I was frightened at this, for it seemed to me that everyone ought to know that I avoided all kinds of company. This boy came up to me and said: At these words, the natural evil in me soon showed itself, and taking a few steps back, I told him: I want to be alone. My Master told me to come and watch over my cows together with yours. There, I used to talk with the little flowers of the Good Lord. A moment later, I looked behind me, and there I found Maximin sitting close to me. Straightway he says to me: I jump to my feet, and run a little farther off without saying a word and again I start playing with the little flowers of the Good Lord. This time, I took pity, I gestured to him to sit down, and I kept on playing with the little flowers of the Good Lord. I look at him and he says to me: But I had no liking for the game he told me to play. I started talking to him, however, and he told me that the ten days he was to spend with his Master would soon be over and then he would go home to his father in Corps etc While he was talking, I heard the bell of La Salette, it was the Angelus. I gestured to Maximin to lift his soul up to God. He took off his hat and was silent for a moment. As was my habit, before breaking into my little round loaf, I made a cross with the point of my knife on the bread, and a little hole in the middle, saying: Maximin burst into laughter and kicked the loaf out of my hands. It rolled down the mountainside and was lost from sight. I had another piece of bread which we shared. Afterwards, we played a game. Then, realizing that Maximin must still be hungry, I pointed out a place on the mountainside covered with all kinds of berries. I urged him to go and eat some and he went straight away. He ate a few berries and brought back his hat full of them. In the evening we walked back down the mountain together and promised to come back the next day and watch over our cows together. The next day, the 19th of September, I met Maximin on the way up. We climbed up the mountain side together. I discovered that Maximin was a very good, simple boy, and would willingly talk about what I wanted to talk about. He was also very flexible and had no fixed opinions. He was just a little curious, for, when I walked away from him, as soon as he saw I had stopped, he would run over to me to see what I was doing and hear what I was saying to the flowers of the Good Lord. And if he arrived too late, he would ask me what I had said. Maximin told me to teach him a game. It was already late morning. We set to work together. Soon we had a number of flowers of various colours. We drove our cows to the selected spot and then had a small meal. We had also hung garlands all the way round. We began to feel sleepy and having moved a couple of feet away, we went to sleep on the grass. From there I could see our cows grazing peacefully and I was on my way down, with Maximin on his way up, when all at once I saw a beautiful light shining more brightly than the sun. Something inconceivably fantastic passed through me in that moment and I felt myself being drawn. I felt a great respect, full of love, and my heart beat faster. I kept my eyes firmly fixed on this light, which was static, and as if it had opened up, I caught sight of another, much more brilliant light which was moving, and in this light I saw a most beautiful lady sitting on top of our Paradise, with her head in her hands. This beautiful Lady stood up; she coolly crossed her arms while watching us, and said to us: When I was up close to the Beautiful Lady, in front of her to her right, she began to speak and from her beautiful eyes tears also started to flow. It is so heavy and weighs me down so much I can no longer keep hold of it. If I do not wish my Son to abandon you, I must take it upon myself to pray for this continually. And the rest of you think little of this. In vain you will pray, in vain you will act, and you will never be able to make up for the trouble I have taken over for the rest of you. This is what weighs down the arm of my Son so much. If the harvest is spoiled, it is only because of the rest of you. I made you see this last year with the potatoes; you took little account of this. They will continue to go bad, at Christmas there will be none left. The Beautiful and Good Lady, reading my thoughts, repeated thus: I will tell it to you another way. I made you see this last year with the potatoes. You took little account of this. It was quite the opposite when you found bad potatoes, you swore oaths, and you included the name of my Son. They will continue to go bad and at Christmas, there will be none left. The beasts will eat all that you sow. And all that grows will fall to dust when you thresh it. A great famine will come. Before the famine comes, children under the age of seven will begin to tremble and will die in the arms of those who hold them. The others will do penance through hunger. The nuts will go bad, the grapes will become rotten. I could see, however, that she was continuing, as if speaking, to move graciously her kindly lips. At this moment, Maximin was receiving his secret. Then, turning to me, the Most Holy Virgin spoke to me and gave me a secret in French. Here is this secret in its entirety as she gave it to me. You may make it public in Yes, the priests are asking vengeance, and vengeance is hanging over their heads. Woe to the priests and to those dedicated to God who by their unfaithfulness and their wicked lives are crucifying my Son again! The sins of those dedicated to God cry out towards Heaven and call for vengeance, and now vengeance is at their door, for there is no one left to beg mercy and forgiveness for the people. There are no more generous souls; there is no one left worthy of offering a stainless sacrifice to the Eternal for the sake of the world. God will exhaust His wrath upon them and no one will be able to escape so many afflictions together. They have become wandering stars which the old devil will drag along with his tail to make them perish. God will allow the old serpent to cause divisions among those who reign in every society and in every family. Physical and moral agonies will be suffered. God will abandon mankind to itself and will send punishments which will follow one after the other for more than thirty-five years. Mankind must expect to be ruled with an iron rod and to drink from the chalice of the wrath of God. I will be at his side. May he be on his guard against Napoleon: He is the master-mind who, always wanting to ascend further, will fall on the sword he wished to use to force his people to be raised up. And so she will be left to fight a war; blood will flow on all sides. Churches will be locked up or desecrated. Priests and religious orders will be hunted down, and made to die a cruel death. Several will abandon the faith, and a great number of priests and members of religious orders will break away from the true religion; among these people there will even be bishops. For the time has come when the most astonishing wonders will take place on the earth and in the air. They will blind them in such a way, that, unless they are blessed with a special grace, these people will take on the spirit of these angels of hell; several religious institutions will lose all faith and will lose many souls. They will have great power over Nature: People will be transported from one place to another by these evil spirits, even priests, for they will not have been guided by the good spirit of the Gospel which is a spirit of humility, charity and zeal for the glory of God. On occasions, the dead and the righteous will be brought back to life. That is to say that these dead will take on the form of righteous souls which had lived on earth, in order to lead men further astray; these so-called resurrected dead, who will be nothing but the devil in this form, will preach another Gospel contrary to that of the true Christ Jesus, denying the existence of Heaven; that is also to say, the souls of the damned. All these souls will appear as if fixed to their bodies. Woe to the Princes of the Church who think only of piling riches upon riches to protect their authority and dominate with pride. I will be with him until the end and receive his sacrifice. In convents, the flowers of the Church will decompose and the devil will make himself like the King of all hearts. May those in charge of religious communities be on their guard against the people they must receive, for the devil will resort to all his evil tricks to introduce sinners into religious orders, for disorder and the love of carnal pleasures will be spread all over the earth. Blood will flow in the streets. Frenchman will fight Frenchman, Italian will fight Italian.

Thank you very much! When Derene got home we listened to it together. It came through just as I was about to inbox you to tell you that we are at a critical juncture and really need a prophetic word. Thank you so much! Words cannot begin to express how much this word meant and how it confirms the ache in my spirit being. God is so good! So faithful! His timing is perfect! God bless you and dear Kitty. Thank you so much for this word. I was in tears after listening to the clip because it was nothing but the truth! I am lost for words! Wow I was totally blown away by this word. It is the most accurate word I have ever gotten in my entire Christian life. The prophecy given over my life was such a powerful confirmation and intense destiny word. It is a culmination of 25 years of my life in Christ. My life has been changed and is now emerging in what God spoke to me through your ministry. You gave me a word last year in November and already things have begun to come to pass. Thank God for this ministry. The word Russell gave me was in great detail to the exact plan the Lord show me. This gives me great confidence to press on!! Your prophetic word is absolutely right on target!!! There is no way that Russ and Kitty would know these things if the Lord had not revealed it to them! How awesome to [receive] profound revelation about the things to come. Thank you so much. It was a confirming and encouraging word. I needed clarity and received what I needed. You were so exact in the statement you said before you read my request. It was repeating what a prophet said previously. I received a prophetic word last week, and yesterday I went for a job interview. As [the prophecy] said so it was, I landed a great new job! There is an anointing even in his voice and I receive the word he gave in Jesus name and with great anticipation! I am overwhelmed with the word! The words you spoke to me have help propel me to another dimension in God. Thank you so much! I received my prophecy today and it was wonderful. The word was accurate and right on time. This prophetic word from the Lord; it was truly a word of encouragement, direction and promise. The prophecy I received was very accurate and only God knows exactly how I was feeling. I played the audio message over and over again, and truly am blessed, excited and joyful of what God is preparing me for. Thank you is not enough. Only the Lord knew what you revealed to me. Russ and Kitty you are indeed messengers of God. My prophecy is soooooo right on! Thank you, thank you, thank you. The word was accurate and was encouraging and was going along with what GOD was already showing me. Thank you SO much for seeking prophetically for me! You have no idea how much it means to me. I thank God for the gift of prophecy given to you both. It is a blessing. The words spoken were true and from the Lord. I have received many profound prophecies in my lifetime. However, this one from you shook me to my very soul. Thank you so much for the word! It truly blessed my socks off!!! The tears just streamed down my face as I listened to you prophesy into my life. Thank you for the word, it was encouraging and accurate. It touched me so much I started weeping. You guys are amazing in God and your ministry has impacted greatly in my life. The word was definitely spot on, and yes it was encouraging. I also train at a school of the Holy Spirit. Your ministry is definitely God ordained and truly and a blessing. I have been wonderfully blessed by the prayers, prophetic words, and counseling that I received from Russ during my time of need. Thank you so much for your ministry! The word I received was amazingly accurate, rich and potent. I just received my prophesy and awestruck about the things which are described in the prophecy which are hundred percent true. I tell you that God spoke to you with so much clarity. Every thing you said was on point. When I heard your word I ran around shouting. The word given was clear, and direct and honest. I am blown away by your personal prophesy over me. It is an amazing confirmation. What a gift and ministry you have! Thank you so very much. While Prophet Russ was speaking, I closed my eyes, lifted my hands to Heaven, and began to weep. I receive this very encouraging and powerful word from the Lord. Thank you so much for bringing this to us! Be it in my quiet times, or on the bus I just have this feeling of euphoria like yes, yes, Father have your way Lord. In such a time as this Prophet Russ and Kitty you are the voice in the dessert calling. I just received

Gods word for me and the tears started to flow with such a heavy presence of the Lord around me. I have been praying for answers from God and now I have a peace knowing he is directing my path. Thank you prophet of God. May the Lord continue to bless your ministry.. I find God himself standing and speaking His life to me. It must have been God directing me to Google this websiteâ€¦ I received a word from the Lord through Russell. I prayed and felt the Lord led me to request a prophetic word. The word spoke about specific areas one of which was regarding a house. The Lord indeed spoke I would have favor and it came to pass â€” I purchased my home! When I went to finalize everything, my mortgage monthly payments were less then what was previously told! I could go on and on. It was the specific confirmation I needed for a step I was to take in my life. The Word was as clear as it could be for the direction I was to take and to step and trust the Father. I almost gave up on myself but once again I feel like I can make it. To be in a position to hear from the Lord and know clearly, what he is saying and enviable. I appreciate you so much and look forward everyday to the refreshing Word of the Lord you will bring. Thank you for your websiteâ€¦ I would like to thank God for sending you into my life. I have been receiving your prophetic words for a month now and God has been spoken to be through them clearly. Every time I pray about something God would answer me through you. Through your words I have received my calling and my ministry. Doors are opening after 7 years. Opportunities are flowing in. Now I am also prophesying to people. May God bless your ministryâ€¦ Thank you for the word from God that I received today for me personally. I have longed for so long to have a prophecy for me personally and this has touched my heart and soul much deeper and in a much more powerful way than you might ever know.

Chapter 3 : La Salette Apparitions and Prophecies of Our Lady

Sweet mother prophecy [microform]: a Buddha for an abominable age / on ResearchGate, the professional network for scientists. For full functionality of ResearchGate it is necessary to enable.

In retrospect, I believe this was a mix of prophecy and her personal opinion. At the time as a fairly new Christian, I thought it was all from God, and it devastated me. She was not kind in the words she used. I felt dreadful, and tried to talk to God about it, but received no response that I recognised. In order to regain some perspective, I asked to speak to the pastor about the prophecy "with the prophet present. I asked her to repeat what she had said, and filled in the details that hurt me that she had missed. The meeting was a debacle, with her walking out and saying she refused to talk while I was so upset. The pastor explained to me that when God creates something new and beautiful in you, an attack from the devil is often around the corner, trying to tear you down. Somehow, the message from God "which was supposed to be uplifting" got dragged down and filtered through human concerns, and all I heard was criticism passed as prophecy. As with all good lies, there was enough of a grain of truth to make it seem plausible "although some of what was spoken was in regard to past behaviour that I had already conquered. What made it harder was that this prophet was very high in the church hierarchy, was someone in a position of respect and trust, and not someone I felt I had to be wary of. I guess the moral is not to trust any one person when it comes to messages from God, no matter what their past record. ALWAYS test prophecy against the source before taking it as truth, particularly if there is anything of a critical nature in it. I have since learned more about the nature of prophecy, that it is used to edify and build up the church, not to tear people down. Helen Calder Post author 12 September at 7: When we have positioned ourselves to receive a word from God, we have opened our hearts and are often vulnerable. Then, the missile fires at us. Prophecy should be a gift that reflects the heart of God towards someone, not tear him or her down. You have brought out a great point about going to the person who brought the word "with a witness present" to share your hurt Matt Some things that can be prayed are: You can tell down the track when this happens, because the negative outcome of the word begins to eventuate in your life. Even if the incident took place a long time ago, this process can still be helpful. These days I like to give people who have received a personal prophecy whether the prophecy is from myself, my team or a visiting ministry at our church a brochure that explains how to weigh up the prophetic word and what they can do with it. Tanith 11 September at 7: I am quoting this from a 12 Sept response: But he chose not to tell his wife that he never mentioned to her that, when they started to date, that his ex was still pregnant, nor that he is already father "he abandoned his firstborn and is denying there is a child. There was an incident where his wife heard about this and he denied that he is a father, saying the ex is lying. Because according to the quote, anything bad is a curse???? So the lie automatically holds consequences, not necessarily a curse? Thanks 11 September at 8: It makes a lot of sense. The natural consequence of a lie is taking place. Re prophecy "We do discourage people who are beginning and growing in the gift of prophecy against bringing words that are negative, judgmental or condemning, or are prophesying negative outcomes. If someone who has a prophetic gift feels strongly about a correcting word, we suggest they run it past oversight first, rather than give it directly to a person. I hear your frustration, Tanith. I pray the situation you mentioned turns around for good. This issue is one that causes so much confusion at times for people and you have given a fantastic teaching here. Sandi Bonavita 13 September at 2: I am sorry that this has happened to this person. The person did the right thing by bringing it to leadership and openly discussing it with the person prophet, good for you that will always help in the healing process of a hurt or wounded heart. This letter will also help those of us with a prophetic gift to evaluate what a word spoken can do to someone when it is not given in a way that edifies the person, so again thank you for sharing what would have been very painful for you. We may well get words of instruction when prophesying for a person, but our responsibility is to ask the Lord what He would have us say to the person, it should never come from our own feelings, although unfortunately it sometimes does, but if we ask the Lord, He will always have you speak it in a way that blesses and not curses. Let us all be wise in our treatment of others. Helen Calder Post author 13 September at 9: It may be true discernment not opinion, as in the earlier example , but if it is NOT shared in the redemptive way that you have illustrated, it can be harmful. The Lord gives us gifts of discernment to heal, not hurt. I remember someone saying when praying for me at an altar call that they discerned a demonic spirit named it at work in my life. Then they could have gently directed me towards some Prayer Ministry to be set free. The reality is, that however diligent we are, this kind of thing will happen occasionally. It may be worth us including this discussion in future training sessions on prophecy and altar ministryâ€ Lorraine Nhira Could you please email me regular teachings , trainings or appropriate material to help me develop the prophetic gift. The reason I love this author so much, is because when I open one of her books, I know I am guaranteed a hot Alpha and some very nice steam: I squealed a bit!! This book has not one, but two of my weaknesses I feel so blessed!!! It took me some time to really get into the story. This almost always happens to me with new PNR series, because of the set up and world-building. This series revolves around a family of shifter brothers. Each book will feature a different brother and will have more information regarding their family and other important details. The oldest brother of the family and also the Zenith alpha. This literally means, he is the strongest wolf-shifter alive and his role comes with a lot of responsibility. With his 3 brothers and sister he rules the shifter world. To bad or good that fate has decided differently This is where Chadwick comes in He is the, almost year old, Vampire King, who rules the vampire world. Vampires and Shifters do not get along. They are natural enemies, that mostly avoid each other. Lately, their species have been getting into more and more altercations, and when a human dies, because of their fighting, Wick is summoned back to America to deal with the situation. When the Leader of the Shifters and the King of the Vampires meet Their reaction towards each other is so extreme, that it becomes clear real fast, that these two are "true mates". So he rejects Wick and in doing so Then why was his breaking right now? I felt so sorry for Wick. He wanted his "beloved" so badly. He felt so defeated, but help comes to him in a mysterious way, and Wick is not ready to give up on his beloved just yet. P These two getting together, claiming one another and feeding was extremely hot!! Packs and Covens to be informed and enemies to be fought. I really enjoyed this first book. It was sweet, hot, exciting and even funny at times. Wick testing his cooking skills, had me laughing out loud. These two were perfect for each other, but I have to say, that I liked Wick a tad bit more. Now I am very curious to find out what A.

However, problems arose, such as the detention of her father as a suspected German spy in . This played a main role in her deciding to major in political science in her studies. He verbally abused her mother and had a violent temper which he directed towards them and the destruction of his beloved fish tanks. This happened in the third grade, when she was about to say her lines in a Christmas play, and recurred throughout her life. Her condition was first diagnosed as petit mal epilepsy, known more commonly today as absence seizures. She did not find medication helpful, and discontinued using it. Prophet thought her mother was implying the medication may have contributed to her childhood blackouts. Prophet herself did some research, and learned the use of quinine sulphate could have damaged the developing nervous system and the brain. She claimed that when she was about four, she had a vision of herself playing on the sands of the Nile river in Egypt. Her mother told her that it was a past life. This motivated her to find out more about who these "saints robed in white" Rev. Her father was Lutheran , her mother Catholic. Prophet stayed with Christian Science until she met Mark Prophet at the age of . She attended Antioch College in Ohio from September to March majoring in political science and economics. She transferred to Boston University in September , and graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in political science in August . She was in charge of a number of high school girls between 15 and 16 years old and her role was to discipline them. She described the experience as frustrating and said she ended up praying to God she might never be put in a position of authority over others. According to Prophet that is where she learned much about the publishing operations, organization, and administration of a church on a worldwide scale. This would help her later in running her own church. Prophet at a public meeting in Boston on April 22, . He had come to teach what he called "the Ascended Masters". Saint Gemma Galgani and her Guardian Angel. He takes the Golden Book out from his clothing. The Faith, confidence and love for God are swallowed as into a dark tomb. After the shake up permitted by God, the Faith will become flourishing; the Faith will be heard more than ever before! previously, it was necessary that, to purify men, Divine Justice pass over the earth. This plot will regenerate with the Grace which will fall upon the earth after Justice will have passed over it. He is always there, sometimes far away, and he cries. Their tears will serve to reanimate the faith of those with whom Faith is extinct. Here is the Justice of Heaven threatening you. Brothers and sisters, the earth trembles under your feet. It trembles only under the steps of sinners and the impious; but it is firm and solid under the feet of the Just. Nature is stripped while awaiting an event of pain. The Lord will come, with His Justice, at the hour when the earth will again be stripped, but now the buds will begin to show themselves and the earth to re-green itself. The days will be longer, and the sun higher in the sky. Know that the Lord has blessed, upon the earth, a little corner intended for His children. Await the hour of Justice and of Mercy. In this small protected corner, Justice will not penetrate with rigor. Reflection on this prophecy: This prophecy points directly to our times, and Saint John, the prophet of the Apocalypse, is sent by God to direct us. During this shake up, the Faith becomes replaced, again and again, with the diabolical mindset that will not think of God, of His Truth, of His existence, of His love for us. That rejection of God is in advertising, entertainment, literature and all writings, education, medicine, justice systems and laws, fashion designs, music, the Arts, all forms of government, language, "manners" and the immoral code of today. With the Papacy exiled, where is the Faith to be found? Saint John tells Marie-Julie that our Faith lies hidden in our hearts, like a lovely field: Surely, this will be the time for conversions. They will want to learn of Christ, and they will receive the gift of Faith! But in the meantime, all souls living through this time must suffer. It is Marie-Julie who uses this image when, to help us to know more, she asks the hard question: Saint John expounds on the role of the Guardian Angels with souls who fall into mortal sin: Their tears will serve to re-animate the faith of those with whom Faith is extinct. Our sins hurt our Guardian Angel and they crucify Christ. But we go on, pretending that nothing is wrong, that we are fine! That we are good. We reject the Truth. But without the Catholic Faith, there is no rest at all. This coming Chastisement will be physical, and it will end with the 3 Days of Darkness. And again, our Lord assures us of our special place of refuge: May our Lord help us all to meet in Brittany before the 3 Days of Darkness.

The tears of our sweet Mother, far from lessening her air of majesty, of a Queen and a Mistress, seemed, on the contrary, to embellish Her, to make Her more beautiful, more powerful, more filled with love, more maternal, more ravishing, and I could have wiped away Her tears which made my heart leap with compassion and love.

The oldest of four children, he lost both his parents at a young age. His father, a livery-stable keeper, died when Keats was eight; his mother died of tuberculosis six years later. Abbey, a prosperous tea broker, assumed the bulk of this responsibility, while Sandell played only a minor role. When Keats was fifteen, Abbey withdrew him from the Clarke School, Enfield, to apprentice with an apothecary-surgeon and study medicine in a London hospital. In Keats became a licensed apothecary, but he never practiced his profession, deciding instead to write poetry. Shelley, who was fond of Keats, had advised him to develop a more substantial body of work before publishing it. Keats, who was not as fond of Shelley, did not follow his advice. Shelley also exaggerated the effect that the criticism had on Keats, attributing his declining health over the following years to a spirit broken by the negative reviews. Keats spent the summer of on a walking tour in Northern England and Scotland, returning home to care for his brother, Tom, who suffered from tuberculosis. While nursing his brother, Keats met and fell in love with a woman named Fanny Brawne. Writing some of his finest poetry between and , Keats mainly worked on "Hyperion," a Miltonic blank-verse epic of the Greek creation myth. He stopped writing "Hyperion" upon the death of his brother, after completing only a small portion, but in late he returned to the piece and rewrote it as "The Fall of Hyperion" unpublished until That same autumn Keats contracted tuberculosis, and by the following February he felt that death was already upon him, referring to the present as his "posthumous existence. Chapter 8 : 'Perfect' Red Heifer Born In Israel Could Fulfill End Times Prophecy

The prophecies here in harmonize perfectly with the better-known prophecies that Our Lady made at Fatima in Our Lady told Mother Mariana that the souls who would remain faithful in those difficult times would need great strength of will, constancy, valor and confidence in God.

This blog is for sharing news and issues of concern to the Northern Cheyenne people, and to the blogger. They will fly up in the air, into the sky, they will dig under the earth, they will drain the earth and kill it. All over the earth they will kill the trees and the grass, they will put their own grass and their own hay, but the earth will be dead -- all the old trees and grass and animals. They are coming closer all the time. Back there, New York, those places, the earth is already dead. Here we are lucky. We have this good air. This prairie hay still grows. But they are coming all the time, turn the land over and kill it, more and more babies being born, more and more people coming. He said the white men would be so powerful. They could take thunder, that electricity from the sky, and light their houses. Maybe they would even be able to reach up and take the moon, or stars maybe, one or two. Our old food we used to eat was good. The meat from buffalo and game was good. It made us strong. These cows are good to eat, soft, tender, but they are not like that meat. Our people used to live a long time. Sweet Medicine told us that. He said the white man was too strong. He said his food would be sweet, and after we taste that food we want it. Chokecherries and plums, and wild turnips, and honey from the wild bees, that was our food. This other food is too sweet. We eat it and forget.

The page book was published in by Africana Legacy Press. An autographed copy of the book was given to me by Alhaji Atiku Abubakar on November 8, The book appears to be the most authoritative book on the PDP Presidential candidate. As far as those close to Atiku Abubakar, those mentioned are his core advisers. The narrative in the book is interesting. On page 31 of the book we were told of how Atiku Abubakar lost his father at eleven. He is a Muslim. He is the Asiwaju of Owo in Ondo state. It is still a mystery how the man has been able to maintain his friendship with the two men even when they were fighting each other. They had known each other as far back as Idi Iroko and Gamboru border post in the Northeast. He was strict and firm. He did not like agents who tried to cheat the government of its revenue. You know importers always try to cut corners to be able to pay lower duty. Importers put a lot of pressure on us agents. He asked if Fashawe had set up his own licensed clearing and forwarding agency. Atiku had often advised Fashawe to set up his own company. Fashawe said he was yet to own a license. Atiku advised him to register a company and then apply for a Customs license so that he could operate legally. Fashawe registered Bako Services and Atiku assisted him in getting a license. Working under Bello Mohammed, the man Babangida gave the Directorship of Customs, turned out to be the most frustrating for Atiku. Mohammed was not comfortable having around him someone who had competed with him for the same job. He felt he could never trust Atiku and Atiku would not be loyal and committed to his success in the job. He wanted Atiku gone. Thrice he recommended him for retirement, but Shagaya the then Minister of Internal Affairs turned it down. Atiku went to see Shagaya and told him that he would like to leave service voluntarily because he did not want to be disgraced out of office. Shagaya advised him not to quit. Atiku had at least 10 more years to go in the service and Shagaya felt he could still head the agency before his retirement. He needed to move on. He had always wanted to work for himself anyway. He asked for his annual leave and it was approved. He left for the lesser hajj in Mecca, Saudi Arabia. American embassy has been calling Atiku to come collect his visa " Daniel Before his departure, Atiku had written his resignation letter, put it in an envelope, sealed and given it to his friend, Adamu Yaro, to hand it personally to Bello Mohammed, his boss. Adamu Yaro did not know the content of the letter. He simply did as his friend had told him. The Director was not happy to see Atiku go voluntarily. He briefed Shagaya about it and the Internal Affairs Minister advised him to accept the resignation. When he joined the Customs 20 years earlier, he had drawn a graph anticipating his career progression from Cadet to Director of Customs by age One of those Atiku consulted about his planned resignation was his old friend from Apapa Ports, Fashawe. He visited Fashawe at Owo, his hometown. Like most of his friends, Fashawe advised him not to rush out of Customs until he had served as Director. She advised Atiku to leave the Customs and embark on the journey God had destined for him. Five years earlier, she had visited Atiku in his office in Lagos and predicted that Atiku would be presiding over the affairs of Nigeria by age 52 to 55 years. On how Atiku entered politics. Adinoyi Ojo Onikaba wrote: I think you will make a good politician. Some family members and friends advised him against it. They had wanted him to reach the peak of his career as Director of Customs before bowing out. Some felt that Nigerian politics was too messy, expensive, treacherous and dangerous to rush into. They urged him to reconsider his plan. Atiku likes to take his time before taking a decision as weighty as his next career move. But once he makes up his mind, he stands by it no matter the pressure on him to reconsider it. He can be quite stubborn. After mauling over the matter for sometimes, Atiku finally decided to quit Customs and go into politics. The retired General had brought together an eclectic group of old and new politicians, progressives and radicals, intellectuals and the semi-educated ones, Muslims and Christians, Southerners and Northerners, and rich and poor. He invited as many political leaders as were willing to come. He did not discriminate. Atiku knew some of them personally but there were others he was met for the first time.
