Louisiana-based company The Howdy Corporation in Its name was later shortened to "7 Up Lithiated Lemon Soda" before being further shortened to just "7 Up" by That would make it neutral or basic on the scale; however, this is not the case, as the 7 Up pH is close to 3. Formula[ edit ] 7 Up has been reformulated several times since its launch in In , the version of the product sold in the U. The controversy does not extend to other countries, such as the United Kingdom, where HFCS is not generally used in foods, including 7 Up. Container labels sport the caption, "Made With Real Sugar". The syrup-like concentrate lacks sugar and is sold to franchisees to refill. Introduced in , along with "Ten" variations for most of the major Dr. It is a blend using high fructose corn syrup along with aspartame and acesulfame potassium to sweeten it. This formulation uses sugar rather than HFCS as its sweetener. Introduced on the season finale of The Apprentice, packaging in oz. It is also available in oz. After reformulation, it was reintroduced as Diet 7 Up in A cherry-flavored variant, it was introduced in Carbonated water, high fructose corn syrup, citric acid, natural and artificial flavors, potassium benzoate , red One known ingredient among the "natural and artificial flavors" is apple juice. The version sold in the United States is colored pink and comes in a clear bottle, while the international version is colorless and currently comes in a pink bottle. It was renamed and reformulated as Cherry 7 Up Antioxidant in January They also said that its decision was not related to the lawsuit,[ clarification needed ] but because of consistency across the board. Diet Cherry 7 Up has recently been reintroduced due to popular demand after having been missing due to the existence of 7 Up Plus Cherry flavor. This flavor was available for a short time in Norway during the mids. It was released at the same time as Raspberry 7 Up. It was a clear-colored lemon-, lime-, and orange-flavored soft drink. It was pulled off the market after 2 years. It was released at the same time as Orange 7 Up. It was a clear lemon-, lime-, and raspberry-flavoured soft drink. It was pulled off the European market after 2 years, but can still be found in several Southeast Asian countries such as Singapore. It contains a combination of artificial sugars, and for eight years was the only variety on the Norwegian market. The lack of the usual light or zero-label is confusing to Norwegian consumers, who often buy it not knowing they are buying a product with artificial sugars. In international markets, Pepsico sells 7 Up Light as the diet version of 7 Up. It is a different drink from Cherry 7 Up and uses a different recipe. This flavour was launched in France in and has also been available in the UK and Ireland since early The version sold in the UK is based on 7 Up Free and contains no sugar, colour, or caffeine. However, it only captured 0. The 7 Up Gold recipe was actually an unused Dr Pepper invention. Introduced in by Pepsi for the international market, it was a clear cola , in essence a repackaging of Crystal Pepsi. It was not as popular as hoped and was discontinued. It was part of the 7 Up family of soft drinks, and was introduced in September It was launched in the same year as other attempts to extend soft drink brand names with new variations, including Pepsi Blue , Dr Pepper Red Fusion , and Vanilla Coke. It was arguably poorly marketed, and while it remained listed as an official product of the company in late , it was scheduled to be discontinued for in favor of the "7 Up Plus" brand. The product itself was also, in many ways, the opposite of 7 Up: And while 7 Up has a fairly standard lemon-lime flavor, the "citrus" flavor of dnL is that of lime-lemon, primarily lime flavored with a hint of lemon. Available in Canada from Pepsico, citrus and lemon-lime. Available in Canada from Pepsico in the early s. Two additional flavors have been added to the line: Cherry and Island Fruit. In Ireland in , 7 Up launched a range of flavored water. Available in the U. Tropical flavor variant available in the Philippines marketed by Pepsico for a short time in the s, and then discontinued 7 Up Yerbabuena: Available for a limited time only in Colombia in 7 Up sponsored the Jordan Formula One team in their first year, the season. He gave viewers lessons about how to plan successful parties and picnics by having a plenty of 7 Up on hand. The commercials were produced by Disney , giving the character the specific Disney look of the time. Here, he

Chapter 3 : 7 Up - Wikipedia

Avoid series that cross authors, unless the authors were or became aware of the series identification (eg., avoid lumping Jane Austen with her continuators). Also avoid publisher series, unless the publisher has a true monopoly over the "works" in question.

While the loss of two high-caliber players is difficult for any prospect pool to absorb, the Lightning still have one of the deepest prospect pipelines in the NHL. Some of these players are ready for the NHL now, while others will be more of a project with an incredibly high ceiling. No matter what, the Lightning have the core pieces to bring in young talent to fill in their roster for years to come. During his time with the Lightning, he has looked more than capable against some of the top players in the league. Anthony Cirelli made a splash during his NHL debut, putting up a goal and an assist. Similar to Brayden Point, he is an undersized forward who makes up for his size with speed and a high hockey IQ. It is likely that the Lightning will return Cirelli to the Syracuse Crunch once Ondrej Palat is back from injury reserve. If his recent play continues, though, he will be a lynchpin for the Crunch throughout their potential playoff run. In 51 games this season, Cirelli has 14 goals and is second on the Crunch with 37 points. If he can help lead the Crunch on a long playoff run, expect to see Cirelli fighting for a roster spot out of training camp for the season. What they may not have expected, though, was the offensive explosion Foote would produce in his third season with the Kelowna Rockets. Through 55 games this season, he has 17 goals and 63 points, both significant gains over his prior season. Hockey is a game of inches. There is no one else like him in their system, and he will slot into the future plans for the Lightning after current roster players like Braydon Coburn and Dan Girardi finish their time with the team. During the season, he scored 42 goals and points in 58 games with the Erie Otters. With two teams throughout the season, Raddysh has scored 31 goals and 77 points in 52 games. He also represented Canada at the WJC, scoring two goals and five points in seven games. Taylor Raddysh is a top prospect for the Lightning who could find a full-time role with the Syracuse Crunch next season. He has some of the best scoring chops of any prospect with the franchise, sporting a combination of a big frame and high hockey IQ that gives him plenty of tools to work with at the next level. Raddysh is expected to make his full-time debut with the Crunch for the season, and he very well could be fighting for NHL ice time by the season. Throughout his first year with the Crunch, he has scored 18 goals and 35 points in route to reaching the AHL All-Star game. Stephens has shown throughout his young career that he is a high-character player who can be a leader both on and off the ice. With all of these attributes in mind, Stephens has the toolkit to develop into a two-way forward for the Lightning who can also control the emotions of the locker room.

Texas Rangers[ edit ] The Rangers and Angels rivalry has been said to have developed over a domination in the division between the two teams, and also in recent years more animosity between the two teams due to the amount of former players from each team playing for the division rival. Wilson , and Josh Hamilton have all been acquisitions the two division rivals have made from one another. In , Wilson played a joke on Napoli, his former teammate, by tweeting his phone number, causing Napoli to exchange words with Wilson. New York Yankees[ edit ] The Angels and Yankees rivalry stemmed from heated play between the two teams through the years, including several times in the playoffs. The Angels missed the playoffs, and the Yankees went on to win later that year. New York Yankees rivalry. In , the Angels were fifth in the MLB in attendance, with a total of 3,, people. Logos and colors[ edit ] “ The second logo under the "Anaheim" name and Disney ownership. The Los Angeles Angels have used ten different logos and three different color combinations throughout their history. Their first two logos depict a baseball with wings and a halo over a baseball diamond with the letters "L" and "A" over it in different styles. The original team colors were the predominantly blue with a red trim. The first logo under this name was very similar to the previous "LA" logo, the only difference was instead of an interlocking "LA", there was an interlocking "CA. Between the years “ the "A" was lower-case while from to it was upper-case. Angel Stadium of Anaheim In , the Angels adopted the "big A" on top of a baseball as their new logo, with the shadow of California in the background. After the "big A" was done in , the Angels returned to their roots and re-adopted the interlocking "CA" logo with some differences. The Angels used this logo from to , during that time, the "CA" was either on top of a blue circle or with nothing else. After the renovations of then-Anaheim Stadium and the takeover by the Walt Disney Company, the Angels changed their name to the "Anaheim Angels" along with changing the logo and color scheme. The first logo under Disney removed the halo and had a rather cartoon-like "ANGELS" script with a wing on the "A" over a periwinkle plate and crossed bats. The uniforms also reflected the change to the gold halo for this season. During the 50th Anniversary season the players wore throwback jerseys at each Friday home game reflecting all the different logos and uniforms previously worn by players. Also, Angels alumni from past seasons threw the ceremonious first pitch at every home game during the 50th Anniversary season. A new patch was added on the uniforms before the season, featuring a red circle encircling the words "Angels Baseball" and the club logo inside and flanking the year in the middle, which was the year the Angels franchise was established. Radio and television[ edit ] Main article: That station, then KMPC, aired games from to The Angels broadcast line-up was thrown into doubt with the death of Rory Markas in January On March 3, it was announced that Victor Rojas will replace Markas. Those games were available live only online. Live preseason broadcasts were to begin on March This was a partial return to their old station from Fox Sports West holds the exclusive rights to the regional telecasts of approximately Angels home and away games. The split arrangement dated back to the season, when Mota and Gubicza were the second team. Mota, who is bilingual and the son of former Dodger Manny Mota , has also called Angels games in Spanish, and at one time did analysis from the dugout rather than the usual booth position. All locally broadcast games are produced by FSN regardless of the outlet actually showing the games. Dick Enberg , who broadcast Angels baseball in the s, is the broadcaster most identified with the Angels, using such phrases as "Oh, my! Jerry Coleman also spent time with the Angels organization in the early s as a pre-game and post-game host before joining the San Diego Padres broadcast team. Walt Disney Pictures remade the film Angels in the Outfield in with the California Angels as the team that receives heavenly assistance. The team is also featured in the comedy film The Naked Gun.
