal history. For example, maybe you experienced an economically challenging childhood and feel that a degree in business will help you to create economic self-sufficiency for yourself and your family. Read your personal history. Set it aside for a day or two and read it again. Ask those who are familiar with your life story and character to read it. Also ask people who do not know you well to read it to make sure that it is clear and effective More essays like this:

Chapter 3 : A Photo Essay on the Great Depression

How to Write a Personal History In this Article: Writing a Personal Statement for an Application Creating Your Own Personal History Developing Good Writing Habits Community Q&A Writing your personal history is something that you may do either as part of an application or as a literary endeavor.

An essay has been defined in a variety of ways. One definition is a "prose composition with a focused subject of discussion" or a "long, systematic discourse". Aldous Huxley, a leading essayist, gives guidance on the subject. Furthermore, Huxley argues that "essays belong to a literary species whose extreme variability can be studied most effectively within a three-poled frame of reference". These three poles or worlds in which the essay may exist are: The personal and the autobiographical: The essayists that feel most comfortable in this pole "write fragments of reflective autobiography and look at the world through the keyhole of anecdote and description". The objective, the factual, and the concrete particular: The essayists that write from this pole "do not speak directly of themselves, but turn their attention outward to some literary or scientific or political theme. Their art consists of setting forth, passing judgment upon, and drawing general conclusions from the relevant data". In this pole "we find those essayists who do their work in the world of high abstractions", who are never personal and who seldom mention the particular facts of experience. Huxley adds that the most satisfying essays "In English essay first meant "a trial" or "an attempt", and this is still an alternative meaning. The Frenchman Michel de Montaigne " was the first author to describe his work as essays; he used the term to characterize these as "attempts" to put his thoughts into writing, and his essays grew out of his commonplaceing. For the rest of his life, he continued revising previously published essays and composing new ones. Ben Jonson first used the word essayist in English in , according to the Oxford English Dictionary. History The examples and perspective in this article may not represent a worldwide view of the subject. You may improve this article , discuss the issue on the talk page , or create a new article , as appropriate. January Learn how and when to remove this template message Europe English essayists included Robert Burton " and Sir Thomas Browne " In the 18th and 19th centuries, Edmund Burke and Samuel Taylor Coleridge wrote essays for the general public. The early 19th century, in particular, saw a proliferation of great essayists in English " William Hazlitt , Charles Lamb , Leigh Hunt and Thomas de Quincey all penned numerous essays on diverse subjects. In the 20th century, a number of essayists tried to explain the new movements in art and culture by using essays e. Whereas some essayists used essays for strident political themes, Robert Louis Stevenson and Willa Cather wrote lighter essays. Zuihitsu As with the novel , essays existed in Japan several centuries before they developed in Europe with a genre of essays known as zuihitsu " loosely connected essays and fragmented ideas. Zuihitsu have existed since almost the beginnings of Japanese literature. Many of the most noted early works of Japanese literature are in this genre. Notable examples include The Pillow Book c. Another noteworthy difference from Europe is that women have traditionally written in Japan, though the more formal, Chinese-influenced writings of male writers were more prized at the time. Forms and styles This section describes the different forms and styles of essay writing. These forms and styles are used by an array of authors, including university students and professional essayists. Cause and effect The defining features of a "cause and effect" essay are causal chains that connect from a cause to an effect, careful language, and chronological or emphatic order. A writer using this rhetorical method must consider the subject , determine the purpose , consider the audience , think critically about different causes or consequences, consider a thesis statement, arrange the parts, consider the language , and decide on a conclusion. It is grouped by the object chunking or by point sequential. The comparison highlights the similarities between two or more similar objects while contrasting highlights the differences between two or more objects. Compare and contrast is arranged emphatically. Mostly written in third-person , using "it", "he", "she", "they". Expository essay uses formal language to discuss someone or something. Examples of expository essays are: Writing of expository essay often consists of following next steps: Determining the purpose, considering the audience, creating a dominant impression, using descriptive language, and organizing the description are the rhetorical choices to consider when using a description. A description is usually arranged spatially but can also be chronological or emphatic. The focus of a description is the scene. Description uses tools such as denotative language, connotative language, figurative language, metaphor, and simile to arrive at a dominant impression. Dialectic In the dialectic form of the essay, which is commonly used in philosophy, the writer makes a thesis and argument, then objects to their own argument with a counterargument, but then counters the counterargument with a final and novel argument. This form benefits from presenting a broader perspective while countering a possible flaw that some may present. This type is sometimes called an ethics paper. Writers need to consider their subject, determine their purpose, consider their audience, decide on specific examples, and arrange all the parts together when writing an exemplification essay. The text makes it clear to the reader why the argument or claim is as such. The focus of a narrative is the plot. When creating a narrative, authors must determine their purpose, consider their audience, establish their point of view, use dialogue, and organize the narrative. A narrative is usually arranged chronologically. The main idea of all the criticism is to provide an opinion either of positive or negative implication. As such, a critical essay requires research and analysis, strong internal logic and sharp structure. In addition, an argumentative essay may include a refutation section where conflicting ideas are acknowledged, described, and criticized. Each argument of argumentative essay should be supported with sufficient evidence, relevant to the point. Process A process essay is used for an explanation of making or breaking something. Often, it is written in chronological order or numerical order to show step-by-step processes. It has all the qualities of a technical document with the only difference is that it is often written in descriptive mood, while a technical document is mostly in imperative mood. It can take a narrative course and a descriptive course. It can even become an argumentative essay if the author feels the need. Thus, the focus is not merely descriptive. Other logical structures The logical progression and organizational structure of an essay can take many forms. Understanding how the movement of thought is managed through an essay has a profound impact on its overall cogency and ability to impress. A number of alternative logical structures for essays have been visualized as diagrams, making them easy to implement or adapt in the construction of an argument. Free response In countries like the United States and the United Kingdom, essays have become a major part of a formal education in the form of free response questions. Secondary students in these countries are taught structured essay formats to improve their writing skills, and essays are often used by universities in these countries in selecting applicants see admissions essay. In both secondary and tertiary education, essays are used to judge the mastery and comprehension of the material. Students are asked to explain, comment on, or assess a topic of study in the form of an essay. In some courses, university students must complete one or more essays over several weeks or months. In addition, in fields such as the humanities and social sciences, [ citation needed ] mid-term and end of term examinations often require students to write a short essay in two or three hours. In these countries, so-called academic essays also called papers, are usually more formal than literary ones. Longer academic essays often with a word limit of between 2, and 5, words [ citation needed ] are often more discursive. They sometimes begin with a short summary analysis of what has previously been written on a topic, which is often called a literature review. Most academic institutions require that all substantial facts, quotations, and other supporting material in an essay be referenced in a bibliography or works cited page at the end of the text. One of the challenges facing universities is that in some cases, students may submit essays purchased from an essay mill or "paper mill" as their own work. An "essay mill" is a ghostwriting service that sells pre-written essays to university and college students. Since plagiarism is a form of academic dishonesty or academic fraud, universities and colleges may investigate papers they suspect are from an essay mill by using plagiarism detection software, which compares essays against a database of known mill essays and by orally testing students on the contents of their papers. Long-form journalism Essays often appear in magazines, especially magazines with an intellectual bent, such as The Atlantic and Harpers. Magazine and newspaper essays use many of the essay types described in the section on forms and styles e. Some newspapers also print essays in the op-ed section. An cover of Harpers, a US magazine that prints a number of essays per issue. Employment Employment essays detailing experience in a certain occupational field are required when applying for some jobs, especially government jobs in the United States. Essays known as Knowledge Skills and Executive Core Qualifications are required when applying to certain US federal government positions. A KSA, or "Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities," is a series of narrative statements that are required when applying to Federal government job openings in the United States. KSAs are used along with resumes to determine who the best applicants are when several candidates qualify for a job. The knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary for the successful performance of a position are contained on each job vacancy announcement. Like the KSAs, ECQs are used along with resumes to determine who the best applicants are when several candidates qualify for a job. The Office of Personnel Management has established five executive core qualifications that all applicants seeking to enter the Senior Executive Service must demonstrate. Non-literary types

Film A film essay or "cinematic essay" consists of the evolution of a theme or an idea rather than a plot per se, or the film literally being a cinematic accompaniment to a narrator reading an essay. The cinematic essay often blends documentary, fiction, and experimental film making using tones and editing styles. Jean-Luc Godard describes his recent work as "film-essays". Brecht was a playwright who experimented with film and incorporated film projections into some of his plays. These are often published online on video hosting services. He states that since that time, essay films have tended to be "on the margins" of the filmmaking world. Essay films have a "peculiar searching, questioning tone Gray notes that just like written essays, essay films "tend to marry the personal voice of a guiding narrator often the director with a wide swath of other voices". A photographic essay strives to cover a topic with a linked series of photographs. Photo essays range from purely photographic works to photographs with captions or small notes to full-text essays with a few or many accompanying photographs. Photo essays can be sequential in nature, intended to be viewed in a particular order "€" or they may consist of non-ordered photographs viewed all at once or in an order that the viewer chooses.

After returning to school, I dedicated myself to my studies I had neglected before. The results seemed to fall short of my expectations, but I came to realize the pleasure of studying architecture. I started to work at an apartment construction site in May. The field service was laborious but wonderful. I went to work at six every morning and sometimes had to leave the work even after the midnight when the concrete slab task was delayed. I got only a day off every other week. But it was my great pleasure to watch the apartment buildings become more and more completed day by day. The bright light from the finally completed buildings brought me an immense sense of achievement. In charge of the whole construction of two apartment houses and an underground parking lot, I superintended them with the greatest care as if the apartments were my own. To achieve this, a sense of responsibility and sincerity was basically required. In addition, I came to develop the ability to judge logically and to cope quickly, since I learned by experience that schedule and quality could vary according to even the slightest change of such elements as laborers, machines, materials and the weather. My work in an architectural design office, which I began in October, demanded repeated night work, through which I learned how to manage time efficiently and I experienced the practical world of architecture I had never known at college. Among other things, the designing work made me aware that architecture could touch a human heart. After the end of the play, the actor made an unforgettable comment: I am deeply grateful for making me perform on this precious stage. That is the most charming aspect of working as an architect. All those precious experiences made me what I am. I still want to continue to grow up and meet a new challenge. Wanting to fulfill my dream of architecture, I intend to apply to your school.
