V of the Summary Catalogue, and from then onwards to in vol. The plan of these volumes was to describe the collections in chronological order of accession. Thus the descriptions of MSS. The First World War made impossible the continuance of the publication of a catalogue of accessions year by year, and it has seemed sensible to describe all the accessions of MSS. The contents of the volumes speak for themselves, but it may be useful to add some brief notes on the more important individual collectors: The manuscripts from this collection were bought at the sale held on 28 April by the executors of the widow of F. In the same year members of the family joined together to give the records of the Oxford Companies and Trade Guilds, which had come into the possession of F. Percy Manning was a member of New College who, after taking his degree, settled in Oxford and devoted himself to archaeological and historical research. He bequeathed his collection of printed books, manuscripts, prints, drawings, and maps relating to the University, City, and County of Oxford to the 6 vi PREFACE Library in His most original contribution was the set of ordnance survey maps on which he marked archaeological sites; these maps were transferred to the Ashmolean Museum in where they have been constantly in use and kept up to date. His survey of archaeological material was completed up to the end of and published by E. Leeds in Archaeologia, lxxi , A brief memoir of Manning by H. Salter was printed in Surveys and Tokens O. So runs the laconic entry in the Annual Report of the Library for that year. But it deserves some proininance since it includes the fundamental collection of Oxford prize poems and essays, and the well-known Hawksmoor drawing of his proposed new university buildings. The three most important in this volume are: Canon Oldfield came to Oxford diocese in after serving abroad and in Lincolnshire. He was vicar of Culham from 19II to and of Shipton under Wychwood from to before he retired to Abingdon. He sorted and arranged the Buckinghamshire archdeaconry records and the earlier Oxford diocesan records. He compiled a series of indispensable indexes and calendars of these and othedocal ecclesiastical papers. He wrote an agreeable clear hand and his work is remarkable for its thoroughness and accuracy. His collections are described in a special section, below, pp On his work there is no need to say more than to refer the reader to the memoir by W. Pantin in Proceedings of the British Academy xl , and reprinted in O. His collections are also described by themselves, but only in part, since they did not reach the Library until the present volume was in the press. He has been assisted by members of the staff of the Department of Western Manuscripts, especially by Dr. He has also received much help in checking the index from Miss M. Salter Bertie papers Topographical collections of H. U9 Transferred to Oxon. County Record Office , b. County Record Office , c. County Record Office , c p. County Record Office , d.
