More What a Love Spell can do for You Love spells are just one of the many kinds of spells but it they are by far the most requested whether it is a love spell for attracting a worthy lover, returning a lost lover, or making a loving and faithful relationship last. A love spell is basically a formula that uses the energies of nature and the universe to find and attract someone towards love and finding true love is the main goal. Later, this love emotion is reinforced with binding spells that bring lovers closer together and enhances the love they have for each other. There are many kinds of spells like ones for attraction, binding, divination, invocation, and many more. But for many people who are new to spell work, they might want to find out how these spells actually work. Love spells are a combination of positive energy, focused intention, and a willingness to be quiet about the work. With these three actions in place, you can not only make a love spell work for you, but you can also enjoy the results, knowing that you made this love happen. Positive Energy, Positive Results The best thing you can do to make a love spell work is to make sure that you are being positive at all times. Simply doing the spell is not enough. In the laws of attraction, it says that like attracts like. In this case, love attracts love. You need to focus your thoughts, your actions, and your speech on love and on the fact that it WILL be in your life. You need to project confidence at all times so that you are able to not only attract love, but also enjoy it once it arrives. It is not enough to simply cast a spell and hope for the best. Whenever you begin to feel negative thoughts, turn them into positive thoughts so that you can project a positive aura, one which beckons love to come to you. Focusing Your Intention and Your Will From the beginning, your intention for the love spell needs to be clear. You need to know exactly what you want and what that might look like. But even more importantly, you need to really want what you are asking for. Think about what your life might look like with the results you envision. If you have any doubts, step back from the spell casting in order to decide what you really want. When you are focused on what you really want, you can align your will to this design and love will come your way. Keeping Silent One of the most important parts of spell casting is the ability to keep silent. While you might want to tell everyone you know that you cast a spell for love, this is going to dissipate the energy you are trying to harness. Even after the spell has worked, you might want to keep your energy to yourself. This way, you can continue to bask in the positive energy of your magical workings, knowing that no one can cast a negative light on what you have done. With love spells, it takes more than just words to ensure they work. You need to begin with being as positive as possible about love, then being clear in your intention. Finally, you need to be ready to keep silent about the magick you have done and how it has turned out for you. Magick is not something to be taken lightly – and when it comes to love, the more serious and focused you are, the better the results of your love spells. How Spells for Love are Cast These rituals can go from being simple incantations to ornate magical rituals. Different tools can be used for performing a love spell. These are potions, powders, mixes of herbs, charms, amulets, candles or voodoo dolls. For love, the color pink is essential as a symbol of drawing love towards the caster. Roses are also associated with spells regarding love. Casting spells on a Friday is also most advised since this is the day of Venus and requests for love are heeded more. Empowered with the sincere wish of finding true love, love spells take its flight and are sent out to the universe to be energized and fulfilled. There is an anonymous quote that says: Love and magic have a great deal in common; they enrich the soul, delight the heart and they both take practice. There has been evidence of these kinds of spells being used throughout history like in the Egyptian and the Greek civilizations. They kept a record of the spells that they have cast at one time or another in papyri, scrolls or engravings. Greek mythology and Egyptian mythology reflects spell casting for love as well. The most common type of spell casting in the past was through wax images of the target person. Charms and potions were two of the most popular mediums too. A love spell was usually cast by a witch or wizard that earlier tribes believed to have supernatural powers and could make all their wishes come true. Spell casting at one time in history did become a form of witchcraft, no matter how noble the cause was of finding the right love for a person and making him a happier and more fulfilled individual for that matter. They have become technologically available and over the internet, there are many love spells that one can search for and some are even offered for free. They also include detailed steps on how to cast these spells. The Different Paths of Love Magic.

Chapter 3 : POEMS OF MAGIC AND SPELLS by William- Ed. Cole | Kirkus Reviews

Malas with 28 beads are common in Buddhist prayers of prostration, and in the West have been adopted for woman-centered devotions celebrating and regulating the menstrual cycle. For this crafty spell we will be making beads from ground rose petals, and asking for the aid of Mari, The Great Mother. Due to its color, the red rose has long been associated with menstruation, and by extension the fertility that results from it. You will require about 4 loose cups of red rose petals for this devotion. A cup requires the petals from about 3 full blooms, therefore you will need about a dozen roses. If you like to do things old school then you will want to first dry your petals, then grind them in a mortar and pestle, after which you will need to wet them you may use rose essential oil or a rose hydrosol for this, or plain water if the scent of rose is not what you are after. A quicker way for those of us who embrace technology is to put them undried into a food processor or blender, which better retains their red color. Either way, you will want an end product that acts similar to clay, with a consistency that you can roll into balls with your fingers, without the mixture being so dry that they flake apart, or so damp that they lose shape and shrink drastically after drying. A bit of liquid can be added to solve the former issue, and starches or dried petals for the latter. A soggy mixture may also be remedied by pressure with a cloth or paper towel. The next stage involves cushioning them into balls. Make about thirty of these it is good to have a couple backups. While these are still internally damp you will wish to string them, however you may wish to let their exteriors dry overnight, or else dry them in the microwave in repeated 30 second intervals, compacting them further with your fingers between each attempt. Get a good sized needle, and use a strong thread. While stringing them, sing this chant. Mari most Holy Who in all things resides Whose dance moves the Moon Our Rosy Queen of the Tides For problems with your cycle, or as a prayer to instigate or end pregnancy, this chant may be repeated as a rosary, said twenty eight times while embracing each bead between your thumb and forefinger. Additionally, rose essential oil may be applied to each of the beads along with the prayer, as rose oil is used to regulate your cycle in aromatherapy. Other tricks include painting the final product with clear nail polish to seal and strengthen the beads. An entirely different method involves the use of over-baked clay, in which you add powdered red rose petals to the clay, roll them into beads, thread them, then bake them in the oven or they may be pierced along a thin skewer and later sanded and strung. However you choose to do it, the chant to Mari is always done while stringing them and ended when the knot is tied. The spells contained on this page are not intended as a substitute for any legal, financial, psychiatric and or medical services. Most often this manifests as scent, often arising from the graves of saints or their caskets when opened for rites of canonization. Roses also play a part in the story of Juan Diego, to whom the Virgin of Guadalupe appeared with a message for the bishop declaring her devotion to the people of Mexico. The bishop discounted the apparition, until Diego returned with a Castilian Rose that the Virgin had given him in the midst of an otherwise barren winter. A woman who dreams of a red rose will soon receive an offer of marriage.
