

Chapter 1 : 3 Bible Stories to Teach Your Kids about Relationships | Jellytelly Parents

*The Bible: A Child's Playground [A. Roger Gobbel, Gertrude G. Gobbel] on blog.quintoapp.com FREE shipping on qualifying offers. The authors examine the perplexing question of what is involved in teaching children the Bible.*

Now imagine the playground surrounded by deadly dangers: With anguish you watch the children decimated as they fall prey to the dangers around them. They plunge from the cliff to the rocks below, are screaming from the bite of vipers and are gasping for air as they sink in the quicksand. Now imagine the same children playing in the same playground, but now they are carefully supervised and the area is surrounded by a chain-link fence. To be in danger now a child would have to disregard all the rules, disobey the supervisors and climb over the fence. This is an analogy of Bible study. Two recent misconceptions have plagued Catholics. Ask around and find out for yourself. The average Catholic in the average parish frequently accepts two unhappy fallacies. Second, they may associate Bible study with Protestantism. Yet, this subtle fear prevents many Catholics from dusting off the family Bible and making a go at personal study. Our imagined playground, fraught with dangers, illustrates the situation nicely. Do pitfalls lie to the left and right? The fear is not without foundation. Survey the landscape of Christian history and you will see well-meaning individuals and groups strewn in every direction. Yet we also see many who have loved the Bible deeply, studied it studiously, and have done so without casualties. They have reached the dizzying heights of biblical study and through it have grown to love Jesus and the Catholic Church with ever deepening ardor. What differentiates the two? They provide a barrier between the children and destruction. They allow the child to frolic with carefree abandon. What do the fence and the supervision represent in our illustration? These two thingsâ€”readily available to any who desire themâ€”are what makes the difference. The dangers are real, but the protections and guidance provided by Jesus in his Church are just as real. Those who stay within the fence and yield to the supervision will study the Scriptures with great benefit, and I may add, with deep joy and pleasure. The Catholic Church has provided the most wonderful resource to combine the fence and the supervision. It is the Catechism of the Catholic Church. The Bible is a gift from God. The treasure is ready for withdrawal! Visit his website, www.

Chapter 2 : Playground Conversation | blog.quintoapp.com

Note: Citations are based on reference standards. However, formatting rules can vary widely between applications and fields of interest or study. The specific requirements or preferences of your reviewing publisher, classroom teacher, institution or organization should be applied.

But of course the time will soon come when such a child can no longer effortlessly and spontaneously enjoy that unity. He will become able to distinguish the spiritual from the ritual and festal aspect of Easter; chocolate eggs will no longer seem sacramental. And once he has distinguished he must put one or the other first. If he puts the spiritual first he can still taste something of Easter in the chocolate eggs; if he puts the eggs first they will soon be no more than any other sweetmeat. They will have taken on an independent, and therefore a soon withering, life. Lewis Charles Francis Adams, 19th century political figure and diplomat, kept a diary. One day he entered: On that same day, Brook Adams made this entry: Silas Shotwell, in Homemade, September A group of expectant fathers were in a waiting room, while their wives were in the process of delivering babies. A nurse came in and announced to one man that his wife had just given birth to twins. Somebody asked him if he was feeling ill. In her book, First Lady from Plains, Rosalynn Carter told of the "wonderfully odd" things she learned about White House history while a resident there. It seems that the children of President James A. Garfield rode large three-wheelers around as they carried on pillow fights in the East Room. Today in the Word, September 6, A small child is someone who can wash his hands without getting the soap wet. Children are like wet cement. Whatever falls on them makes an impression. You cannot teach a child to take care of himself unless you will let him take care of himself. He will make mistakes, and out of these mistakes will come his wisdom. Celeste Sibley, one-time columnist for the Atlanta GA Constitution, took her three children to a diner for breakfast one morning. It was crowded and they had to take separate seats at the counter. Sibley could figure out what to say, the counterman said, "Yes, we do, sister. Mary bowed her head and in a clear voice said, "God is great, God is good, let us thank Him for our food. Men are generally more careful of their horses and dogs than of their children. Almost every child would learn to write sooner if allowed to do his homework on wet cement. Statistics and Stuff Property Laws of a Toddler: Some might say that this is evidences of Original Sin 1. If you are playing with something and you put it down, it automatically becomes mine. Nineteenth century Scottish preacher Horatius Bonar asked Christian friends at what ages they were converted. Under 20 years of age - Between 20 and 30 - 85 Between 30 and 40 - 22 Between 40 and 50 - 4 Between 50 and 60 - 3 Between 60 and 70 - 1 Over 70 - 0 Daily Bread. In a Harvard study of several hundred preschoolers, researchers discovered an interesting phenomenon. However, only 60 percent of the sounds coming from little boys were recognizable. The other 40 percent were yells and sound effects like "Vrrroooooom! Communication experts say that the average woman speaks over 25, words a day while the average man speaks only a little over 10, What does this mean in marital terms? On average a wife will say she needs to spend 45 minutes to an hour each day in meaningful conversation with her husband. What does her husband sitting next to her say is enough time for meaningful conversation? Fifteen to twenty minutes--once or twice a week! When the year-olds in Mrs. Grownups never really listen to what children have to say. Grownups interrupt children all the time and think nothing of it. If a child interrupts a grownup, he gets a scolding or something worse. Grownups never understand how much children want a certain thing--a certain color or shape or size. Sometimes grownups punish children unfairly. You never know, and you ought to know. Researchers at Johns Hopkins University reported that 30 years ago, the greatest fears of grade school children were: Today, kids are afraid of the following: Back to the Bible Today, Summer, , p. Hear the words our hearts are saying. We are praying for our children. Keep them from the powers of evil, From the secret, hidden peril. Father, hear us for our children. Father, Father, be thou near them. And wherever they may bide, Lead them home at eventide.

Chapter 3 : 15 Awesome Christian Songs for Kids

Find great deals for The Bible: A Child's Playground by Gertrude G. Gobbel and Roger A. Gobbel (, Paperback). Shop with confidence on eBay!

Tweet Singing with children is one of the best ways for them to be motivated to learn. Not only that, it is a good way to get exercise too. There are many Christian songs for kids that I learned as a child. We sang these Christian songs in school, on the playground, at home and at special events like Vacation Bible School or day camp. It has been my honor to be the music director for several VBS events and I both taught and learned songs with the children. Choosing just fifteen awesome Christian songs for kids was a challenge because there are so many good ones out there. See if you know any of the ones I chose and share your own favorites in the comments below. Teach them to your children, grandchildren, nieces and nephews. The Club is the brain child of Ron Hamilton, who when he was twenty-seven years old lost his eye to cancer. Since that time Ron Hamilton has been writing songs for Patch the Pirate clubs in churches and on radio. This song, based upon the text from Galatians 6: We had lessons from our favorite deacon, who happened to be a science teacher too. This helped the children to understand the concept of sowing and reaping and then to understand the idea behind the daily Bible memory verse Galatians 6: You can listen to the whole song at this link: Sing along with this one on the video below: Father Abraham Writer Unknown This is another song that is done with actions. Actions are listed at the bottom of the lyrics. Right arm, left arm! Right arm, left arm, right foot! Right arm, left arm, right foot, left foot! Right arm, left arm, right foot, left foot, Chin up! Right arm, left arm, right foot, left foot, Chin up, turn around! Right arm, left arm, right foot, left foot, Chin up, turn around, sit down! Clench fist, bend and extend arm upward repeatedly throughout song Left arm: Add left arm in same motion as right Right foot: Add right foot stepping up and down Left foot: Add left foot stepping up and down Chin up: Add head nodding up and down Turn around: Add turning in place while continuing other motions Sit down: I list the actions after the lyrics here. March in the infantry: They can imagine a little boy using a sling shot to kill a giant. Actions for the words follow the lyrics. Leave lots of room for the kids to swing their sling shot imaginary, of course Lyrics: And one little stone went in the sling And the sling went round and round And one little stone went in the sling And the sling went round and one little stone went up in the air And the giant came tumbling down. And one little stone went in the sling:

Chapter 4 : Sermon Illustrations

The Bible Story Playground is dedicated in the memory of Dorothy Eichle, a long-time school teacher and church-goer in Parker, who they say had a heart of gold for kids. {{Title}} Remove Change.

Husband and wife were to commit their lives to serving God. God also desired that they would have children and raise them to worship Him. God desired that husband and wife would have children which would be raised to worship Him. The prophet Malachi also had something to say about the role of husband and wife: Has not the LORD made them one? In flesh and spirit they are his. Because he was seeking godly offspring. Raising the children There is a great responsibility in the growth and development of the children. In many places in the Bible, the message is that parents are to train, teach and instruct their children in the ways of God. These commandments that I give you today are to be upon your hearts. Impress them on your children. Talk about them when you sit at home and when you walk along the road, when you lie down and when you get up. Train a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not turn from it. We should adapt the training to the capacity and temperament of each individual child. In other words, we need to show respect for the individuality of each child. The apostle Paul also saw it as important that parents take responsibility for educating their children about the ways of God: Fathers, do not exasperate your children; instead, bring them up in the training and instruction of the Lord. Contained in the pages of the Bible are many practical lessons and teachings that make it easy for the child to understand the fundamental concepts of God. These great truths are more effectively learned in a God fearing home where there is a loving environment. For children to want to worship God when they get older, requires the message of the Bible to be taught on a daily basis to them as they grow up. The key then, is to make God part of their everyday life. Children need to be shown to seek God in all aspects of life, not just on a Sunday morning at a church service. The responsibility for good training can not be underestimated. The hopes of future generations depend on how well you train your children. As we train the child, continually pray to God asking for His assistance in the matter. An example of this can be seen in the words of God to Abraham: For I have chosen him, so that he will direct his children and his household after him to keep the way of the LORD by doing what is right and just, so that the LORD will bring about for Abraham what he has promised him. The apostle Paul said these words: But women will be saved through childbearingâ€”if they continue in faith, love and holiness with propriety. It is especially true at home when children are observing their parents. Children learn priorities, morals and values by looking at how their parents behave each day. If the children see that their parents have a deep reverence and dependence on God then they will learn these same attitudes. Let the children see how important God is in your life by reading the Bible together on a daily basis. Negative parenting Parents must be careful to avoid unfair or unjust usage of parental control: Fathers, do not embitter your children, or they will become discouraged. Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. It makes sense from a natural view point but is also a direct commandment from God. Summary God encourage married couples to have children. Then they are to raise the children in ways of God. Parents need to teach their children three main concepts: Separation Separation from the ungodly things of this world. Dedication Children can be taught in two different ways: Reading the Bible with the children and teaching the child lessons from the Bible. The parents being good role models to their children. A child learns more by the eye than by the ear, therefore imitation is a far more powerful principle of teaching than memorisation.

Chapter 5 : What Does the Bible Say About Idle Hands Are The Devils Playground?

The Bible Story Playground teaches kids about different stories from the Bible through interaction. You can experience the "Miraculous Catch of Fish" as children use a climbing net to get into the boat.

Dangerous Playground or Safe Bible Study? Now imagine the playground surrounded by deadly dangers: With anguish you watch the children decimated as they fall prey to the dangers around them. They plunge from the cliff to the rocks below, are screaming from the bite of vipers and are gasping for air as they sink in the quicksand. Now imagine the same children playing in the same playground, but now they are carefully supervised and the area is surrounded by a chain-link fence. To be in danger now a child would have to disregard all the rules, disobey the supervisors and climb over the fence. This is an analogy of Bible study. Two recent misconceptions have plagued Catholics. Ask around and find out for yourself. The average Catholic in the average parish frequently accepts two unhappy fallacies. Second, they may associate Bible study with Protestantism. Yet, this subtle fear prevents many Catholics from dusting off the family Bible and making a go at personal study. Our imagined playground, fraught with dangers, illustrates the situation nicely. Are there real dangers associated with studying the Bible? Do pitfalls lie to the left and right? The fear is not without foundation. Survey the landscape of Christian history and you will see well-meaning individuals and groups strewn in every direction. Yet we also see many who have loved the Bible deeply, studied it studiously, and have done so without casualties. They have reached the dizzying heights of biblical study and through it have grown to love Jesus and the Catholic Church with ever deepening ardor. What differentiates the two? The fence and the supervision make all the difference. They provide a barrier between the children and destruction. They allow the child to frolic with carefree abandon. What do the fence and the supervision represent in our illustration? The fence is the Sacred Tradition preserved in the Church and the supervision is the magisterium of the Catholic Church. These two things are readily available to any who desire them are what makes the difference. The dangers are real, but the protections and guidance provided by Jesus in his Church are just as real. Those who stay within the fence and yield to the supervision will study the Scriptures with great benefit, and I may add, with deep joy and pleasure. The Catholic Church has provided the most wonderful resource to combine the fence and the supervision. It is the Catechism of the Catholic Church. The Bible is a gift from God. The treasure is ready for withdrawal! What value does the Psalmist place on the Scriptures in Psalm Even though the Sadducees studied the Scriptures assiduously, what did Jesus say of them Mk Do the Scriptures always have a plain meaning and are they always easy to understand 2 Pet 3: Does everyone have the same ability to understand the Scriptures Heb 5: Should individuals research the Scriptures for themselves Acts Where does the authoritative interpretation of Scripture have its source CCC 84, 85, 95? Who or what has judicial authority over a believer Mt How are the faithful to respond to the protective teaching authority of the Church CCC 87, For they that dwell in the world, and each day receive wounds, these have most need of medicines. Study then, I beseech thee, and daily meditate on the words of thy Creator. Learn the heart of God in the words of God, that thou mayest sigh more ardently for the things that are eternal, that your soul may be kindled with greater longings for heavenly joys. Easy access to sacred Scripture should be provided for all the Christian faithful Since the Word of God should be accessible at all times, the Church by her authority and with the maternal concern sees to it that suitable and correct translations are made into different languages, especially from the original texts of the sacred books. Understanding scripture is so important. There are so many great apologetic sources to support Catholic Bible understanding. God bless the great Bible Catholics like Steve Ray who lead the way in this.

Chapter 6 : The Bible : A Child's Playground by Gertrude G. Gobbel and Roger A. Gobbel (, Paperback) | e

*Bible: A Child's Playground [Roger Gobbel, Gertrude Gobbel] on blog.quintoapp.com FREE shipping on qualifying offers.*

Some of my earliest memories are of our home being filled with people We were always taught the value of people, of our connection to them. We watched my mom and dad nurture and serve and love. My family was built on the legacy of relationship. But times have changed. Or so it seems. Our culture today is fast-paced and full. Full schedules and full Facebook feeds often keep us from truly connecting with the people in our lives. But the Bible is full of examples of beautiful relationships that were built on love and loyalty, not ambition and convenience. I want to overcome the current state of our culture and return back to the root of relationships I was taught as a child. I want for my kids what I experienced years ago – hours of carefree fellowship and connection based on the common ground of faith. We can teach our children the value of relationships by looking to the Word for stories and truths that encourage authentic heart connection. Friendship with Jesus "This is my commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you. Greater love has no one than this, that someone lay down his life for his friends. You are my friends if you do what I command you. No longer do I call you servants, for the servant does not know what his master is doing; but I have called you friends, for all that I have heard from my Father I have made known to you. Throughout the Gospels we see the friendship of Jesus and his disciples develop. Although their intent was to serve and follow Jesus as Master, He calls them friends and even hints at His coming death to show just how deep His love for them will go. Though we may not physically lay down our lives for our friends, we can sacrifice for others just as He sacrificed for us. Use this example to share with your children that Jesus calls us friend and He wants to live in relationship with us. This means that He wants us to get to know Him and He wants us to share our lives with Him – every joy, every care, every hurt, every triumph. As we grow in relationship with Jesus, we will better understand how to grow in relationship with others and love them the way He loves us.

Chapter 7 : Bible Story Playground | Map of Play

Print some Bible verses for children from the Kids Talk About God Art Gallery. Slip one into your children's lunchboxes so they can study their Bible verse while they eat. Slip one into your children's lunchboxes so they can study their Bible verse while they eat.

The 50 Best Playgrounds in America The 50 Best Playgrounds in America Anyone who has ever visited a playground can tell you how much fun they provide for children of all ages. At playgrounds, children tackle new challenges, using their problem-solving abilities to assess the risks and rewards and utilizing perseverance and determination to master new skills. Playgrounds also provide an arena for children to socialize with their peers, building interpersonal skills such as sharing and collaborating. Outdoor play allows children to explore and interact with their world, all while getting much-needed fresh air and physical activity. There are some amazing playgrounds in the United States with unique and interactive equipment that is sure to delight children and their families. Here is a ranking of the 50 Best Playgrounds in the U. In a former life, the drums were used to transport mint oil. In their new arrangement, they are a maze that kids can explore by running, hiding, jumping and climbing. Sound tubes and sensory rooms are hidden throughout the maze, and there is even a large sunscreen made of old drums that hang over the playscape, keeping the area cool and comfortable. The playhouse mansion, built in , is a sprawling 16, square feet. It caters to children five years old and under while the playground is for children ten and under. The playground is also enormous, covering the span of six football fields. Best of all, the entire park is free and there is ample parking. Traveling provided by Exploratorium For the most unique and inspiring playground design, look no further than the Geometry Playground. This is a traveling exhibit without a permanent home. This playground aims to change the way you think about geometry by engaging your brain and body in playful investigations into the subject. The traveling playground delves into the invisible geometry of light, from points of view to reflections. It also explores the angles, arcs and shapes created by motion. Lastly, it focuses on patterns and shapes and how they fit together in space. The interactive activities that are part of this traveling playground are sure to mesmerize children and adults alike. It provides an amazing way to get children excited about math by relating it to real world phenomena. Blackberry Farm Adventure Playground: The Adventure Playground located there is reminiscent of a rustic, historic farm settlement. The layout encourages children to go from one activity to the other as they make their way through the multi-level buildings. There are climbing decks, rope tunnels, catwalk bridges, slides and zip-lines to get you to each new and exciting destination. Throughout the playground, colorful panels educating children about fruits, vegetables, and grains help to incorporate the farm setting. The dirt ground and chaotic appearance of structures belies the innovative theory at work. Here, children are encouraged to pick up a hammer and nails and some wood out and see what they can create. Paints and brushes are also available, and children are invited to paint almost any surface at the park. Children at Adventure Playground have the unique opportunity to truly explore and manipulate their surroundings in whichever ways suit their imagination. Led by the parents of Brooklyn Fisher, a girl with spina bifida, the playground is accessible to the 11 percent of students in the Pocatello-Chubbuck school district who have a disability. There are ramps to all of the play structures, accessible swings that can accommodate children with disabilities, and solid surfaces throughout. Winter Park, Florida This community playground in Winter Park is a creation from nationally renowned playground designer Robert Leathers. The playground is complete with swings, monkey bars, recycled tires to climb and swing on, secret little nooks for hiding, and several slippery metal slides. Thanks to the oak trees covering the play area and providing shade, these metal slides stay cool to the touch; a big improvement over the metal slides that parents remember from their childhood. Merriam, Kansas Situated in the sprawling Antioch Park, the Dodge Town play area features pint-sized buildings that transport children to the Wild West. The row of main buildings includes a general store, post office, hotel, and bank. This quaint miniature Main Street creates the perfect setting for pretend play and games of hide and seek. Nearby, there are two adjoining, modern play areas that include a rock wall, jungle gym, and slides. The playgrounds are all accessible for wheelchairs and strollers. There are also plenty of benches and picnic areas, making Dodge Town Park an ideal destination for the entire family. Plymouth, Minnesota This playground, located in the French Regional Park, is a classic wood and rope playground. The large, interconnected system of spider web rope nets, wooden posts and tires let children test their balance and strength and enjoy some friendly competition with their friends. While not flashy in any way, the park provides hours of entertainment as children climb, jump and maneuver their way through the equipment. The park also features areas that are more suited to toddlers and their abilities. Built in 1998, the park features braille throughout its signs and games as well as high edge curbs, allowing children who are visually impaired to play alongside the other children. The park features a hard yet yielding surface that is perfect for wheelchairs, not to mention bikes, scooters and rollerblades. This rubber-based surface covers 34,000 square feet, making it one of the largest pour-in-place playing surfaces in the world. Within this footprint, the park is divided into three main areas that look like a pirate ship, a castle, and a fort, encouraging children to play make-believe. The ample free space within the park ensures that children will get plenty of exercise running from one activity to the next.

Westport, Connecticut Situated within the Leonard Schine Preserve, this playground was built completely with natural materials that were all found directly on the preserve. Geared toward children from three to seven years old, this 10,000 square foot meadow has areas for building, digging, climbing and creating nature collages. The natural elements are seamlessly integrated into the surroundings of the park, creating a wondrous world of adventure waiting to be explored. The park is known for its 14 concrete monster sculptures designed by Mexican artist Benjamin Dominguez. The sea creatures include a dragon with a slide built into it, an octopus with eight legs to climb on, and a whale with a cavernous mouth to explore. The park was slated for demolition but luckily a group of preservationists stepped in and the colorful sculptures were restored for more generations to enjoy.

Medora, North Dakota Medora may be just a small town, but it features some amazing playgrounds. The false storefronts and fort make up an Old West town, complete with a stagecoach and train engine. This free attraction is open to children of all ages, letting everyone experience the fun of being a cowboy first hand.

Mesa, Arizona With its bright blue ground surface and impressive climbing equipment, the playground at Riverview Park is truly a site to be seen. The landscape is dominated by a 50 foot tall Genesis climbing tower that will challenge even the agilest climbers. This is the largest structure of its kind in the world and can fit up to 10 people at one time. There is also a huge splash pad that is perfect for those hot and steamy days. The park includes two different play areas:

Auburn, Washington Discovery Playground allows children of all ability levels the chance to discover their environment in a truly interactive way. Located in Les Gove Park, Discovery Playground lets children with disabilities play right alongside their able-bodied friends and siblings. Ramps, bridges, and transfer stations allow everyone to reach the highest deck of equipment. Sand tables, interactive walls, and activity panels are easily accessed by all. The sensory garden provides a series of integrated spaces that are devoted to the five senses of seeing, hearing, touching, tasting and smelling. This barrier-free playground promotes acceptance and compassion, both important values for children to embrace.

City of Auburn Shiver Me Timbers Playground: Originally, the site held a wooden playground that was funded entirely through public and private donations and built by over 600 volunteers in September, 1998. Unfortunately, the park was destroyed by a fire a mere four months later. Amazingly, volunteers rebuilt the park in less than a year, and it is now bigger and better. Twice the size of the original, the new playground was built with plastic materials and is accessible to disabled children.

Port Washington, Wisconsin Here is a place where all children are reminded of the possibilities that are available to them in life. Playtime quickly turns into learning time and therapy time thanks to the variety of over 30 specialized pieces of equipment and activities available at the playground. There are monkey bars, musical alligators, bridges, and a pirate ship complete with waves, a motion platform and a rain wheel. The poured-in-place latex-free soft surface that spans the size of a football field is easy and safe to maneuver. The playground, which provides opportunities for children with a wide range of abilities, has play areas with swings, slides and tunnels perfect for preschoolers and school-aged children. The Imagination Village features make-believe houses, including a school house and a hair salon, which are all connected via an elevated, accessible walkway.

Jonesboro, Arkansas Designed to enable children of every ability to explore together, the Rotary Centennial Park located in Craighead Forest Park is 70 percent universally accessible and yet still challenging for all of its guests.

Adorned in bright primary colors, the park features a wheelchair track, a fort, swings, a bank-shot basketball court, an elevated sand play area, and picnic areas. A new and exciting addition is the water splash pad. Poly City, Iowa Featuring a large wooden playground built in the classic castle style and situated right on the lake, the Big Creek Playground provides good old fashioned fun for all children. Parents will enjoy watching the sailboats scurry across the lake while their children scurry up and down the playground. Children can hang from monkey bars, walk across balance beams, bounce from huge tires, and climb up and down the castle towers. Parents can reminisce about their own time playing on playgrounds just like this. Westbrook, Maine The playground at Spring Harbor Hospital is the first playground in the region designed to specifically meet the needs of children on the autism spectrum. The playground is safe yet still physically stimulating, allowing children to explore their environment and build their physical skills, as well as their cognitive understanding. There is soft cork flooring and a variety of different textures to feel. The playground may be small, but it provides a wealth of sensory integration activities to stimulate learning among children with developmental disabilities. The playground itself is based on Neverland, the vibrant world created in the classic Peter Pan story. They transformed an old parking lot into a huge playground that was envisioned and built by the community. Reflecting the rich agricultural history of Salinas, California, the park features an agricultural theme. There is even a virtual vegetable garden in the playground. The park features natural plantings that offer a welcome retreat from the concrete jungle of the city. The play area holds a slide, sand pits and a water playground.

Chapter 8 : Bible Verses for and About Children - 30 Beautiful Scriptures

When you drop your children off in Next Generation Children's Ministry, they're going to have a great time! Every class, nursery through Grade 4, learns the Bible and worships by walking through the same Gospel Project curriculum.

Chapter 9 : Bible Study: Playground or Minefield? | blog.quintoapp.com

Imagine children running and tussling unsupervised in a playground. Now imagine the playground surrounded by deadly dangers: a sharp cliff dropping down a thousand feet to one side, a field of land mines, poisonous snakes in the sand, and a [].