Dec 27, Jennifer rated it it was ok Meh. There were some moderately useful things, and some mildly humorous things. There were also borderline offensive things - pretend to be a foreign student by skipping deodorant comes to mind. The decorate your dorm room ideas were overly complicated. Check the local Goodwill or dumpster dive at move out would have been better advice. But that is minor. The hook up, date three people at once by lying, not open honesty or exploring a polyamorous lifestyle Meh. The hook up, date three people at once by lying, not open honesty or exploring a polyamorous lifestyle and walk of shame advice is cringe worthy. Maybe that would prove entertaining as a slap stick bit in a movie I dunno reading it is just like what the hell. Discussion of consent in sexual encounters would be good to add. There needs to be mention of consent with the person actually involved. Mind games benefit no one. A lot of this seems like it is way more than 11 years old. I get that it is intended to be somewhat comedic - well then it should at least actually be funny when it is offensive. I feel like I could give this book more benefit of the doubt, and in other areas yeah it was more like 3 stars ok - but the sections mentioned, particularly about international students and casual sex - are too glaring for me to do so. Oh, and the only mention of birth control is hiding it from your parents when they visit. No mention of prepping it for the hookups or serial concurrent dating. And the book goes over a hockey puck to the eye, but not condoms or STDs, even in passing? It was something to read in print on a rainy day. Has a catchy title for the bookshelf. Going to be sold to Half Price shortly. I hope the Mooch comes through because I really do want to read this book even though my college days are long over. I enjoyed this book very much. Parts of it were really funny.

The Worst-Case Scenario Survival Handbook: College: College by Jennifer Worick, Joshua Piven The college years are a time of noble pursuit of knowledge, self-betterment and unending peril! Students are at risk from the moment they receive their acceptance letters.

Heading to college this fall? A square, stackable milk crate; a cloth placemat; an old magazine; 6 large car-wash sponges; heavy upholstery thread; an upholstery sewing needle; and scissors Turn the crate upside down. Create the base of the cushion: Place the magazine on the top of the bottom of the crate. Arrange 4 sponges on top of the magazine: Lay the sponges next to one another to form the cushion. You may have to use the scissors to trim them to fit squarely to the top of the crate. Lay the remaining sponges on top of the existing row: Create a second layer of cushion by centering 2 sponges on top of the first layer. Anchor the placemat to the crate: Position the placemat on top of the sponges. Using the needle and thread, secure both shorter sides of the placemat to the crate by hooking a single loop stitch through the edge and around a crate grid square. Push down the placemat: Compress the sponges until the longer sides of the fabric reach the edges of the crate. Sew the placemat to the crate: Secure the placemat with a continuous loop stitch around the perimeter of the crate. Cut the manila folder into a rectangle 9 inches x 12 inches or a square 10 inches x 10 inches to make a stencil. Cut the t-shirts into pieces: Lay t-shirts on a flat surface for cutting. Put the stencil on the center of the t-shirt body. Trace the outline of the stencil with the marker on the t-shirt. Lift the stencil off the shirt. With the scissors, cut through both layers of the t-shirt, following the drawn outline. Perform this step on all of the shirts. Arrange pieces like a curtain: On the floor or on your bed, arrange the pieces next to each other in a pattern you like. Use as many pieces as you need to create a covering a little bit longer and wider than your window. Collect your horizontal rows into piles and set them down next to your sewing machine. Sew the pieces together: Sew front face to front face. Make sure any design on the t-shirt is right-side up. Once you have sewn the window covering to the desired size, cut the hem tape to size for the perimeter of the covering. Iron on the hem tape along the sides so the tape wraps around the edge, covering the front and back of the edge. Prepare the curtain for hanging: Facing the front of your window piece, fold back 2 inches of the top edge to form the place to string the picture-hanging wire through. Cut the wire 1 foot longer than the width of your window opening. Thread the wire through the pipeline you created. With your hand, screw in the eyehole screws at either edge of the window. Hang the window covering by wrapping 6 inches of excess wire through the eyehole hooks. An empty, transparent jewel case from a cd; a photo; and scissors. Detach the cover of the jewel case at its hinge. Re-attach the cover, wrong side out: This will form a wide v-shape that can stand up on a flat surface. Insert your photo on top of the outer half of the case: Use the scissors to trim the photo to fit. Add colored paper behind the photo for a more sophisticated look.
