The Lopsided Triangle Having survived his first experience on the battlefield, Getaway eventually discovered that he showed several of the Signs of Affinity , seemingly-supernatural traits that supposedly marked him as one of the few Transformers "worthy" enough to carry the Matrix of Leadership. Twenty Plus One Over the years, these traits snowballed into a toxic variation on the Cybertronian personality disorder known as primus apotheosis: Arm the Lonely Stuck in a trench with three complainers. Getaway is planning his escape even as we speak. Blaster A few centuries later, Getaway joined the Autobot Diplomatic Corps , a front organization for the covert Special Operations division. The two became close friends, and Getaway would often playfully jab "bomp" Skids on the chin, an in-joke that Skids found patronizing. When it became clear that Tyrest had become unhinged and needed to be removed from the Autobot ranks, Prowl ordered Getaway and Skids to hunt the Chief Justice down, equipping the pair with a nudge gun would implant within Tyrest the impulse to resign from his position. After they tracked Tyrest to his secret staging ground- Luna 1 , Skids successfully made the shot. Eventually, Getaway got a full picture of what Tyrest was planning, discovering that he planned to build and activate a " universal killswitch " that would terminate any Transformers that were constructed cold. Filling in the Blanks They say that first impressions are always the hardest to forget. The Divided Self Skids had followed protocol after escaping, wiping his own memories, and thus was unable to recognize his old partner. Unfortunately, the Chief Justice had managed to reverse-engineer a "weapon of mass-suggestion" from the thought bullet that was used on him, paralyzed the Autobots with it, and activated the killswitch. Having been constructed cold himself, Getaway spasmed in agony on the ground as the killswitch began its lethal work. This Calamitous Life The next day, Rodimus and Getaway ventured back to the initial spark "hot spot" the Lost Light crew had discovered upon first landing on Luna-1, only to discover it had gone dark and would not reignite. The Sound of Breaking Glass You say that now, but just wait After Ultra Magnus had been left in charge of the Lost Light, he and Getaway were summoned by Brainstorm to one of its shuttle bays, discussing how Magnus was attempting to "soften his image. Getaway was awed by the very fact that they even had a piece of Metroplex aboard, let alone what it was currently doing. Going from what Tyrest had once upon a time told Getaway about Titans being interconnected, Brainstorm theorized that Metroplex was somehow communicating with them and nudging the Lost Light in a certain direction. Into the Abyss This proved to be the moment that Getaway had his epiphany: Disembarking at a nearby drydock simply led them in a circle, and the group arrived back at the Rodpod in time for it to explode, courtesy of an Ammonite stowaway. After an attempt to interrogate the bomber Ammonite " " which ended with the questionee self-destructing " " the group of Autobots encountered the Camiens Nautica and Chromia ; The Dead Are Not Enough Getaway defused the tension by pointing out the two newcomers were Autobots. He, Whirl , and Skids engaged the Ammonite swarm while the others went to meet with Windblade. The Becoming When billions of Ammonites invaded, Getaway joined in the defense of Cybertron as Bumblebee led a team to face Shockwave , the mastermind behind the whole affair. The pair came up with a plan to blackmail him into surrendering his position by tricking him into violating the confidential vote he had held to determine if he should remain as captain, but he failed to take the bait. Towards Peace Then it became clear that Megatron , who had chosen to join the Autobots at the conclusion of the "Dark Cybertron" crisis, would receive a suspended sentence and co-captaincy of the Lost Light. The Lopsided Triangle Getaway wears a literal shadow to aid in literary foreshadowing. Getaway gave Tailgate an affectionate "bomp" on the chin, unaware of Cyclonus storming out of the bar in disapproval. All of this was interrupted when the spaceship began to vanish, and the pair found themselves drifting in space in the Rodpod with the other Autobot castaways. Getaway admitted to being a M. This left Getaway as part of the remaining crew, who proceeded to stumble upon a destroyed Lost Light. Twenty Plus One They split up to investigate and Getaway and Skids, together again, searched the wreckage. En route, they talked about their issues with Megatron and that they worried they would stop hating him because his death toll was too big to process. Things took a macabre turn when they caught up with Riptide and found a huge pile of mutilated corpses of their fellow crewmembers, corpses that indicated the Decepticon Justice Division had been through. Any crew member that would not be shot with the "nudge gun" and forgot all about the conversation. Getaway arranged to go fishing for Legislator parts in the oil lake with Tailgate 50 points for a head! When Nautica said Rung had implied he ghostwrote it "just now", Getaway passive-aggressively insulted Rung as boring and tried to "bomp" his way out of it when Skids objected. It was just a joke, Skids, geez! Okay, I hear the NZ accent Later, a fatigued Getaway was found resting by Nightbeat and both of them found a panicked, screaming Ravage. After Rodimus and Megatron accidentally took care of the entire infestation, Getaway joined the rest of the crew for a disco party. While pleased with the ease of this particular manipulation, Getaway then shared his thoughts on their next interviewee, the temporarily awake Thunderclash, believing him to be nothing more than a glorified trophy cabinet. Indeed, Getaway would later scoff at how readily the popular Autobot agreed to the plans for a mutiny. In order to finish the ceremony Getaway told Tailgate that he would need to prove his commitment with a spectacular demonstration of his love. Getaway later met with Whirl and Atomizer after Whirl started having second thoughts about the plan. The Lopsided Triangle Oh, he will. After Chromedome used his mnemosurgery skills to find out who put Tailgate up to it, Ultra Magnus arrested both Getaway and Atomizer. Getaway had Atomizer contact General Neech of the Galactic Council to inform him they were stranding Megatron and were free to move in. He contacted the Galactic Council to try and amend their agreement to allow for the safety of the stranded Autobots, but the only response the Council was prepared to give him was that they made no such promise to do so and refused his attempts to deal with them. Filling in the Blanks In spite of his braggado, he may have felt guilty about sacrificing so many Autobots. Getaway was briefly alarmed when a distress signal came in, though when he learned it was only from the Frayians , he claimed that aiding them would only be a "distraction" now that their goal was in sight and that was why they had gotten rid of Rodimus. An incensed Thunderclash snapped at Getaway, and then the transmission from Rodimus that Getaway had been afraid of was broadcast to everyone gathered, announcing the stranded crew mates would soon be executed by the Decepticon Justice Division and that Getaway was responsible. The panicked Getaway deleted the rest of the transmission, claiming it to be fake and asked for everyone but Atomizer and Thunderclash to clear the room. Unable to come up with a convincing lie to discredit the transmission, once Thunderclash declared that he was going to round up volunteers for a rescue mission, Atomizer incapacitated him with an arrow and Getaway then emptied his nudge gun onto Thunderclash, knocking him into stasis, before unloading a final blast onto the eavesdropping Riptide. Sunder was happy to help He prepared his gun, but was decked across the face with a glass by an invisible Mirage. Full Circle Getaway confronted Riptide, who had apparently been unaffected by the nudge gun, seemingly due to the gun running dry after repeated use on Thunderclash. His ego bruised, Getaway decided to have Mirage and the Protectobots placed in memory loops as well. In order to pay Sunder for the arrangement, he again blasted Riptide with the nudge gun, intending to make him forget how to transform, and threw him in the scraplet-filled oil reservoir. Filling in the Blanks He almost immediately went on to talking about the need to hire a new, outside security agent, thinking of offering Star Saber protection and making the crew change course to collect him despite being extremely close to Cyberutopia , only to find that sissy Atomizer asking if he had to be so cruel when he defeated people. Getaway made a note to fix him for that. Thunderclash, in particular, would be one of his grateful constituents. When Getaway began a speech to Froid about his own worthiness citing his Matrix affinity, among other things , the psychotherapist tried to get a rise out of him by saying this was an early sign of Primus apotheosis. To re-establish his dominance of the ship and shut Atomizer up, Getaway took his compatriot to the medical ward and forced him to execute a Protectobot, on grounds that this would prevent them from combining if they escaped. When the deed was done, he informed Atomizer that he had now "gone too far" just as Getaway himself had. Terrified, Getaway vainly tried to sway Thunderclash back to his side and was decked for his trouble. Star Saber came to his rescue and slaughtered his way through the escapees. For this, Getaway killed him by tearing his body apart and demanded Sunder make his security team believe Thunderclash had done the deed. Having lost everything in his new position with the Grand Architect and his dream of finding Cyberutopia in one fell swoop, Getaway prepared to take himself, Rodimus, and the ship out with one blow, accusing his enemy of feigning his emotions to justify meting out revenge on Getaway. As Rodimus and Cyclonus struggled to douse the fire, Getaway regained consciousness and prepared to stab Cyclonus in the back with his own sword. Believing that Primus had come to finally bestow the title of Primehood upon him, Getaway took his hand. Uprising Snapper referred to Stiletto as making "like Getaway". Cultural Appropriation Commercial appearances Getaway, Slapdash, and Joyride were shocked to discover that the Decepticons had developed Powermaster technology as well when they encountered Dreadwind and Darkwing while out for a drive. The three Autobots used their Nebulan partners to transform to robot mode and fight back. They were soon joined by Optimus Prime and his own partner, Hi-Q who provided additional firepower against the Decepticons. He was quickly corrected by another Autobot, and Quickswitch made use of his many modes to help the Autobots overpower the Decepticons. They were only saved from certain doom when Optimus Prime arrived and drove both of the Decepticons off. End of the Road Toys.
