Chapter 1 : Nose smells bad - Respiratory Disorders - MedHelp

The Next Person That Reads This Will Smell Like Cheese is a book about a book: An innocent-looking children's book that seems to cause everyone who reads it to smell like cheese. As the book grows in popularity, this threatens to explode into a global crisis, since no one will want to go to work or school when they reek of Limburger.

Was it really that simple? Could she really just quit, just like that? It turned out, it really was. Or to contact himself, really, because Harry Potter was, at the moment, the most important person in the Wizarding World. It was in a back alley of a back alley of what looked like a crack house in the dampest, most decrepit cavity of Knockturn Alley. Her boss had the complexion of soured milk, a disproportionately bulbous head, and eyes that peered skeptically out of flakey grey sockets. He was a man of tremendous dignity, but he reminded her very strongly of a baked potato. And aside from hiring her, he had a habit of keeping his left hand down the front of his trousers half the time he spoke. Hermione was rather wary of mentioning it because he jumped every time she made sudden movements or sounds, and she was afraid that she would cause him to rip his pud off. Everybody else knew her as Hermione J. And she did not want the customers to know that the dirt-streaked girl in the splotchy apron was, in fact, Hermione J. She may have quit her job, but she would never quit her dignity. There must indeed have been a God, because what happened next was a miracle: Maybe a fairly not-unpleasant job. Whoever the hell is in charge of this crap town. The young Healer had perfect teeth and did not reek of Denture-Moisturising Potion like most of the other customers. He put his hands in his pockets and teetered on his heels as Hermione rang up his purchases. They were, indeed, as green as a fresh-pickled toad. Hermione felt a simpering grin slide across her face and looked up at him coyly from beneath her lashes. I just had that thought myself! It was not a splendid day for the gillyweed. Gillyweed preferred shade, as any idiot would know. But the sunlight, if disastrous for the plant, did do wonders for his hair. It shone like some archetypical golden chalice, spilling over with the promise of a good old fashioned lay A lay, Hermione! Remember what those are? It was worth it. It was worth behaving like her brains had been replaced with fatty breast tissue. It was worth behaving like Lav-Lav. The Healer laughed as he handed over his gold, and it was a beautiful baritone that shot straight to her womb. It threatened to turn into swooping. Hermione reached for his goldâ€”closer, closer now, and She might have smiled like a shark that her posturing worked, but there was her frontal cortex going Ka-Pow! And there was the swooping, too, as his fingers brushed ever so shiveringly gently against her wrist before departing. She was not to be disappointed. She decided to be the brave one, for once. She felt her toes tingle. Pretty lady like yourself My ex cheated on me with a crusty trollop. Pat will love these! Please God-Jesus-Krishna-Merlin let it be his grandmother. Old ladies love daffodil bulbs, after all. If there were a Handbook To Being A Lovely Old Lady published somewhere in the world, she was sure that loving daffodil bulbs would be at the top of the list. Or at least in the first chapter. Some are thin, and some are fat. The fat one has a yellow hat. From there to here, From here to there. Funny things are everywhere. Prince Poofter patted her hand with tender care. Hermione knew how to repot a Mandrake. It was not a difficult process. It was like a bad comedy sketch. Extremely frustrated, Hermione buried the Mandrake in compost with a flick of her wand, took off her own nauseatingly bright earmuffs and asked, "What was that, sir? Besides, all she wanted was someone who thought she was the greatest, funniest, most clever person in the world and wanted to spend all his waking time in her presence. And perhaps a bit of a shag. She looked down at herself, her fingernails packed with compost, her hair attacking anything that came within a good fifteen inches, her nose red and raw with the cold. Boss-man left her alone after that to stew in her own dark mutterings and take out her frustrations on the Mandrake children. Well, speak of the Devil. Hermione turned away from her potted Mandrake to regard the unwanted patron. She blinked again, but it was still there. Smirking at her like he owned the place. With the grease-streaked hair and the glower and the air of infinite superiority and oh how she longed to lob a house-elf sized lump of industrial grade Bobotuber pus at his face and see if he could still smirk after that. Severus Snape, of all people, looking absurdly incongruous without his dungeon backdrop, like Harry would without his glasses, or like Malfoy without his sneer, or Ron without that big fat tumor hanging off his arm that was commonly known as Lavender Brown. Severus Snape, standing there with his stupid black eyes and his stupid black hair and that nose too big to be allowed in polite company. Some are old and some are new. Some are sad, and some are glad. And some are very, very bad. Why are they sad and glad and bad? She wanted to rip it off and force-feed it to him. It was completely unnecessary. And the way he said things, always over-enunciating ever so slowly like people had nothing better to do than to watch his stupid mouth form words. Oh, it would be glorious. Hermione tried her best to play the thing off. He raised his eyebrow even higher. Please do tell me more. And are you implying that you are a winner, Miss Granger? She was not impressed. Real creative, Mister Snape. That is to say It was odd for Snape to hesitate like this. Though she knew nothing about him, and though she would very much like for things to remain that way, one thing she did know was that Severus Snape did not hesitate. Reluctantly, like he was divulging some grave, life-altering secret. There was confetti in his hair. And it was pink. There was bright pink confetti on Severus Snape. She blinked again in the hopes that the fact would sink in. It was stupid, really. Your review has been posted.

Hire fundraising experts to prepare for your next round. Toptal matches top startups with experts in fundraising, financial modeling, forecasting, and more. Ok, let's first have an idea what causes cheese to smell, and after that, we can explain your "Cheesy" smell. The distinctive cheese.

Body odor is an extremely sensitive issue for many of us. We spend hundreds of dollars on perfumes and deodorants so that we can smell better and prevent sweating. Instead of focusing on artificial ways to reduce body odor, look to the foods you eat to smell good and stay fresh as a daisy all day long. Top 15 foods that make you smell bad

Red meat: It is difficult to digest and often lies stagnant in your digestive tract. When this undigested food putrefies, it releases toxins and foul-smelling gases. This in turn is ejected as flatulence and sweat that reeks.

Processed and junk food: Foods with pungent strong-smelling ingredients used in large amounts:

Foods that are too fibrous: If you eat too much of foods that contain soluble fiber fruits, vegetables, whole grains, beans and legumes , gases like hydrogen, carbon dioxide and methane are released when they get digested in your large intestine. When these exit your body by way of flatulence, you tend to wish you were alone.

A diet that is low in fiber: The opposite is also true – fiber is good for digestion and when your diet is poor in fiber, the residual food in your intestine causes the formation of gases like methane, leading to flatulence and belching.

Foods eaten in a hurry: Any food eaten too fast causes you to swallow too much air a mixture of oxygen, carbon dioxide and nitrogen.

A diet that is low in carbohydrates: Drinking liquids through a straw: This applies to sodas and colas and other drinks that are aerated as well – when you gulp down any drink through or straw or drink any liquid that has gas in it, you tend to burp because of the buildup of gases in your stomach. And depending on what else is in your stomach, your breath and surroundings reek accordingly.

You may chew gum for a variety of reasons – to get rid of a nicotine habit, to make your breath smell better how ironic , or just to while away the time. But when you choose the sugar-free kind, your body does not completely digest the low calorie sweeteners like sorbitol, and when bacteria acts upon it in your intestine, it causes a buildup of gas which leads to burping and flatulence. Many kinds of beans cause gas because they contain a sugar called oligosaccharide, and this in turn causes flatulence and burping which makes you smell bad.

Foods rich in choline: Foods like egg and liver are rich in choline which is not easily digestible; this causes gases to accumulate and generates a foul body odor.

Fried and baked foods: They contain fats and oils that become rancid with the passage of time, and this in turn leads to poor digestion and excessive belching and flatulence.

Coffee causes bad breath because the acidity in this beverage is much higher than that of human saliva.

Alcohol makes your sweat and your breath smell really bad, so avoid it if you want to stay clean and fresh.

Chapter 3 : Top 15 Foods That Make You Smell Bad

After wearing clothes they smell like cheese and yet shower every day. Next > Meet the Experts: and people do not tell me that read more. Dr Amit Munjal.

So, what does cottage cheese taste like? Well, cottage cheese has both an odd texture and an unusual smell, but it has a very mild flavor. It has a soft, creamy texture with a slightly salty taste. Cottage cheese tastes similar to ricotta, but it has curds. The higher the milk content in the cottage cheese, the milkier the taste. Lower fat cottage cheeses tend to taste sourer; it will have more of a sour cream taste and less of a ricotta or other cheese flavor. How is Cottage Cheese Made? Cottage cheese is made of milk and rennin, which is an enzyme that causes the milk to form curds and separate the liquid and solid forms. Most of the liquid will be drained out of the cottage cheese in the manufacturing process, but a little will remain in the final product. Some companies also add salt, cream or starch to cottage cheese. Simply reading the ingredients on the label will give you all the information you need to know about what is in cottage cheese. There are also different varieties of cottage cheese based on milk fat percentage Dilesia. What are the Health Benefits of Cottage Cheese? Often touted as a health food, cottage cheese is loaded with nutrients, without loading you down with fat and calories, especially if you are eating a lower-fat cottage cheese. Cottage cheese contains very little fat, and a lot of protein. Protein makes up more than 70 percent of the calories in cottage cheese, which makes it a great source of protein without having a high calorie count. One cup of low-fat, or 1 percent milk fat, cottage cheese contains only calories, while containing 28 grams of protein and only 2. Each serving also has 30 percent of the daily recommended value of phosphorus and sodium. It is also high in vitamin B12 and calcium. There is also a decent amount of vitamins A, B1, B3 and B6, and iron, magnesium, zinc and potassium are all found in cottage cheese Authority Nutrition. More info about cottage cheese: Draining the liquid from the cottage cheese will also reduce some of the sour taste. Some people like to eat cottage cheese as a sweet dish, while others like to make it savory. If you like cottage cheese on its own, it can easily be eaten with just salt and pepper or you can use it on a salad or on toast. If you want to try cottage cheese as a sweet dish, you can top it with honey and granola or use it in smoothies. You can even use cottage cheese in your baking to make muffins or cakes. If you want to use cottage cheese to cook, you can easily add it to a number of different foods that you are probably already making. Instead of milk, use cottage cheese in your pancake batter. Substitute cottage cheese for sour cream or mayonnaise in recipes. Lasagna is a common way that you can use cottage cheese. Substituting cottage cheese for ricotta is an easy way to reduce the calories and fat content in your lasagna. Scrambled eggs are another easy way to incorporate cottage cheese into your diet. It will make your scrambled eggs super creamy. The easiest way to determine what cottage cheese tastes like is to go out and try it for yourself. ### Chapter 4 : What Cottage Cheese Tastes Like And How To Eat It after reading that article the next day I went to my local healthy store I bought (organic) tea tree oil on the night I put it all over my scalp wash off in the morning I repeat the same thing the next day I can finally say that after long time suffering with horrible smell it is finally gone for good.

Some people, including myself, have had a smell that only they can smell. It could smell like dog-poop, old cheese, ammonia, a burning smell, etc. The smell comes on, often, as a result of a cold or sinus infection. Some, not all, of these smells are caused by an anaerobic bacteria thriving in the upper sinuses, and I was able to remove mine with a Flip-Turn Sinus Flush, and many other people have had success with it as well: Some people had the smell, but were able to get rid of it with long-term antibiotics. Some people had cysts or polyps, which blocked off parts of their sinuses, and created a pocket of infection. One woman, after reading my journal, made an appointment with Dr. Murray Grossan, who invented the Grossan Irrigation Machine, and he removed her cyst and the smell went away. One man did a sinus flush, and some white tofu-like chunks came out. The smell actually got worse for a while, then went back to normal. Many people, particularly the ones who have a strong odor that other people are revolted by, had no change at all after doing a Sinus Flush. One woman found out that the smell was coming from a cracked tooth that her dentist was unable to find, but was discovered by a different dentist. Some smells can come from liver or kidney diseases, or from acid reflux in the stomach. Some smells can come from having a bad mix of bacteria in the intestines, and somehow the smell comes out through the sinuses or lungs. There is a disease called atrophic rhinitis, which involves the decay of the mucus membranes in the sinuses. There are people who have been to multiple ENTs, and the doctors are completely mystified. Some of the problems may be caused by the same kind of bacteria that cause tonsilloliths, or tonsil stones. Finally, some patients have doctors who have diagnosed a yeast infection in the gut, which cause the smell which comes out through the sinuses or breath, and prescribed Fluconazole mg. This looks somewhat promising, but Fluconazole must be administered by a doctor at any rate. Here is the Medhelp thread for that:

Are you sure you want to delete this answer? Yes Sorry, something has gone wrong. Please read the complete proving of the remedy given below and see how many of the symptoms given are similar to the remedy, I am sure you will find too many similarities, the more the similarities the more the reason that person should take the remedy. Homeopathy is a science which is beyond the imagination of our conventional "Doctors" as they like to call themselves and have no concept of healing in the real sense. Sad and are ready to call Homeopathy plain water in their ignorance without ever experiencing the magical cures it brings about totally without any side effects or complications of any kind and by cures I mean complete cures without any complications whatsoever. Please read the proving below and do the person a big favour and cure him or her completely: Blondes with sluggish character and weak muscles. Great sensitiveness to all impressions. Sweating patient pulling blanket around him. Locally, it has special affinity to the respiratory mucous membrane, producing croupous catarrhal inflammation, profuse secretion; also easy perspiration. After abuse of Mercury. Infected sinus with pus forming. The tendency to suppuration is most marked, and has been a strong guiding symptom in practice. The lesions spread by the formation of small papules around the side of the old lesion. Chilliness, hypersensitiveness, splinter-like pains, craving for sour and strong things are very characteristic. Feeling as if wind were blowing on some part. The side of the body on which he lies at night becomes gradually insufferably painful; he must turn. Pellagra material doses required. Syphilis after antispecific gross medication. The slightest cause irritates him. Boring pain in the right temple and in root of nose every morning. Scalp sensitive and sore. Humid scald-head itching and burning. Cold sweat on head. Iritis, with pus in anterior chamber; purulent conjunctivitis, with marked chemosis, profuse discharge, great sensitiveness to touch and air. Eyes and lids red and inflamed. Pain in the eyes, as if pulled back into the head. Boring pain in upper bones of the orbits. Eyeballs sore to touch. Objects appear red and too large. Vision obscured by reading; field reduced one-half. Bright circles before eyes. Discharge of fetid pus from the ears. Whizzing and throbbing in the ears, with hardness of hearing. Deafness after scarlet fever. Pustules in auditory canal and auricle. Soreness of nostrils, with catarrhal troubles. Sneezes every time he goes into a cold, dry wind, with running from nose, later, thick, offensive discharge. Stopped up every time he goes out into cold air. Smell like old cheese. Hay-fever Hepar 1x will often start secretions and profuse drainage in stuffy colds. Middle of lower lip cracked. Vesicular erysipelas, with pricking in parts. Pains in bones of face, especially when being touched. Ulcers in corners of mouth. Shooting in jaw on opening mouth. Gums and mouth painful to touch and bleed readily. Quinsy, with impending suppuration. Stitches in throat extending to the ear when swallowing. Hawking up of mucus. Aversion to fat food. Frequent eructations, without taste or smell. Distention of stomach, compelling one to loosen the clothing. Heaviness and pressure in stomach after a slight meal. Hepatitis, hepatic abscess; abdomen distended, tense; chronic abdominal affections. Sour, white, undigested, fetid. Loss of power to expel even a soft stool. Seems as if some always remained. Greasy pellicle on urine. Bladder difficulties of old men Phos; Sulph; Copaiva. Ulcers externally on prepuce similar to chancre Nitr acid. Excitement and emission without amorous fancies. Figwarts of offensive odor. Humid soreness on genitals and between scrotum and thigh. Itching of pudenda and nipples, worse during menses. Menses late and scanty. Smells like old cheese Sanicula. Profuse perspiration at the climacteric Tilia; Jaborandi. Hoarseness, with loss of voice. Cough troublesome when walking. Cough excited whenever any part of the body gets cold or uncovered, or from eating anything cold. Croup with loose, rattling cough; worse in morning. Rattling, croaking cough; suffocative attacks; has to rise up and bend head backwards. Anxious, wheezing, moist breathing, asthma worse in dry cold air; better in damp. Nail of great toe painful on slight pressure. Papules prone to suppurate and extend. Suppurate with prickly pain. Unhealthy skin; every little injury suppurates. Chapped skin, with deep cracks on hands and feet. Ulcers, with bloody suppuration, smelling like old cheese. Ulcers very sensitive to contact, burning, stinging, easily bleeding. Sweats day and night without relief. Cannot bear to be uncovered; wants to be wrapped up warmly. Sticking or pricking in afflicted parts. Putrid ulcers, surrounded by little pimples. Great sensitiveness to slightest touch. Chronic and recurring urticaria. Constant offensive exhalation from the body. Dry heat at night. Profuse sweat; sour, sticky, offensive. Better, in damp weather, from wrapping head up, from warmth, after eating. Hepar antidotes bad effects from Mercury, Iodine, Potash, Cod-liver oil. Removes the weakening effects of ether. The higher potencies may abort suppuration, the lower promote it. If it is necessary to hasten it, give 2x. Please use it in 30 potency three times a day half an hour before meals works best on an empty stomach, avoid Chocolates, Mints, Coffee, Red Meat, Alcoholic and Carbonated drinks, Spicy Rich Food while taking any Homeopathic remedies, and keep the medicines away from direct sunlight, heat strong smells and perfumes and do not store them in the fridge. And please do let me know about the outcome, rather tell all of us here about it, so everyone can benefit from the experience especially the people who call themselves "Real Doctors":
