Nothing illustrates that more than the material in this article. For years I read the second verse of the book of Genesis in English without ever understanding the most remarkable subtlety hidden there. Oh, I noticed the language and I thought it was a little odd to say: And the earth was without form and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. How did he move? Did He walk, or swim? Did He sort of float in the air? In what way did He move, and why is that significant? I would pause and think about the distinctive choice of words, but I would quickly move on to more pressing issues. Only after I learned to read in Hebrew did the marvelous meaning of that word moved come through. I actually stumbled across the meaning in a commentary once, where it was rendered as brooded. But, It still did not register because for me to brood usually meant to worry or fret. That made no sense at all. Why would the Creator worry over the face of the waters. I discovered the word is also used in Deuteronomy Suddenly the meaning became clear for me. It was as if a watt light bulb was being turned on in my head. I knew I had witnessed that very thing many times. Many years ago we had a flock of ducks in our back yard. There was a pond and we enjoyed having the ducks around. They were relaxing and entertaining to watch. It was especially interesting in the spring when the hens started to nest. They were a domestic mallard mix. They looked like mallards except the shape of their heads. The drakes had the bright colors but the hens were just a mottled brownish color. Her markings made it easy to be virtually invisible when nesting. She had a proclivity for sitting absolutely motionless on the nest, settled in and flattened out, with their head withdrawn and lying flat into their breast feathers so as not to present a typical duck profile. You could absolutely look directly at her and not see her unless you were really paying close attention. Though normally shy and skittish and unwilling to get too close, during nesting season she seemed to have nerves of steel. Only when the threat was sure and imminent, or when she was being harassed for her eggs would she abandon her nest. We, of course, did harass the hens occasionally in order to take some of the eggs to keep the duckling population in control. A hen could lay an egg a day until she accumulated as many as eggs, before starting to set. You could tell when the hens began nesting because while they were normally with the flock, they simply vanished from sight. We knew then it was time to go nest hunting. Our yard was just too small to tolerate very many ducks, so each spring we searched for their nests so we could take some of the eggs. When a hen began to set it was remarkable to see her on the nest, keeping her silent vigil for days and weeks, not moving a muscle. Only rarely would you notice her leave for a few minutes to eat or drink. She would masterfully cover the nest with leaves and grass to make it virtually invisible and to keep it warm in her brief absence. But soon she would be back for the next shift. Incubation time was about a month. I never counted the days - I just waited to be surprised. Finally after days on end something seemed different. As I made the morning rounds, she no longer was snuggled down quietly in the nest. Something was changed about her posture. She now seemed to be sitting higher in the nest, almost hovering over it. Her head, no more hidden, was raised erect with pride, her wings slightly spread to cover more of the nest than before. As I look more closely, I could begin to see tiny pairs of inquisitive coal black eyes peering out curiously at me from beneath her wings, punctuated here and there by a small yellow and black bill. It was clear that the eggs were beginning to hatch. She stayed in that posture for the next few hours or perhaps into the next day, until all the eggs hatched and the whole troop marched ceremoniously for the nearest water like so many tin soldiers. She would strut with pride having successfully accomplished the very purpose of her existence, obviously now aware of her changing role as teacher and protector. But during the time she waited patiently over the nest, waiting for all the eggs to be hatched, a careful observer would notice something - something very subtle. Bird experts say this careful motion is intended to stir the air and keep the temperature just right for the new ducklings. Those precision movements reflect the meticulous focus and care that she now lavishes on the tiny downy creatures. It was exactly this scene that is described in the very first verse of Genesis, when the Spirit of God brooded or fluttered over the face of the waters. What a magnificent metaphor this is for the meticulous planning, the tireless effort, the care, and the love that was exhibited at that moment. In taking that very first step to prepare the earth as a sort of nest for His own children, He made it into the ideal place for man to begin the adventure of life, to live out his collective human existence, to learn the lessons of history, and to grow into maturity and wisdom, until finally a time comes when has taken on the character of his Parent, and the whole earth can be united in peace and harmony in the messianic kingdom. We have cause for optimism about the destiny of man. God will not let us fail. Though we may have many bitter lessons to learn, He has great things in mind for man in the future. With that kind of resource behind us, how can we fail? So the Holy Spirit moving in our services is evidenced by the fruit that comes from what we have experienced in our services and have implemented in our daily lives.

Learning how to flow with the Holy Spirit is important for any church and Christian today. Water is one of the symbols or emblems for the Holy Spirit. Jesus says that the rivers He is referring to flow out of the heart of those who believe in Him. This passage does not leave us in any doubt about what is being spoken of. Verse 39 clearly tells us that this is speaking of the Holy Spirit. Flow can be defined as: When water becomes static, we no longer call it a river, but a dam, lake or pond! This important part of His ministry shows movement. Teach the people in the church to be mature with the move of the Holy Spirit rather than shutting it down out of fear of excess. The Holy Spirit has ways of moving that we need to become sensitive to and learn to flow with. We need to learn how to flow with Him, to be sensitive to His flowing rather than trying to swim against the currents and go upstream. You can go with Him or against Him. Many people have no idea how to flow with Him. Many churches and ministers are not sensitive to His flow. Often what we do is: We want the Holy Spirit to move in the direction we lay down, but that is not how it works. He is the river WE must flow with. This takes spiritual sensitivity. It takes being able to recognise where He is flowing and to respond to that. In order to do that, the people trying to flow with Him need to have a relationship with Him and have regular fellowship with Him. People who spend very little time in prayer and in the Word of God end up being more naturally minded and less spiritually sensitive. Flowing with the Holy Spirit requires spiritual sensitivity which is developed through ongoing personal relationship with God. Once we recognise where He is flowing, we need to respond. Often people want to sit and observe, or just sit back and not participate. What that causes is an obstacle to His flow. When you put an obstacle in a river's path, it blocks it and the river has to go around. When enough obstacles are laid down, it totally blocks the flow of the river, causing a dam. When a dam is built, the flow stops. People have stood in the way of the flow of the Holy Spirit by not responding to Him. In some places there are so many people not flowing and creating obstacles that the entire flow gets shut down. This is why He often has to go around them or gets stopped altogether. And what wisdom is this which is given to Him, that such mighty works are performed by His hands! And are not His sisters here with us? Then He went about the villages in a circuit, teaching. Jesus did all His works by the anointing of the Spirit Acts Here we see that He could do no mighty works. In other words He was prevented or blocked from doing them. This means the anointing, the Holy Spirit could not do what He wanted to do. The people were blocking Him. There are some important lessons to learn from this passage about unbelief, but that is for another teaching. In many churches the Move of the Holy Spirit is either non-existent or shallow. People are doing things that are just flesh, not Him. We need to be hungry for the true, hungry for the full manifestation of Him, not just man, flesh and the ways of man. There is a big difference between God doing it and man doing it! Some churches have learned to flow with the Spirit of God. Just like there are different rivers, with different strengths and flows, so there is diversity in the Holy Spirit. There can be different streams that come together and make up a river. The Holy Spirit has diversity. There are healing anointings, moves of peace, joy, praise and prayer etc. I am not talking about man calling a prayer meeting, or a time of Praise. At times like these, if people will respond they will enter a flow and move of the Spirit of God that will bring tremendous blessing. What do I mean by respond? Well it is simple really. If a move of the Holy Spirit comes in in worship, and we all just sit there and look at each other, we are not responding! The rock becomes an obstacle and the river either has to go around it or is stopped by it. Go with the programme or respond to Him. If there is an anointing to praise, then we respond by joy, shouting, praises etc. Flowing with this anointing can bring greater blessing than just sticking to your programme. We see this so little in churches, that what I am saying may even be completely foreign to some people reading it! Often people only have learned ONE way to respond to Him, so no matter what they sense, they respond that one way. Some have learned to shout "€" if the Spirit moves in hilarity they shout; if He moves in soberness "€" they shout. If He moves in healing or in revelation "€" they shout. Because they are limited in their scope of understanding and expressing what He is doing. On the other hand, some have learned to sit in silence, very still and very quiet. There is defiantly a place for this, but if the Holy Spirit is moving in joy and loud praise, that is NOT the time for it! When God told the people to march around Jericho, there was a time He commanded them to shout! If the Holy Spirit is moving in peace and intimate worship, then responding with joy and shouting is the wrong response. We need to be able to tell what He is doing and flow with that! Going a direction He is not going is like trying to paddle your boat upstream instead of flowing with the direction the river is going. Some people just want to laugh and cry every time the anointing and presence of God comes in, and they miss His moving in peace and intimacy. No matter what the Holy Spirit tries to do, they just want to sit inert and inactive, not moving. There is a time for that, and when it is the time, then doing it is right. However if The Holy Spirit is moving in joy and praise, then that is NOT the time to be quite and inert, claiming you are just enjoying His presence. If the Holy Spirit is moving in joy and the entire church just wants to sit in silence, then they are going against His flow and will block it. If the Holy Spirit is moving in Joyful praise, jubilation and shouting and you only want to respond to His presence with sitting quietly and in peace, then you are missing His flow. The people who always sit silent when the Holy Spirit moves are also missing it just as much as the ones who shout all the time. Often one group wants to criticise the other " either for being too loud or for being too quiet. The key is understanding they both have a place and that we must ALL do both at the right time. The key is in knowing what is right at what time. That takes learning to understand His flow. Learn to tell the difference between the move of the Holy Spirit of peace and that of joy. Between a spirit of prayer and a healing anointing. This takes developing sensitivity to HIS flow. It takes spending time with Him in prayer, developing closeness of fellowship and relationship. People who never spend time in the Word and in prayer will never learn to flow with Him. However the flow of the Holy Spirit comes out of the heart, not the head. It is not an intellectual thing. This is the difference between following your head or your heart! You have to begin to move forward In Him in your personal life in order to begin to step into these flows of the Spirit in a corporate setting. Spending time developing your relationship with God through prayer and the Word will increase your sensitivity to your heart, instead of always looking to your head. Is the anointing here to laugh, or heal, to shout, sing, or kneel? As a result they only learn that one flow of the Spirit and miss out on the rest. Some people get uncomfortable with quietness " so every time things get quiet they want to jump up and give a tongue etc. The modern church knows very little about sitting quietly in His presence. We must interpret the right flow " the right direction. Learn the ways of the Spirit " in your personal life and in our churches and ministries. Chapter 4 : Moving In The Spirit

If a move of the Holy Spirit comes in in worship, and we all just sit there and look at each other, we are not responding! Not responding is 'not moving or flowing' and is the same as a rock that stands in the path of a river that is trying to flow.

Dreams Prophecies Again, I know some people freak out once you attempt to step into this kind of supernatural realm with the Holy Spirit. But this is where each Christian has to make their own choice as to whether or not they want to tread into these kinds of deeper waters with the Lord. You can either learn how to do all of this with the Holy Spirit, or you can choose to let this supernatural realm go and just stay on the path that you are already walking on if you have never had any of this kind of activity before with the Holy Spirit. Many of you will know exactly what I will be talking about below, as you have already stepped into this realm with the Holy Spirit and have learned how to play this kind of game with Him. However, if this is all new to some of you because you have never been taught any of this in the churches you have been raised up in, then you will need to make a decision with the Lord as to whether or not you will want this supernatural realm opened up for you by God the Father. If after reading the captions below you decide you would like God to open up this supernatural realm for you, then all you have to do is go direct to God the Father in prayer and ask Him to allow the Holy Spirit to become very active in any of these 8 different ways in which He uses to communicate to us. Tell God that He has a solid, green light from you to open up this realm if it will be His perfect will to do so at your present level of spiritual development with Him. If you put that kind of special request before God, then He will take you very seriously and He will then very gradually lead you into this realm and from there, the Holy Spirit will start to move in some of these different areas for you. The Holy Spirit will also show you how to discern when it really is Him communicating to you as versus when it is just your own emotions or imagination talking to you. Now I will take you into the 8 different ways the Holy Spirit will use to supernaturally communicate to us in this life. Here is the specific verse where this piece of revelation is being given to us by the Lord: And if the Holy Spirit can bear witness in our human spirits on that issue, then I believe He can also bear witness in our spirits with other things as well. And then the next verse will prove that to you. The apostle Paul gives us additional revelation when he says that his conscience was also bearing witness in the Holy Spirit. In other words, the Holy Spirit was bearing a good witness for Paul in his conscience, which I believe is part of our human spirit. Giving evidence, attesting, confirming, confessing, bearing record, speaking well of, giving a good report, testifying, affirming what one has seen or heard, presenting the gospel with evidence The first verse above where the Holy Spirit is bearing witness with our spirits that we are saved lines up with some of the above definitions from Mr. Hayford such as confirming, attesting, confessing, and bearing record. In other words, the Holy Spirit is confirming in our spirits that we are saved and that we are now children of God. All of a sudden you receive supernatural illumination, supernatural enlightenment on what a Scripture verse may mean. When the Holy Spirit communicates something directly to you through this inner witness, it will be a knowing without any shadow of a doubt. After you start to receive these kinds of inner knowings from the Holy Spirit, you will soon learn how to discern when one is really coming in from Him, or when one is just coming in from your own natural imagination and emotions. A true, inner witness from the Holy Spirit will come out of your spirit – it will not come out of your head, your imagination, or your emotions. If you get a strong, gut feeling not to get on a plane, and you then decide to heed that warning and hours later that plane ends up crashing, then you know that gut warning was coming in direct from the Holy Spirit since you do not have the ability to see into the future like He can. My take on the above two verses is this: What I have personally found out in this realm is that the Holy Spirit will communicate knowledge to you through this inner knowing, through this inner witness. When you receive this inner knowing about something specific, you will not hear an audible voice or hear any type of inner words coming up on you. For instance, say you have been meditating on a particular Scripture verse, but you just cannot seem to get the correct interpretation on what it may mean or how it can apply to your life. And then all of a sudden one day, the Holy Spirit gives you a strong, inner knowing as to exactly what this verse means and how it can apply to your personal life. What the Holy Spirit will do is transmit the interpretation of that verse through the inner knowing. It is His job to actually open up the meaning of Scripture for you so you can understand what you are reading and from there, how to get some of these incredible spiritual truths worked into your daily walk with the Lord. And not only can the Holy Spirit communicate to you the meaning of certain Scripture verses through this inner witness – this inner knowing, but He can also do this on many of the other things in your daily life as well. He can give you strong, inner knowings on the following: Who you should be marrying in this life When you should take the next new job God will want to give you How to solve any problems you may be having in school or at work How to handle a problem or roadblock that may have occurred in your marriage How to handle all of the problems that will occur if you have just lost your job When to move in on someone to witness to them There is just an infinite number of things that the Holy Spirit can communicate to you on so you can try and get through this life in one piece and try to handle all of the problems that may come your way. And for the most part, we believe that a lot of these words of knowledge and wisdom will come to you through this inner witness, this inner knowing. That is why it is extremely important that each Christian learn how to receive these inner witnesses from the Holy Spirit, so they can then receive actual communication from Him as to exactly what He wants them to be doing with some of the specific issues that will be occurring in their daily lives. The ability to pick up these inner witnesses, these inner knowings from the Holy Spirit will only come to you through a process of trial and error. Your mind will receive the inner knowing out of your spirit. And if it is truly from the Holy Spirit, then you can totally depend on it and from there, act on it if any kind of action will need to be taken. The Word of God The next way that the Holy Spirit will communicate knowledge to you is sometimes by giving you a direct verse from Scripture. And when you see this particular Scripture verse, you will see the meaning of the verse and how it will answer the particular problem or dilemma you may be dealing with. And if there is a particular Scripture verse that will answer a problem you may be dealing with, then there is a very good chance that is how the Holy Spirit will help you solve the problem – by giving you the actual Scripture verse that will solve the problem. I cannot tell you how many times over the course of my life that the Holy Spirit will bring back up to my remembrance a certain Scripture verse that will solve or answer the problem I may be dealing with. I have actually come to the conclusion that if there is an actual verse from the Bible that will solve the problem, that will be the first thing the Holy Spirit will want to give you. This is why it is so important for each and every Christian to spend as much quality time as they can in loading up their mind with the Word. Again, here is the verse that will show us that it is the job of the Holy Spirit to lead us in this life, along with another verse showing us that Jesus Himself was also willing to be led by the Holy Spirit when He was walking down here on our earth in the flesh. When it comes to these basic leadings, some people have different terms to describe it when it does come in on them from the Holy Spirit. These leadings from the Holy Spirit can be anything from a very gentle nudging to something that could be much stronger. When you get a real strong leading to do something specific, it will feel like God has His big hand on the small of your back pushing you forward. You will feel the wind at your back to move in that certain direction. You will feel or sense a very strong unction, a very strong prompting to move in that direction. However, if God does not want you to move in that certain direction, then you will feel or sense no leading at all from the Holy Spirit. There will be no inner witness to move forward. You will have no peace to move in that direction. Again, being able to pick up these kinds of leadings from the Holy Spirit is something that you will learn through a process of trial and error with Him. After you have received quite a few of these leadings from the Holy Spirit, you can then become quite adept at being able to tell when a leading is coming in directly from Him or when it is coming in from your own natural desires and emotions. Check in Your Spirit In addition to the Holy Spirit leading you to go in a certain direction, He can also do just the exact opposite. He can tell you not to move in a certain direction, especially if there is going to be any kind of danger right around the corner. It is His way of telling you to stop right where you are at and not to proceed any further. For instance, many people will get a check in their spirit when they are about ready to board a plane that is going to crash. Some people will then heed that check and not get on the plane. Others will ignore it, thinking that it is their own natural emotions and fear and that it is not really coming in from the Holy Spirit. That is why it is so vitally important that each Christian learn how to pick up these kinds of inner warnings from the Holy Spirit – so you can keep yourself from being seriously injured, if not possibly killed. How many people have died in car accidents and plane crashes – all because they chose to ignore that check in their spirit not to get in that car or plane that day. These checks in your spirit can also help prevent abductions, assaults, car accidents, plane crashes, taking the wrong jobs, marrying the wrong people, getting hooked up with the wrong people in this life, etc. As you can see, there can be an infinite number of situations where the Holy Spirit will tell you not to keep going in that specific direction. Here is a very good verse from the Bible where the Holy Spirit did exactly that for the apostles: And if the Holy Spirit was forbidding some of the apostles to move in a certain direction back in the beginning of the NT, then He can still do the exact same thing for all us in this day and age. And one of the ways that He will let us know not to move in a certain direction is by giving us that check in our spirits. The other thing the Holy Spirit can do in this realm besides giving you a good, strong, inner check in your spirit, is that He may take it one more step further and He may then start to churn your stomach. Your stomach will start to churn, and you will feel like you have a million butterflies swirling around in your stomach. You will get a very queasy and uneasy feeling about going any further in the direction you are looking to move into. If the Holy Spirit takes that check in your spirit and moves it into an actual manifestation where He is literally churning your stomach, then it would be my very strong recommendation that you heed this kind of intense warning from Him, and immediately stop and turn away from the direction you were initially going to take. I remember a girl I used to work with saved herself quite a bit of trouble as a result of heeding that check in her spirit when she was on vacation one day up in Canada. About 10 years ago, she went on vacation to Toronto, Canada. Her and her friend were getting ready to get on a trolley type train car. Right before they were getting ready to board the train, she said she got a very uneasy and queasy feeling about getting on this train. She said she had a strong check in her spirit not to board that train. Knowing that this could be a direct warning from the Holy Spirit, she chose to listen to it and decided not to board the train. When they got home about hours later, they turned on the TV and saw that the train they would have gotten on had been involved in a wreck on the tracks that were up in the air. Apparently, the train somehow had got derailed and had partially come off of the tracks. It took hours to finally rescue all of the people who were still on board. Several people were killed in the accident. These checks in your spirit can be major lifesavers depending on what the Holy Spirit is telling you not to do. Again, this is another one that you will learn through a process of trial and error with Him. As with the above other ways He will communicate to you, you can become quite adept in knowing when a check in your spirit is really coming in from Him, or when it is coming in from your own natural fear and emotions.

Quickenings Another very interesting way that the Holy Spirit will use to communicate something to you is through an actual quickening. For instance, if you are reading the Bible, you may find a verse or two that will jump off the pages at you and hit you right between the eyes. Whenever the Holy Spirit quickens something like this to you, this means you are to grab a hold of it and examine it to see exactly what the message is that He is trying to convey to you. If you are dealing with a specific problem, He may quicken a verse to you that will help solve your problem. You can also have words from preachers jump at you. You could be driving down the road in your car listening to a pastor teach on the radio when all of a sudden something he says jumps right out at you through the radio. Another area where this could occur at is at your local Christian bookstore. You will be in the bookstore browsing all of the books in there when all of a sudden a particular book will jump off the shelf at you. When that happens, there is a very good chance that is the Holy Spirit quickening that particular book to you. If that should ever happen to you, you should pick up the book to see what it is all about. There may be information in there that will help you in your walk with the Lord, and the Holy Spirit may want you to buy the book so you can add it to your storehouse of knowledge in the Lord. I cannot tell you how many times He has personally done this to me over the years. And every time He does it, I always end up buying the book because there is key information and knowledge in that book that I needed to have for my own personal growth in the Lord. I know many of you have had these kinds of experiences with the Holy Spirit.

Chapter 5 : About Spirit Movers | Sarasota & Bradenton Moving and Storage Company

The earth was formless and void, and darkness was over the surface of the deep, and the Spirit of God was moving over the surface of the waters.

The Spirit dons his costume and travels across rooftops, saving a woman before connecting with Officer Liebowitz Frank Miller. The Spirit and Liebowitz find the wounded Sussman. Sand and her husband Mahmoud Eric Balfour had earlier fled with chests they recovered from the water. Shot at, Sand escaped, leaving one chest behind which was retrieved by Octopus. The Octopus kills Liebowitz, and his cloned henchmen attack the Spirit. His accomplice Silken Floss Scarlett Johansson flees with the chest as the two arch-nemeses fight. The next morning, the Spirit is awakened by his lover, Dr. He is undeterred by his gunshot wounds. The locket contains pictures of a much-younger Colt and Sand, and had been his gift to her. In a secret lair, the Octopus and Silken Floss discover their chest contains the Golden Fleece, not the Blood of Heracles, as expected. Sand and Mahmoud visit an underworld figure who sold them the location of the treasure, and it is implied he gave the location to the Octopus. While arresting her, he reveals he knows she is looking for the Golden Fleece, and she shoves him through a window, which he survives. Eventually, the Octopus injected himself with the serum, but he needs the blood of Heracles, a demi-god, to perfect the formula. After recovering, the Spirit stumbles to the city docks and collapses into the water, where the Lorelei Jaime King, the Angel of Death, confronts him. He initially submits but changes his mind after remembering the women he has known. As he swims to the surface, she vows to have him. Sand attempts to convince Floss to leave the Octopus before he kills her. Floss gains the upper hand and the Octopus asks Floss for the vase of blood. As the Spirit suddenly materializes, Floss drives off, unable to take a side. The Octopus is maimed; as he desperately tries to drink the Blood of Heracles, Sand shoots the vase. The Spirit rises, shown to be wearing a bullet-proof vest, and blows up the Octopus with a grenade while Sand uses the Golden Fleece to protect them from the explosion. The Spirit gives Sand her locket back. They kiss as Ellen looks on, feeling betrayed. The old flames bid each other goodbye and the Spirit convinces Dolan to let Sand go in gratitude for saving him and the world. Meanwhile, the Spirit and Ellen make amends and embrace. A young cop who was killed on the job is mysteriously reborn as a masked crime-fighter with an eye for the ladies. Jackson as The Octopus: A former coroner turned psychotic super-villain who plans to bring all of Central City to its knees and will kill anyone who stands in his way. Scarlett Johansson as Silken Floss: A femme fatale scientist and innocent accomplice to the Octopus, only slightly more sane than he is.
